MOBS CLAMOR: 'FIGHT JAPAN!'

PARIS BECOMES GERMANY'S ALLY IN TRADE FIELDS

Commission Born at Berlin Parley.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, Germany, Sept. 28.—Berlin, the financier, and Germany, the manufacturer, became economic allies today.

A permanent mixed commission to end the economic activities of the two nations, which have been at sword's points for centuries, was born in the German capital after two days of discussion between Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand of France and Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany.

An Economic Intimacy.

The first result of the first official visit to Berlin by French government officials since 1870 was, of course, the resolution, which will strive for a better understanding between the two countries and relieve a perilous economic situation. The other great achievement was the prospect of an economic intimacy which may make war between these neighbors impossible.

The creation of the commission was announced by French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet.

Premier Laval tonight was apparently jubilant over the results of the visit. He said:

"France and Germany are trying to create an instrument which all other countries may also adopt, since we are most anxious to extend the present agreement to as many nations as possible."

A communique, outlining the commission's program, was issued. It may be briefly summarized as a pledge between the two nations for active cooperation in finance, industry, commerce, shipping, and aviation as a step to the ultimate realization of "permanent peace."

Seek Road for New Markets.

The commission will be a consultative body. Its members will include both employers and employés.

Trade agreements will be broadened and export agreements will be sought which will involve a joint search for new markets. No increase of customs duties is envisaged, nor is the "pact" directed at "any third party."

According to the communique, the ultimate purpose of the France-German commission is "to fight the economic crisis and to call for cooperation from other nations whenever necessary. This action will be the first step to cooperation which has become the need of the hour and in which all are called to participate."

The commission, with a permanent secretariat, will start work at once.

Hoover May Visit Hoover.

The agreement reached today will be submitted to President Hoover by Premier Laval on his visit to Washington next month. It was even hinted tonight that Chancellor Bruening may leave for the United States in the near future to present Germany's viewpoint on war debts and reparations.

President Paul von Hindenburg received Laval and Briand this morning in his study. The visit was purely personal and the visitors were closeted with the former field marshal of the German armies for only twenty minutes.

The visit of the Frenchmen was officially ended tonight with a dinner at the French embassy. Ambassador Walter M. Sackett of the United States was a guest. Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand will leave Berlin at 7:05 a. m. tomorrow.

President Hindenburg Relents.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—President Von Hindenburg of Germany, who today received Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand of France, balked at shaking up until the last moment because he is sensitive of the presence of the name in the allied list of world war criminals, "who must be delivered by Germany for trial," a special correspondent at Berlin of the Paris newspaper states in a dispatch.

Von Hindenburg's name was second and followed that of former Kaiser Wilhelm on the list which has never been repudiated. Germany's president desired the meeting as a means of promoting good will but, according to the correspondent, took the position that he could not see why the Frenchmen should want to shake the hand of the man they still officially regarded as an untried criminal.

Only last Friday did Chancellor Bruening's persuasion, Laval's common sense, and the tactful intervention of the French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet, bring the old soldier around, according to L'Information.

COUNTY ADOPTS BOND PLAN FOR FINANCE RELIEF

Votes for Issue of $16,500,000.

The county commissioners yesterday adopted unanimously a program presented by Emmett Whealan, president of the board, for the rescue of the county government from impending insolvency. Today the approval of the governor's commission on revenue, and a promise for aid in obtaining legislation necessary for the plan's execution, will be sought.

The program calls for the sale of a series of bond issues which will enable the county to "wipe clean the slate," paying off all debts including bonds and tax warrants already issued, and bills and salaries which have accrued by June 1, 1932. The sum which will be asked amounts to $16,500,000. If it is obtained, Whealan and Michael O'Connor, assistant county controller, who devised the plan, say the government will be placed on a "permanent cash basis within two years."

Ten Years to Maturity.

A ten year period is proposed for the maturity of the last of the bonds, but "not one cent will be added to the tax rate to pay off both interest and principal," the sponsors declare.

To pay the bond issue and the accruing interest, which will amount to $21,031,250 over the ten years, the plan calls for the diversion of a percentage of the annual highway tax. This amounts to $5,000,000 a year and is levied at the rate of 12½ cents on each $100 of assessed valuation.

Through an act of the legislature the county is allowed to divert 2½ cents from this revenue to pay off a $2,000,000 bond issue for poor relief. These bonds mature in two years and have already been sold. They are, however, a part of the plan.

Plan Two Bond Issues.

Additional legislation of a similar nature will be sought to allow the county to issue two other series of bonds. One of these will be for $5,000,000 to mature in five years; the other for $9,500,000 to mature in ten years. The interest rate will be 4½ per cent on all three issues.

The smaller of the latter two issues is scheduled to provide for the deficit resulting from the noncollection of a large portion of the 1926 and 1929 taxes. The large issue will provide a working cash fund.

As it is worked out at present the diversion from the highway tax will be staggered over the years. The table showing the amount in cents to be used each year is as follows:

1931	2½	1936	3½
1932	2½	1937	3½
1933	2½	1938	1
1934	4	1939	1
1935	4

O'Connor Explains Plan.

"What we are asking is approximately the advancement to the county of the amount of money collected in taxes for one year," Deputy Controller O'Connor, who also is secretary to the board, explained after he had outlined the plan to the commissioners. "We will be able to pay our bills and as soon as the 1930 and 1931 taxes are collected we will be on a cash basis."

"Suppose there is a deficit of $5,000,000 in the collection of 1930 and then again in 1931," J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert suggested.

"I don't believe there will be," commented Whealan.

County Auditor Joe J. Howard explained that the highway department would not be forced to curtail its operations because of the drain on its revenue. The gasoline tax income, he said, more than provided enough money to supply the difference.

BOMB DOWNTOWN OFFICES OF BILL PASSING CONCERN

The entire loop district was rocked by an explosion early this morning when a bomb was set off at the quarters of the Big Four Advertising Carriers company at 20 East 8th street. Guests in the Stevens, Blackstone, Congress and Auditorium hotels and the Palmer house were aroused by the detonation.

The bomb shattered two plate glass windows in the front of the building, a two story structure, and broke other windows on the second floor. The damage was estimated by the police at $300.

The offices of the company, which is owned by the firm of Goodman & Feinberg, were bombed once before, on Feb. 1 of this year. At that time Ralph L. Goodman, one of the partners in the company, blamed the bombing on labor troubles.

EVANSTON MAYOR RAPS CHILDRENS' BOOS FOR HOOVER

Mayor Charles H. Bartlett of Evanston delivered a speech last night at the regular meeting of the Evanston city council in which he condemned the alleged lack of respect for President Hoover among the children of Evanston.

Mayor Bartlett said he had been told by an alderman that children in an Evanston movie theater booed the picture of the President when it was shown on the screen. It was during the showing of a film of the recent American Legion meeting at Detroit that the disrespect for Mr. Hoover was shown. The children, according to the mayor, cheered the Legionnaires on parade, but hissed and booed when the President appeared on the screen.

"Patriotism and loyalty must be taught to the children," said Mr. Bartlett. "No matter how we stand politically, we must respect our nation's chief executive. The danger of the red menace will be working on our children unless they are taught to speak well of our country and its President."

Seize Curran Kidnapers in Car with Guns

Three literary robbers, two of whom admit they were the kidnapers of State Representative James Curran on Sept. 22, were arrested last night by County Highway Policemen Edward Foley and George Nuessel of the Homewood station in Cicero avenue near the Lincoln highway.

They are William Sholty, 42 years old, 436 North Springfield avenue; John [Buster] Miles, 18 years old, 117 North Ada street, and Harold McCarty, 30 years old, 106 South California avenue.

In the car in which they rode the highway police found two pistols, a sawed off shotgun, an insurance policy that had been issued to Representative Curran and a letter also addressed to Mr. Curran.

Letter Tells of Car.

"Dear Sir," the missive read, "you got your car back in good condition, as it was placed in good hands. Yours, Pals."

Policemen Foley and Nuessel followed the car when the driver went through a stoplight at sixty miles an hour. After a chase of about four miles they drew up beside the robbers. An attempt was then made, according to Foley, to force him and his partner on their motorcycles into a ditch.

This being frustrated, the car was halted. It is alleged that the trio then offered the policemen a $2,000 bribe for freedom, one of the men asserting he had more than that cached in Chicago.

Identified by Curran.

Shortly before midnight Mr. Curran, former superintendent of the Bridewell, who lives at 1914 South Ashland avenue and represents the 15th district in the legislature, went to the Homewood station and identified McCarty and Miles as two of the men who robbed him. They confessed and named Al Bernstein, living near Taylor and Halsted streets, as their companion in the Curran holdup. Sholty maintained that he had nothing to do with the kidnaping.

The state representative was taken by the bandits on a road north of Kankakee and held a prisoner until they reached the outskirts of Springfield. He was given $2 for expenses when he was released. Besides his car, the trio took $30 from him.

Since that escapade the same gang is believed to have robbed a number of motorists on the roads south of Chicago, frequently changing cars to avoid pursuit.

ELMHURST FOOTBALL STAR'S NECK BROKEN; FIGHTS FOR HIS LIFE

Reuben Getschow, 23 years old, right tackle and captain of the Elmhurst college football team, is fighting for his life in the Passavant Memorial hospital with a broken neck, it was learned yesterday. The youth sustained the injury Saturday in the game at Elmhurst between his school and Valparaiso university.

Dr. Loyal Davis, staff physician at the hospital, who performed an operation on Getschow yesterday morning, said the third and fourth cervical vertebrae are fractured and dislocated. While Dr. Davis called Getschow's condition "very grave," he said the youth had a chance to recover.

Getschow, who lives at 229 West Pacific avenue, Appleton, Wis., received the injury during the third quarter of the game, which Valparaiso won, 7 to 0. Ralph Curtis, Elmhurst coach, said that in an off tackle play on Getschow's side of the line, the youth was buried under several players of both teams. After the play he was unable to rise, his body being paralyzed. He was taken to the Elmhurst hospital and removed Sunday night to the Passavant hospital.

Getschow is a junior at the college and president of the student union. Last year he was chosen all conference tackle of the Little Nineteen group of colleges. He is a liberal arts student.

U. S. FLYERS HOP ON FIRST LEG OF PACIFIC FLIGHT

TOKIO, Japan, Sept. 29.—[Tuesday.]—Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr., American aviators, who flew from New York to Japan, hopped off at 9:50 a. m. today on the first leg of a trans-Pacific flight. They reached Sabishiro beach at 1:08 p. m. From there they will attempt to fly to Seattle or beyond, without a stop. They expect to take off on the water hop on Wednesday.

21 LEHIGH VALLEY MINES RESUME; JOBS FOR 12,000

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Twenty-one collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, many of which had been closed for months and some for more than a year, reopened today, providing work for more than 12,000 men.

The reopening represented one of the largest single working orders issued in recent years, officials said. After operations are in full swing, they said, several hundred additional men may be employed.

Stench Bomb Routs 700 in Loop Theater

A small but powerful stench bomb was uncorked in the auditorium of McVicker's theater at 25 West Madison street, last night as the playhouse was filled with 2,200 spectators. It was the first outrage of this nature within a loop theater since the beginning of the recent series of attacks on motion picture houses. Central police attribute the act to a crank.

The first of the evening's shows was well under way, with virtually every seat in the theater occupied, when the foul odor from the bomb suddenly saturated the air. About 700 of the spectators left their seats and filed out of the exits in an orderly manner. Those who requested their money back were paid at the ticket offices. The other 1,500 remained in their seats while the ventilating system was speeded up. So strong was the smell that it spread up and down Madison street for a distance of a block each way from the theater.

The theater, which is operated by Balaban & Katz, is not involved in the war between the Moving Picture Operators' union and the Allied Independent Theater Owners' association. Six union operators are employed at the theater in three shifts, and the manager, Samuel Solbel, 4046 Grenshaw street, could give no reason for the attack.

Not Involved in Union Dispute.

Sergt. John Stelb of the Central police, who, with other policemen, was called to the scene, said he believed the bombing was the work of the same person who opened two stench bombs at the Granada theater, at 6427 Sheridan road, also a Balaban & Katz house, on the night of Sept. 23.

Police Stalled on Bombings.

Investigation of the bombing of nine theaters since the beginning of hostilities between the operators' union and the independent owners appeared to have reached an impasse yesterday. Police admitted that a month's investigation, aided by "Scotland Yard," has brought them no nearer a solution.

Thomas Burke, president of the checkroom girls' union, arrested for the second time as a suspect, was booked for disorderly conduct and released on bond yesterday. He was seized during the morning in front of the Ray theater, 2630 East 75th street, which was bombed last week.

A witness, whose name police did not disclose, viewed Burke during the afternoon but could not identify him. Burke had been arrested and released a week ago.

Charge Police Negligence.

During the day Harry Lasker, manager of the Music Box theater, 3729 Southport avenue, last showhouse to be bombed, charged the police with negligence. Aaron Saperstein, president of the owners' association, agreed with Lasker in his charges and Saperstein said he would demand action from Mayor Cermak.

"The police are not making an honest effort to stop these bombings," Lasker said. "They realize we are in constant danger of attacks, but they won't give us more than one policeman. To guard one side and leave the other three open to attack is the height of foolishness. Something is wrong among the captains or in the commissioner's office."

"When a town the size of Chicago spends as much money for police protection as we spend, the police should be able to stop this threat to life and the destruction of property." We will put the matter directly before the mayor," said Saperstein.

"Police Doing Their Best."

Mayor Cermak said the bombings were "serious, but that the police were doing their best." He said the police could do no more than guard the theater. "If we are going to send police to all the theaters the public will be without protection," he added.

Policeman Theodore R. Johnson of the Town Hall station, assigned as a guard to the Music Box theater, was suspended by Acting Commissioner Alcock.

Slug Nonunion Operator.

William Aivaz, 3150 North Laramie avenue, a nonunion operator imported from New York and employed at the Adelphi theater, 7074 North Clark street, and Wallace Lindley, also of the Laramie avenue address, an usher at the Adelphi, were waylaid as they neared their homes early this morning, tossed into an automobile, taken to the prairie at 8000 Belmont avenue, and beaten and robbed. The kidnapers were in two cars, and all were armed. As they seized Aivaz one of them said: "You're an operator, aren't you?" Let's see your card. Well, you won't work tomorrow."

When the cars reached the prairie the two men were forced to get out, and were robbed. From Aivaz they took $71, and from Lindley $4 and a watch. Both were then slugged several times with revolver butts and left lying in the prairie. A passing motorist brought them to the Cragin police station. Lieut. Thomas O'Hare sent them to St. Anne's hospital, where their wounds were dressed.

CHINESE RIOT AS GOVERNMENT BEGS FOR PEACE

Tokio Rushes Navy to Guard Citizens.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 29.—[Tuesday.]—The youth of China today took up a vociferous cry for war with Japan as a result of the latter's occupation of Manchuria. On top of this a report from Mukden, Manchuria, indicates that Manchuria is about to declare her independence of China proper.

Meantime, the Japanese are rushing warships to China following attacks upon Japanese in various Chinese cities. These attacks were especially vicious at Hongkong, where the full strength of the British garrison was called out last night to protect Japanese citizens. The Chinese mobs, estimated to number more than 10,000, set fire to Japanese residences and business houses. The British soldiers charged repeatedly, killing several Chinese and wounding many others. About 900 Japanese, armed with daggers and pistols, have taken refuge in the Hongkong primary school.

Nanking Replies to Stimson.

The Chinese foreign office today made public its reply to Secretary of State Stimson's note urging China and Japan to avoid actions which would aggravate the situation in Manchuria. The Chinese note said China is not resisting the Japanese attacks and added that the Kellogg anti-war pact would be best upheld if Japan would cease military operations and withdraw her armies from Manchuria. The Chinese also demanded "full redress" for the losses suffered by China.

The note charged that Japan is ignoring international agreements and said Japanese airplanes had fired with machine guns on Chinese refugee trains, causing many casualties. The note expressed hope that the various powers, and particularly the United States, would continue to make efforts for the preservation of peace.

Continue Peace Policy.

It was officially announced today that no orders will be issued to the Chinese armies in Manchuria to resist the Japanese invasion until a definite decision has been reached by the league of nations, which a few days ago rejected China's appeal for a neutral commission to investigate the situation.

Foreign Minister C. T. Wang, who was recovering today from injuries received when a mob of Chinese invaded his office and beat him up as a result of his failure to secure the intervention of the league of nations, said he believed he had acted rightly in appealing to the league and signatories of the Kellogg pact. He counseled calmness, saying he believed events would justify that course.

The extent to which the Chinese student bodies have been aroused, under the direction of the tangpu, or provincial city organization, was revealed by the attack upon Wang.

March on Foreign Office.

Following a vast meeting outside the west gate of Shanghai Sunday, more than 500 students boarded a night train for Nanking, where they were met yesterday morning by a similar number of students from Nanking institutions. About 5,000 formed a parade to the foreign office, where they demanded an immediate declaration of hostilities.

The mob then attacked Foreign Minister Wang, who was painfully but not seriously injured.

The foreign minister was saved by guards, who got him into a motor car after the students had wrecked windows and furniture. The students followed, wildly demanding an entrance to his residence, but Wang again escaped by taking refuge in the residence of President Chiang Kai-shek, which was under heavy military guard. Before arriving there, however, Wang was struck by sticks, stones and other missiles.

Cabinet Ministers Flee Mobs.

Homes of other officials of the government were also attacked, but the students by going first to the foreign office gave the remainder of the cabinet time to seek safety. The homes of all ministers and other government officials are under heavy guard today.

Following the attack on Wang, the student invasion of the capital started in earnest last night. About 3,000 protesting students left Shanghai for the capital to demand war against Japan and a definition of the government's policy. Three special trains carried the students who ceased curricular activities at local colleges and prepared to list five questions for presentation to the government under threat that they will not return to Shanghai until complete satisfaction is obtained.

The questions ask the government to announce when war will start, when action will be started to recover Manchurian territory, if responsible officials will be punished, when the government will announce a definite attitude, and if the government will provide arms and ammunition for students who belong to the local "National Calvation Volunteers."

May Refuse Students Entry.

There was great confusion at the Shanghai north station, as the trains were insufficient to carry everybody, leaving a large number behind. The departure was orderly, but it is reported that Nanking has instructed railway authorities to sidetrack the students at Chinkiang in order to prevent further disturbances at the capital.

Reports from other portions of China indicate that demonstrations are also going on there. Students everywhere are organizing and volunteering to serve at the front against Japan.

Twenty-two military instructors of the various Shanghai universities met today to formulate uniform instructions for all so the students may be ready to respond to the nation's call. Student forces at Shanghai alone total 9,000. Hongkong university students have formed a milita, allied with the Canton Salvation corps.

Ask Preparations for War.

Cantonese students today issued a manifesto declaring for a nation-wide boycott of Japan and asking the entire nation, especially students, to prepare for war.

The federation of universities and colleges at Shanghai today sent a cable to President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university to be distributed among all American universities, asking educators to exert influence to avert the necessity of a Chinese resort to defensive measures. A similar cable was sent to European universities.

The Canton rebel government today sent Wang Ching-wei, Sun Fo, Tang Shao-yi, and other leaders to Hongkong to confer with delegates of the Nationalist government there regarding the possibility of all factions uniting to present a united front to Japan.

Dispatches from Harbin, Manchuria, say that 655 Japanese residents had been safely evacuated to Changchun.

Japanese Accuse Chinese of Plot.

Japanese residents in Shanghai today issued a manifesto stating that China had asked for foreign intervention in the hope of bringing Japan to her knees and to create such a situation that economic relations would actually be severed along the Yangtze river and which would, therefore, mean Japanese evacuation. The manifesto, which was sent to Tokio, asserts that the Nanking government does not respect Japan's rights in Manchuria and Mongolia and urges that Japan take immediate advantage of the Manchurian affair to settle "all outstanding questions," since Japan's life and interests are fundamentally endangered.

The China Times in an editorial says that the Japanese policy, if realized, will mean another Russo-Japanese or American-Japanese war, and urges that no dependence be placed upon the league of nations.

The Times says that 25 Japanese gunboats, with 6,000 marines on board, are in Shanghai harbor, and that Tunwan college is being used to store large quantities of munitions, while machine guns are mounted in the second story of the building.

Independence Move Grows.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 29 [Tuesday].—The movement to make Manchuria independent of China proper gained force today when a new group, independent of the one at Mukden which declared the entire province free, established a provisional government at Kirin. Gen. Mai Sia, former chief of staff of the Kirin army, was elected governor of the province. He was educated in a military academy at Tokio. His chief aids are Gen. Kuo Enlin, minister of war; Sun Chi-chang, home affairs, and Jung Hou, finance.

Formation of this government is taken here to indicate the complete downfall of Chang Tso-hsiang, former Kirin war lord, as well as of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian war lord.

Leaders of the republican government at Mukden declared today that a proclamation of independence of Fengtien province had been wired to President Chang Kaishek at Nanking in which the military rule of Nanking was disavowed and relations were severed.

DISTANT COUSIN OPENS FIGHT FOR WENDEL WEALTH

Halt Probating of Estate Worth 75 Millions.

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—A battle for a fortune of more than $60,000,000, possibly $75,000,000 handed down and built up by the eccentric Wendel family from heir to heir, was begun today in federal court by Ross Dew Stansbury, 74 year old spinster of Vicksburg, Miss. She asserts that she is a "fifth degree" heir and nearest of kin of Ella Virginia von E. Wendel, last of the Wendels, who died last March.

On the strength of her claim that Miss Wendel was incompetent to write her will which left most of her estate to Methodist Episcopal seminaries and disposed of a fortune which had been kept intact by the Wendels for generations, the executors were enjoined from probating the will until the claimant's arguments have been heard in court.

Signed Waiver of Claim.

Miss Stansbury, represented by Arthur Garfield Hays and Samuel Untermyer, also obtained an injunction restraining the executors from making use of a waiver she had signed.

Miss Stansbury is said to have signed the waiver for $1,000, with the understanding that she would receive another $24,000 when the will had been probated. Before the restraining order was signed by Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey, Probate Clerk John Killoran had informed all relatives of Miss Wendel that they had until Jan. 25 to object to the probate.

If the will is set aside on the grounds specified in a voluminous complaint and in affidavits attempting to show that a strain of insanity ran through the Wendel family, and that the testatrix herself was not competent to make a will, the chief losers will be Drew university, at Madison, N. J., and the Theological seminary at Nanking, China, which is conducted by the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Admits Heirship of Complainant.

In his petition for probate Charles G. Koss, an executor who is named as a defendant with other executors, said that Miss Stansbury was the only living next of kin, that a six months' investigation in Europe and the United States had disclosed this, and that she had signed the disputed waiver. Miss Stansbury's aunt, the petition admitted, was Henrietta Stansbury Drew, the maternal grandmother of the testatrix.

The complaint charges that agents of the defendants had urged the plaintiff to sign her waiver before she retained counsel, that they failed to inform her that there were grave doubts as to the competency of the deceased and that the will would be contested.

The plaintiff, it is said, is a "fifth degree" heir of Miss Wendel and there are twenty-four persons who contend they are heirs in the sixth degree. The complaint, accompanied by an affidavit signed by Mr. Hays, which depicts the life of the Wendel sisters behind the brownstone front of their mansion at 39th street and 5th avenue, charges:

Charge Undue Influence.

"That Miss Wendel did not comprehend the nature and extent of her property; that her life was that of a recluse and her chief preoccupations were the care of a succession of dogs and the sorting and resorting of the contents of 125 trunks which contained family effects of no value.

"That the deceased was subject to the undue influence of Charles G. Koss, Isabel Koss, and other persons at present unknown; that her attorneys took precautions to keep all outside influence from the deceased by refusing to show her mail that was addressed to her and by refusing to allow kin of deceased to call on her.

"In her hermitlike life," the complaint continues, "the deceased failed to show the slightest interest in the work of the institutions designated in her will."

The complaint observes that the alleged will does not provide for the care of Toby, a pet dog, "upon whom she lavished great care for many years and upon whom she spent many thousands of dollars."

"Two sisters, Augusta and Georgianna Wendel," it is asserted, "died in insane asylums and were mentioned as incompetent in the wills of Mary Wendel and Rebecca Wendel Swope, mother and sister of Ella V. von E. Wendel. Rebecca became senile in her last year and two other sisters, Mary and Josephine, were reported to be queer and eccentric.

The affidavit described Miss Wendel in her latter years as follows:

"The decedent was a wizened, old, and infirm woman. Her clothing was shabby and she wore but one dress, faded black, turning into green with years of usage. She wore high buttoned shoes, black cotton stockings, a blouse, and invariably an old-fashioned guimpe. On her little knob of hair she wore a black ribbon. A sailor hat with a bow and black ribbon completed her appearance. However, no matter how sunny the day, she always wore rubbers. There was evidence she was far from clean.

"There was a wealth of evidence that the mind of the deceased was childlike and undeveloped."

"She spent more time on her dog than others do on their children. She had a number of dogs, all named Toby, ever since she was a girl.

"When a dog was about to die she could call in her contractor to have an underground vault constructed. The vault would be dampproof and waterproof, with a concrete slab on top. It took four men to lift it, and there was room for one casket in it. The caskets were two inch oak, with room for a white satin pillow. All the furnishings were of brass and of the best quality and the box was painted and varnished.

Tombstones for Dogs.

"The dog would be approximately buried and the grave marked with a tombstone inscribed with the birth and death of the dog. The testatrix left notes with the coffin, she was extremely jealous of her dog. Curiously however, not a mention of a dog or moneys for the care of a dog is mentioned in the will of the decedent. The fact that her life was governed by this dog forced her days into a rigid mold.

"The testatrix wrote an extraordinary number of letters to trade folks. She would send a letter to a store when she wanted to buy a dish towel or a bar of chocolate. If she wanted to go some place two or three blocks from the house, she would write to her sister's chauffeur at Quoque, L. I., and the car would make this trip, perhaps 150 miles, in order to convey her for three blocks.

"Apparently the decedent was unaware of or disliked modern conveniences, such as telephones and electric light. Her bath tub was zinc lined and it was about 10 feet long by 4 feet high. She never went to the theater, never read newspapers, and never showed, in the last few years of her life, the slightest desire to receive old friends who would call on her. She did not seem to live in the modern world, either mentally or physically."

Japan Tells League to Stop 'Meddling' in Row with China

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 28.—Japan will settle her differences with China over the military occupation of Manchuria and the future withdrawal of her troops inside the South Manchurian railway zone by direct negotiations with China alone. Tokio will not consent to any outside interference by the league of nations or any one else, and the sole solution lies in Chinese-Japanese negotiations.

DR. ALFRED SZE.

M. K. Yoshizawa, chief Japanese delegate, at the session of the council today refused even to submit a proposal to his government for neutral observers to participate.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, asked the council to appoint impartial officials on the spot—consular agents, military attachés, or other foreign functionaries—to take part in the negotiations between the Chinese and Japanese as conciliators and to help eradicate misunderstandings.

Spurns Outside Participants.

"Foreign participants in the discussion are useless, and my government does not think it is necessary to call in outsiders," Yoshizawa said.

Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain sought to compromise by suggesting that the Chinese and Japanese begin negotiations for military evacuation and then, if discussions broke down, the council could see what, if anything, it could do.

Dr. Sze insisted upon the necessity of impartial observers being present, and the council, sparring for time, finally requested him to state his proposals in writing and submit them at the next meeting.

Yoshizawa made a long statement professing Japan's desire to withdraw troops as soon as she was convinced that her civilian population would be safe without the protection of the soldiers and added:

"Japan does not want war with China and is anxious to find a happy solution."

Denies Japanese Atrocities.

The Tokio delegate said that only a few points outside the railway zone are now occupied by the Japanese army, including Kirin and Mukden.

Dr. Sze asked about the Japanese airplane which is alleged to have machine gunned a Chinese train on the Mukden-Peiping railway four times. Yoshizawa replied that the Japanese troops are incapable of atrocities or the massacre of women and children. Dr. Sze then inquired whether Japan will release Chinese officials and civilians imprisoned and return arms to the Chinese railway guards and police so that they can execute their functions, and return property which was seized, and assume damages for property losses.

Yoshizawa declined to comment on these interrogations.

JAPAN REFUSES TO RETURN SEIZED U. S. RADIO PLANT

R. C. A. Demands Action by American Government.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 28.—The action of the Japanese military in seizing and keeping control of the radio station recently completed here by the Radio Corporation of America has caused a complicated situation involving Chinese, American, and Japanese interests. Observers here believe the situation is likely to result in an involved diplomatic tangle.

The station contains the latest American equipment and was only completed three months ago for the Manchurian government, the object being to establish independent direct communication between Manchuria and the United States. The station was occupied the night of Sept. 18, when the Japanese captured Mukden.

Japanese Hedge on Protest.

George Shecklen of San Francisco, representative of the Radio Corporation of America, arrived here and immediately demanded the release of the station through American consular authorities. No action was taken except that the Japanese requested the United States consul general, Myrl S. Myers, for a copy of the R. C. A. agreement with the Chinese authorities. Shecklen then left for Peiping to take up the matter with Nelson T. Johnson, American minister.

Japanese authorities have long opposed construction of an American radio station here, as well as at Shanghai, on the grounds that it violated the monopoly agreement which the Japanese obtained from the old Peking [now Peiping] government.

The R. C. A. station at Mukden cost more than a million dollars. It was ordered by Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian war lord, and it is stated that a considerable portion of it has not been paid for.

Americans Face Losses.

Collapse of the Manchurian government as a result of the Japanese occupation is likely to cause further heavy losses to American firms, which coöperated in the establishment of a motor truck factory here, and to other American interests which have been dealing with the Manchurian government.

The manager of the National City bank said today that losses to American and other foreign firms will amount to many millions of dollars, since the Chinese are unable to meet the obligations of current business nor to accept delivery of goods already ordered. The National City bank and other foreign banks are still closed, with their front doors locked, although they are doing a limited amount of business for local foreign residents.

Two Chinese banks reopened this morning.

LEAGUE PROPOSES ONE YEAR'S TRUCE IN WORLD ARMAMENTS

GENEVA, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The disarmament committee of the league of nations late tonight adopted a resolution designed to prepare for a possible one year truce in armaments, beginning Nov. 1. The resolution, embodying a compromise between the Italian proposal for an immediate truce—which the United States and the majority of the league members supported—and objections raised by Japan and France reads as follows:

"The assembly requests the governments invited to the disarmament conference [to be held in Geneva next February] to prepare for this event by means of an armaments truce and accordingly requests the council [of the league] to urge the governments convened to said conference to give proof of their earnest desire for a successful issue of efforts to insure and organize peace, and without prejudicing the decision of the conference or the programs of proposals submitted to it by each government, to refrain from any measure involving an increase in their armaments.

"It likewise requests the council to ask the governments to state before Nov. 1 whether they are prepared for a period of one year, as from that date, to accept this truce in armaments."

Lindberghs Hop to Survey Flooded Area in China

NANKING, China, Sept. 29 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Bound for the Wuhu region, southwest of Nanking, and Hankow, on a survey flight of flooded areas, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Lotus lake at 10:30 a. m. today. They were expected to reach Hankow by midafternoon.

Accompanying the colonel and his wife was Dr. Borcic, health expert of the league of nations.

THREE KILLED AS PASSENGER TRAIN ROLLS IN DITCH

The engine crew and a tramp who was riding "blind baggage" were killed last night when an Illinois Central local train was derailed and rolled into a ditch near Ashkum, Ill., twenty-five miles south of Kankakee.

A score of passengers were bruised or cut by broken glass when the two coaches in which they were riding also turned over. All received first aid at Gilman or Kankakee.

Those killed were Frank Fogarty, 8044 Harper avenue, the engineer; Charles Nolan, 6137 Peoria street, the fireman, and an unidentified man who was riding between the tender and the first coach of the train.

The train apparently ran into an open switch, a preliminary investigation indicated. The locomotive wrecked a signal tower at the point where it left the rails and turned over in the ditch, the two coaches toppling after it. The bodies of the engineer and firemen were crushed in the wreckage of the cab, and it took more than an hour to extricate them.

Southbound traffic on the main line of the railroad was tied up for several hours. The train was No. 35, a local which left Kankakee for Champaign at 6:30 o'clock.

DEPOSITORS BEG CLOSING BANK TO KEEP THEIR CASH

Institution Sound; Pays Off in Full.

Amazed and incredulous, depositors of the Mayfair State Savings bank, 4436 Lawrence avenue, gathered at the bank's doors before opening yesterday morning. They carried their bank books and letters received in the morning mail telling them to call and get their money, as the bank would quit accepting deposits tomorrow.

U. A. McGRATH JR.

When the doors were opened 200 depositors filed in. They were greeted by T. B. McGrath Jr., president of the bank. He explained that the institution was being closed voluntarily by its board of directors because they had found it impossible to pay the operating overhead and obtain a reasonable return on the capital invested. He said its brick had called in its loans and had sufficient money to pay all depositors. He predicted a substantial dividend for stockholders.

"We are sorry to close," Mr. McGrath said. "In our five years of business in the neighborhood we have made many friends in rendering service and are certain that the regrets are mutual."

Many Leave Money in Bank.

As he finished speaking a knot of depositors circled about him to declare they did not wish to withdraw their money. He told them the decision would not be reconsidered. Many depositors left without withdrawing their money. Others argued with paying tellers as they withdrew their money, urging them to keep it.

Because of the unwillingness of the depositors to take their money, the business moved slowly. By 3 o'clock only $250,000 of the $600,000 of deposits had been taken from the bank. Mr. McGrath said he had hoped to pay out the entire amount in two days, but did not believe he could complete the work until late in the week.

Bankers Follow Depositors.

Dozens of stock and bond salesmen loitered outside of the bank soliciting depositors to make investments. Several depositors reported that salesmen had followed them home. Representatives of other banks were on hand to urge the depositors to transfer their accounts to their banks.

"If some one were to tell these people they could not get their money they would be tearing down the bank," an observer said. "But now that they are told to come and get it, they don't want it. Other banks could profit by this lesson in the psychology of depositors."

At 3 o'clock this morning payments will be continued.

MAYOR TO SEE BRIDGE DUCKING BOAT PERFORM

City officials, including Mayor Cermak, Commissioner of Public Works A. A. Sprague, and members of the city council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges, have been invited by the Ford Motor company to inspect the Chester, one of its two new 67 foot long turbine propelled ships, now docked at Navy pier.

A short trip on the river, leaving Navy pier at 11 o'clock today to demonstrate how a completely disappearing superstructure permits the boat to operate under river or canal bridges with a clearance of less than fifteen feet, has been arranged for the officials.

The Chester and its twin ship, the Sorensen—the latter now plying between the Ford plant at Dearborn, Mich., and a branch plant at Edgewater, N. J., via the New York state barge canal—are the largest vessels of any kind and each has a capacity of 600 automobile engines and the heavy parts necessary for the assembly of that number of Ford cars.

WHEN GANDHI WAS A LAWYER

Gandhi is seated in the center, wearing a regulation Hindu "pork pie" cap and conventional European suit. To the left is his lifelong associate, H. S. L. Polak, then a clerk; while to the right is Gandhi's secretary, Miss Schlesin. Behind are two office clerks and in the window is Gandhi's "shingle."

SETTLE YOUR OWN DISPUTES! BRITISH TELL INDIA RACES

London Refuses to Act as Arbiter.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 28.—With a few words of fatherly advice, Prime Minister MacDonald turned loose on the Hindus, Mohammedans, Parsees, Christians, "untouchables," and Eurasians today and told them to work out for themselves guarantees of their respective rights in a new India in which they would all form some part.

The prime minister presided at the meeting of the minorities committee of the round table conference, which began its sittings.

He flatly turned down overtures to refer the baffling minorities' problem to arbitration with the British government as the arbitrator.

Told to Find Own Solution.

"I think that is the most unsatisfactory solution of the difficulty," Mr. MacDonald said. "Arbitration would probably be unacceptable to you all, and it would meet the needs and desire of none of you. You must take upon yourselves the responsibility of finding a solution. You must work it out by yourselves, because then you will have nobody else to blame except yourselves."

The prime minister asked the delegates to tell him frankly if it wasn't true that they had been negotiating the Hindu-Moslem problem under cover, anyway.

"That is true," replied Aga Khan, rich Moslem leader. "We are meeting Mahatma Gandhi tonight at an important meeting at the Ritz hotel and we hope to work out some sort of a solution."

"Well, then there is no use in the minorities committee sitting," Mr. MacDonald suggested, and the session was adjourned until Thursday to await the results of the private negotiations.

"Smaller Fry" Protest.

Several of the "smaller fry" representing unimportant minorities protested the procedure, but the prime minister told them that they would have to settle their disputes privately, too, if possible.

Aga Khan, whose name was on the front pages of London newspapers today because of his dispute with trainers and jockeys of his horse racing establishments, talked politics with Gandhi at the Ritz until a late hour. It is stated that the moderate Moslems and, of course, the nationalist Moslems had nearly reached an agreement with Gandhi, but that the whole settlement is being balked by a handful of handpicked Mohammedans, who, it is reported, have been promised handsome political posts in the government of India if they wreck the round table conference.

The British named a dozen of them to "represent" the Mohammedans, picking but one nationalist Moslem, though the nationalists are numerically the strongest.

400,000 GALLONS OF SOVIET GASOLINE IS DUMPED ON DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Col. Walter C. Cole, executive vice president of the Union League club of Michigan, said today that the first 400,000-gallon shipment of a 2,700,000 consignment of soviet Russian gasoline from the Caspian and Black sea districts is due to arrive here tomorrow.

The Union League club has been investigating since last June reports that Detroit was to be made the dumping ground of the soviet output of gasoline.

The remainder of the 2,700,000 consignment, shipped from Constanza, Rumania, has reached Montreal and is in storage there, under bond, Col. Cole said.

ARREST LAWYER AS A PERJURER IN BANK CASE

Outgrowth of Suit After Waukegan Failure.

Attorney Lewis Shaffer of Chicago was arrested in Waukegan last night on a charge of perjury after he had testified in Waukegan before the Lake county grand jury, which is investigating the failure of the Waukegan State bank. The arrest was an outgrowth of the legal action taken by Shaffer to enforce the liability of the bank's stockholders. He began this action a few minutes after the bank was closed on June 17.

A subpoena was issued for Attorney Maurice L. Freedman, also of Chicago, who was associated with Shaffer in the suit. Deputy sheriffs learned that Freedman was in Joliet on business.

Shaffer, who lives at 1536 North Keeler avenue, and Freedman, whose home is at 4217 North St. Louis avenue, have offices at 11 South La Salle street.

Mrs. Catherine Miller of McHenry, a depositor in the Waukegan bank and in whose name the suit was brought, said Shaffer and Freedman had sought her and asked her permission to use her name. The suit has since been withdrawn.

The Attorney's Story.

Shaffer was reported to have told the grand jury he was in Waukegan several days before the bank was closed and overheard a conversation in a restaurant which led him to believe the institution was about to fail. He testified, it was said, that he was in Waukegan to collect a bill of $45 from Anthony Pevsner, a jeweler. Pevsner, it was said, testified that Shaffer and Freedman had made no effort to see him.

Investigators were reported to have told the jury that the two lawyers had spent $8 on a taxi bill to Waukegan the morning of the failure, and had made several other trips to Waukegan, staying overnight at a hotel.

Shaffer, on the other hand, insisted that the expenses of the visit were solely in the interest of collecting the $45 bill from the jeweler, according to the report of the tesimony, and said he had started the suit when he saw an automobile with a Chicago license standing in front of the bank. He added that the presence of the Chicago car there led him to believe a bank examiner was in the bank.

Prosecutor Makes Inquiry.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county said he was confident that Shaffer got his information concerning the impending bank failure from some one connected with the bank, from some one connected with the former National Bank of the Republic, for which the Waukegan bank was a correspondent, or from some one in the state auditor's office.

"I propose to find the person responsible for giving the information to Shaffer," Mr. Smith added.

Shaffer was held without bond. Freedman called late last night and offered to testify. He will appear before the grand jury tomorrow. Mr. Smith indicated that Shaffer would be indicted this week.

Banker Sentenced to Prison.

Paul B. Lipinski, president of the defunct Northern Trust and Savings bank of Hammond, pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzlement before Judge Martin Smith in the Lake county Criminal court at Crown Point, Ind. He was sentenced to serve two to fourteen years in the state penitentiary at Michigan City, Ind. The judge also imposed a fine of $30,865.

The fine is twice the amount the former bank president was charged with stealing by overdrawing his accounts and lending money to himself.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson announced the appointment of Chester A. Willoughby, former secretary to the late United States Senator William B. McKinley, as receiver for the First Italian State bank, 1391 West Taylor street. The bank closed Sept. 9. Savario Ariani, president of the bank, fled the day before the closing of the institution, taking with him $130,000 of the bank's cash.

HU WINN WINS CAFE, THEN HIS TROUBLES START

When Harry Kiriakopoulos decided to sell his restaurant at 1548 West Van Buren street last week there were two bidders. One was William Sullivan, also of 1548 West Van Buren street. The other was Hu Winn, a Chinese.

Mr. Kiriakopoulos had no racial spleen. But Hu Winn had money and William Sullivan had none, and Hu Winn won in the bidding. The transfer of ownership was made last evening and Mr. Winn moved in a stock of bean sprouts and chop suey sauce and a few Chinese waiters.

The first customers were Mr. Sullivan and two friends, who became angry when their orders were not served quickly enough. They began by tossing the sugar bowls at the cigar counter and the chairs at the waiters.

This caused Hu Winn and his forces to emerge from the kitchen with what seemed to be truculent intentions. Hu Winn was carrying a long butcher knife. The Sullivan party, promptly taking it from him, led the new owner into an alley, where they contemptuously spanked him with the flat side of his weapon. A few mistakes were made about which was the flat side, but Hu Winn's hurts were not serious. When the police arrived the Sullivan party had gone and Hu Winn, with a bandage where the seat of his trousers had been, was trying to sell the restaurant back to Harry Kiriakopoulos.

MEXICAN STATE BANS ALL BUT 12 CATHOLIC PRIESTS

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A dispatch to the newspaper Excelsior from Tampico, State of Tamaulipas, said the government announced today that hereafter only 12 Catholic priests will be allowed to perform their clerical duties in that state.

The apostolic delegation here was informed today that the state of Guerrero had applied a special tax to Catholic priests by classifying them as "professionals."

ILLINOIS REMAP ISSUE GOES TO U. S. HIGH COURT

Appeal Granted in Fight on Tax Law.

Illinois' long fought battle over reapportionment is to be brought to the attention of the United States Supreme court.

Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals granted an appeal to the supreme tribunal yesterday to John W. Keogh, a Chicago attorney, who for almost two years has been attacking the income tax law as invalid because it was voted upon by Illinois congressmen who, due to the failure of the legislature to reapportion the state, did not represent legally constituted districts.

Assails Refusal to Act.

In the same action Attorney Keogh also assailed the long continued refusal of the general assembly to reapportion the senatorial or legislative districts of the state, a refusal that still continues, although the last assembly did reapportion the congressional districts.

Attorney Keogh said he was informed that this appeal was the only one allowed by the Circuit Court of Appeals in more than a year. He pointed to the language of Judge Evans' order for the grounds upon which it was granted.

"His contention [Keogh's] is that as a citizen of Illinois and a taxpayer of said state, as well as a substantial taxpayer to the federal government," read a part of that order, "his rights have been invaded by the failure of the Illinois state legislature to reapportion the state legislative and congressional districts as required by the constitution of the United States and the laws and constitution of the state of Illinois.

Still Right to Appeal.

"He further contends that the act which repealed the previous existing statute allowing him to appeal from decisions of this court to the United States Supreme court in cases such as he is here presenting was enacted through the votes of representatives in congress from the state of Illinois illegally chosen because of such failure on the part of the legislature to reapportion the congressional districts; that he therefore still has the right to appeal to the Supreme court from a decision of this court."

Started Attack in 1930.

Mr. Keogh began his attack on the 1928 internal revenue law on May 26, 1930. He filed a petition for an injunction restraining the internal revenue collector from collecting income taxes from him.

Federal Judge Woodward dismissed the petition for lack of jurisdiction and his decision was sustained by the Court of Appeals, which now has authorized Attorney Keogh to carry his case to Washington.

MELLON OWNED ALUMINUM CO. CUTS SALARIES

It's a Surprise to the Treasury Head.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—A 10 per cent reduction in salaries was announced today by the Aluminum Company of America, effective Thursday. The company is owned almost entirely by the Mellon family, of which Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon is the head.

The reduction, it was announced, will apply throughout the company and all of its subsidiaries and was made necessary as a measure of economy in face of the business depression.

The action of the Aluminum company follows that of the United States Steel corporation and Bethlehem Steel, and independent concerns, affecting more than 100,000 wage earners in the Pittsburgh district.

Company officials said the move had been under consideration for several months, but they had been reluctant to take action until it became evident it was a necessary economy.

Mellon Is Surprised.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Newspaper reports that the Aluminum Company of America had decreased salaries and wages were the first knowledge reaching Secretary Mellon, a stockholder in that corporation, that this action had been taken, nor had the secretary advance information that the cuts were planned, it was said today.

Mr. Mellon declined to make any comment on the situation, presumably taking the view that on entering the cabinet of former President Harding in 1921 he had severed all connections with the various corporations with which he had been affiliated, so far as this connection had to do with policies or management, either direct or indirect.

Nor would Secretary Mellon make any comment on the demand of Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.] that he be removed from office because of stock ownership in corporations.

Representative Patman let it become known today that he has been gathering data all summer to support his resolution for the impeachment of Mr. Mellon, which he intends to introduce on a "form of personal privilege. He will cite the old law, he said, and will present evidence by which he hopes to show that the secretary, through his controlling stock interests in the Aluminum corporation, the Gulf Oil corporation, and the Koppers company, "is directly interested in the business of trade and commerce" within the meaning of the law.

"Mr. Mellon relinquished his position on the board of directors of the Aluminum company," Patman said, "but, as a stockholder, he directs the board. His brother represents him."

Lackawanna Cuts Salaries.

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad today joined the group of carriers which has reduced the salaries of officers and employés. Effective Oct. 1 salaries of Lackawanna officers receiving $6,000 or more will be reduced 7½ to 10 per cent. All others in supervisory capacities and employés paid on a monthly, daily, or hourly basis will be obliged to take two days off each month without pay.

Envelope Company Cut.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The United States Envelope company, with main offices here and plants in this and other cities, today announced salary and wage reductions, effective at once. All employés, from executive officers to factory workers, are included in varying amounts.

SCALE MAKERS CUT.

Fairbanks, Morse & Co., manufacturers of scales and of Diesel and other internal combustion engines for industrial, farm, and marine purposes, announced today that they have reduced the salaries of their office employés 10 per cent.

Jobs Not Dole, Slogan as Hoover Group Debates Relief Measures in Chicago

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"Work—not the dole."

This is the heart of the American plan for unemployment relief which is being sought in Chicago by members of a committee appointed by President Hoover.

Thirteen of them sat at a round table at the Union League club yesterday for the first of a number of sessions. The unlucky number was augmented by secretaries and stenographers, and so cast no gloom over the meeting.

Harry Wheeler Chairman.

"In fact it was hopeful," said Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago banker and former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the chairman and spokesman.

"I think every one there realized the gravity of the national situation," he continued, "but they have been hearing so much about that that it was rather overlooked in the discussions. They did not paint sad pictures. They got down to work to find a practical plan which it is hoped will fit this emergency.

"We have been too much depression minded. We have also had too many hasty suggestions and optimistic speeches. This committee will not be rushed into any plan. It will endeavor to shape something concrete and practical out of the hundreds of suggestions that have been made.

"As this was a closed meeting and they were not afraid of being quoted, these men spoke frankly. There were diverse views presented. They went at it. I was pleased at the hopeful note underneath it all.

Labor Doesn't Blame Industry.

"As I see the picture, industry, from a matter of enlightened selfishness if nothing else, is straining every energy to keep organizations together and keep on functioning. Labor does not blame industry, admitting that industry is doing all that it can. Their interests are identical. Public officials are anxious to have things straightened out. Who, then, will oppose it? No one except the Communist group, and we do not admit them into the picture yet, not until American industry has failed, which it is far from doing."

Out of the several main suggestions submitted yesterday three committees now at work hope to present something in written form today.

It is not certain that any final plan will be agreed upon here, but whatever agreement is reached will be submitted to the committee of the whole in Washington before it is made public.

What is being sought here is a plan for emergency purposes, to do something now. It may be that the committee will be called upon to formulate recommendations for a permanent plan, something that will take the industrial machine and put it on a lasting basis of production and good wages. This, however, is not a task which they seek, for it would involve a year or more of work and is about the biggest job in the country today.

List of Members Present.

Those at the conference, besides the chairman, were:

L. R. Smith, A. O. Smith corporation, Milwaukee.

Alexander Legge, International Harvester company, Chicago.

A. Johnston, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Cleveland.

Edward N. Hurley, former chairman, U. S. shipping board, Chicago.

William Green, president American Federation of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Charles C. Gates, Denver, Col.

Homer Ferguson, Newport News Shipbuilding company, Newport News, Va.

Fred C. Croxton, assistant director President's organization on unemployment relief, Washington.

S. P. Bush, Columbus, O.

T. H. Banfield, Iron Fireman Manufacturing company, Portland, Ore.

W. Rufus Abbott, Illinois Bell Telephone company, Chicago.

Col. W. A. Starrett, New York City.

George A. Deveneau, R. H. Donnelley & Sons.

Other members of the committee, unable to attend yesterday's session, are:

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Matthew Sloan, National Electric Light association, New York City.

Dr. Wesley C. Mitchell, director, National Bureau of Economic Research, New York City.

H. C. Knight, president, New England council, New Haven, Conn.

Leonard P. Ayes, Cleveland, O.

ABBOTT ON COMMITTEE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—W. Rufus Abbott of Chicago, chairman of the board of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, was among those appointed today by Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's relief organization, to a committee to consider the program of public works in the United States in relation to this winter's unemployment problem. James R. Garfield of Cleveland, secretary of the interior in Roosevelt's administration, was named chairman of the committee.

In making the appointments Mr. Gifford said: "This committee will concern itself with the general program of public works and its relations to this winter's employment problem. The committee will have placed before it the present program of federal, state, and local public works. It will consider whether any further useful public works could be undertaken to advantage of the present unemployment situation."

At the same time Mr. Gifford's organization announced that the total public works program, as indicated by contract awards, now involves some two and a half billion dollars.

New Mexican Ambassador Takes U.S. Post Next Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—Dr. Jose Manuel Puig y Casaurance, new Mexican ambassador to the United States, will leave for his post next week. He will take with him a baby just born to his wife, whom he married a little over a year ago. His wife is the daughter of Reyes Espindola, noted editor of El Imparcial in the days of Porfirio Diaz and called the father of journalism and modern newspapers in Mexico. It is reported here that former Ambassador Manuel Telles will become minister of education.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Means of improving international police coöperation to combat fraud, drug and white slave traffic, and to perfect systems of identification, facilitate extraditions, and exchange information, were discussed today at the opening of the international police conference at the University of Paris. Thirty-six American delegates are attending the conference, which will last three days.

Railroad Discharges All Married Women Employes

Portsmouth, O., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Norfolk and Western railroad announced here today that after Oct. 1 it would not employ any married women in its clerical positions or other service. It also said that hereafter the marriage of any woman employé would automatically sever her connection with the railroad.

FOUR PRISONERS FLEE ROCKFORD JAIL; 1 RETAKEN

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Four prisoners sawed the bars on a fourth floor window tonight, lowered themselves eighty feet to the street with a rope made from strips of a blanket, and escaped from the Winnebago county jail.

A few hours later, one of the fugitives was reported captured at Beloit, Wis., fifteen miles away. Two others with him in a stolen automobile escaped from pursuing Beloit police.

The man recaptured was Roy Alva Marsh, alias Al Taylor, 34, who was arrested at Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 24, for auto theft, along with Albert Thrasher, who had escaped a short time before from the Rockford city jail. Thrasher did not attempt to escape tonight.

Betty Robinson Shows More Speed, but It's in Auto

Betty Robinson, Olympic sprint champion who was injured June 28 in an airplane accident, has been speeding again, but this time in an automobile instead of upon her own fleet legs, it was revealed yesterday by the North Shore park police. Miss Robinson and Bert Riel, Northwestern university athlete, were zipping along in Betty's roadster in Sheridan road Thursday when Motorcycle Policeman William Nandernack stopped them. Miss Robinson told Chief Edward Touhy that she was on her way to a sorority "rushing party" and was in a big rush. She and Riel were dismissed after a warning by the chief.

PRESIDENT KILLS ENTIRE YEAR'S NAVAL BUILDING

...minates 1933 Program to Save Money.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—The White House pruning ax ...ell its heaviest blow at the navy, it became known tonight. ...n his efforts to lop 200 millions ...m the cost of the federal government in the fiscal year 1932-'33 President Hoover has decided to eliminate ...e naval building program laid out ...r the 1933 fiscal year and, in addition, to cut down the destroyer program, already appropriated for, from ...e ships to five.

...ubstance for the navy over the next three years, it was stated in an ...thoritative quarter, stand to run as ...ch as 100 or 200 million dollars.

...his action virtually wipes out the ...y's program for building up to ...e tonnage levels of the London ...d treaty. The new naval warship ...nstruction and construction pro..., which contemplates the begin... of eleven new cruisers, aircraft ..., submarines, and destroyers ...ng the next twenty-one months, ...t on the scrap heap.

Drastic Economy Move.

...e navy slashes mark the adminis...ion's first major move in an at...pt to reduce the federal budget. All ...partments will feel the economy ...ing, but the pruning knife, as it did ...t year, is to fall hardest on the navy ...d probably lightest on the justice ...partment, which finances prohibition ...forcement.

...s a net result of the Hoover econ... plans for the navy, the Ameri... fleet apparently is doomed to sink ... a third place ranking among the ...ter naval powers. Figures show ...t if no new warships are laid ...wn the United States will rank ...ver Japan in all but capital ships ...y the end of 1942. On that date ...e ratio in modern ships, over the ...e fleet, would be 10 for the United ...tes, 10 for the British empire, and ...7 for Japan.

...hile naval officials maintain ...dam, the attitude of state depart...nt officials points to but one con...sion—that the United States is pre...ring to take a building holiday even ...f the other powers cannot agree to a ...enewal navy building truce.

Ten Days in the Making.

...he navy's plans for the next fiscal ...ar were laid before the President ...n days ago. At first the President ...ered halting construction of all the ...even destroyers.

...he President's latest decision, as ...mmunicated to the navy, is to per...t the construction of five or, at the ...ost, six destroyers. If but five are ...uilt $32,000,000 will be saved.

...he navy's new authorization and ...onstruction program, as approved by ...s highest naval officials, called for ...wo aircraft carriers costing $28,000,... each, one flying deck cruiser to ...ost, with planes, close to $30,000,000; ...ix 10,000-ton 6-inch gun cruiser, ...rmed with twelve guns, to cost $17,... each; six submarines to cost about ...2,000,000; one destroyer leader to ...ost about $6,000,000, and two unlim...ted 10,000-ton, 6-inch gun special ves...ls to cost something over $2,000,000 ...ach. Crowd and Police Battle; Three Hurt; Seven Arrested

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Several hundred persons, led by agitators who had been refused a hearing before the city council, clashed with police near the city hall tonight. Three policemen were injured and the aldermen were targets of sticks and stones. Seven men were arrested.

FLOATING RESTAURANT A PROBLEM NO LONGER

The old Rotarian, which was used as a clubhouse for the Cook County Democracy and later as a private dance hall and restaurant. When abandoned it sank, to become an obstacle in the Chicago river. It is shown being rammed by Chicago Harbor tug No. 4, 10 miles from the Chicago shore of Lake Michigan. The Rotarian had been raised and cut down to the water's edge. The tug towed it out into the lake, then rammed it and left it to sink. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Sunk in Lake

The old restaurant ship Rotarian left the Clark street dock, where it has been a menace to navigation for more than ten months, for the last time yesterday. Stripped to the hull, patched with canvas and loggily floating in the water, the hulk was towed ten miles into the lake and sunk.

Accompanying the boat were two launches carrying city officials, newspaper men and interested spectators. An American flag floated fore and aft, so that the Rotarian might be true to the tradition of the sea and sink with colors flying.

City Prosecutor Michael Rosinia, Mark McNamara, chief assistant prosecutor, and Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller, who ordered the boat's removal, represented the city.

The Rotarian was formerly the home of a political club fostered by a previous administration. Later it came into the possession of Attorney Miles Devine and Walter Powers. They converted it into a floating fish and chop house.

The old craft sank ten months ago under mysterious circumstances.

The hull was sunk yesterday in 30 feet of water ten miles due east of the mouth of the Chicago river. Twenty 500 pound drums of sand and all of the original machinery in the hull insure no reappearance of the craft.

KEEP BUDGET INSIDE REVENUE, CERMAK WARNS

Mayor Cermak stated definitely yesterday that he will not sign the city's 1932 appropriation bill unless the total is within the estimated revenues. If additional revenue is to be obtained it must come, he said, from a different source than a tax on real estate.

"The cost of government must be reduced and a program of economy carried on," said the mayor. "The city council will have a certain amount of money to apportion among the various departments, and it can't appropriate more than the city is going to receive. There probably will be fewer men working for the city."

Some economies can be made, he said, by reclassifying grades and titles in the city service in instances where promotions were given without justification. Through a correct grading of positions excessive salaries, the mayor said, can be reduced to a level consistent with the character of the work performed.

TEACHERS STAGE MASSMEETING TO GET OVERDUE PAY

Dissatisfaction with the school board was expressed by 700 south side teachers yesterday at a mass meeting in the Hyde Park high school. According to Henry W. Sumner, principal of the Scott school who acted as temporary chairman, the meeting was held to perfect an organization to ascertain, if possible, why nothing is being done toward paying the teachers.

Chicago's 14,000 teachers have not been paid, except in scrip, since last April, and it was the concensus among those present that their plight is rapidly approaching a crisis. It was reported that scrip is becoming more difficult of disposal and that teachers are being forced to take larger discounts.

Delegates are to be elected from the several schools to appeal to the board and the governor's revenue commission.

MORE LAWYERS ARGUE AGAINST BAN ON SCRIP

Attorneys Thurlow Essington, former state senator and representative of the Chicago Teachers' union, and Frank McAllister, who represents the school engineers' and janitors' unions, argued yesterday before Judge Philip Finnegan against the injunction sought by the Chicago Teachers' federation to restrain the school board from issuing any more scrip in payment of salaries to teachers.

Last week Attorney Thomas Sullivan opposed the restraining order, declaring that the bill was ambiguous and would cause large losses to teachers who already have accepted scrip.

"Teachers must not be denied their pay," Attorney Essington declared yesterday. "If they choose to take scrip the court should not deny them. This is the best method the school board could devise under the circumstances."

U.S. JUDGE DOUBTS HE SHOULD HEAR STATE TAX PLEA

Argue Jurisdiction Today in Injunction Plea.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday expressed doubt that the federal court is the place for objecters to Cook county tax rolls to seek relief from levies which they charge are inequitable. On his own motion Judge Woodward ordered attorneys in a tax injunction case to appear today to argue on the jurisdiction of the federal court.

JUDGE WOODWARD.

The case is one filed by Attorneys Roy D. Keehn and Morris Schaeffer, in which some 2,000 taxpayers seek an order restraining the collection of 1928 and 1929 taxes on their properties. County Attorney Hayden N. Bell is opposing the action. Judge Woodward issued a temporary injunction recently restraining County Treasurer McDonough from taking steps to collect the taxes, now delinquent, until the case is settled.

Charge Constitution Is Violated.

The taxpayers went into the federal court on the contention that the assessments were illegal, depriving them of their property without due process of law, in violation of the federal constitution. Two grounds for the contention were cited.

The first is that by denying many taxpayers a hearing on their complaints the board of review deprived them of a due process of law. The second is that the county assessors failed to place on their assessment rolls some $15,000,000,000 in personal property, thereby placing an inequitable burden on real estate.

Judge Woodward had a prepared statement in his hand when the attorneys in the case appeared yesterday. He read from it as follows:

"There is indeed a proper reluctance on the part of the federal court to interfere with the fiscal operation of the state government. The federal court, although acting for a paramount sovereignty, will not interpose to interfere with the fiscal operation of another sovereignty where the federal rights of the plaintiff could otherwise be prepared.

"The rule is well settled that a federal court of equity may properly interfere to restrain the violation of a taxpayer's rights by an unconstitutional exercise of the taxing powers, unless there is a plain, adequate, and complete remedy in law available to the taxpayer.

"The court suggests that the plaintiff may present its claim in the state courts."

Protests Farm Assessment.

H. W. Adair, chairman of the Cook County Farm bureau, protested yesterday against the tentative valuations which the board of assessors had placed on farm lands for 1931 taxes. He declared that the average reduction from the 1928 values should be 35 per cent.

Members of the board said the reduction in the county averaged approximately 22 per cent. Most of the values were less than the figures for which the farmers were willing to sell their property, the assessors asserted. Land along Milwaukee avenue in Wheeling township was valued at $400 an acre the land maps disclosed. Along Palatine and Rand roads the price was placed at $350 to $300 and more distant acres were valued at from $250 to $200.

Bandits Warn Mother Not to Wake Her Baby

Two bandits, who held up Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Graham, 2300 West Adams street, on the Fox river trail two miles south of Elgin yesterday, warned Mrs. Graham not to scream lest she awaken her baby, sleeping in the rear of the automobile. They robbed the couple of $40.

BONUS ISSUE NOT SIDETRACKED BY LEGION'S ACTION

Congress Certain to Get Bill for Payments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—That the soldiers' bonus issue was not thoroughly dispensed of by the action of the American Legion national convention last week was disclosed today when Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.] announced he would introduce a bill when congress convenes calling for full payment of veterans' adjusted compensation certificates.

WRIGHT PATMAN. [A. P. Photo.]

The Patman pronouncement came a few moments after President Hoover personally had thanked Harry L. Stevens, newly elected national commander of the Legion, for the action of the veterans in voting to shelve the bonus issue for the time being. Mr. Stevens had called at the White House to invite the President to again address the Legion on Armistice day.

Backed Former Bonus Bill.

Representative Patman, who was largely responsible for initiating congressional action last year on the bill giving the veterans the privilege of borrowing up to 50 per cent of their bonus certificates, said he was satisfied the action taken at Detroit did not represent the rank and file of the Legion. He asserted the bonus had been traded for beer.

Mr. Patman said his bill would provide for full payment upon application by any ex-service man. He estimated the measure would cost the government two billions.

Following his call on the President, Mr. Stevens denied the charge made by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist temperance board, that the Detroit convention was a "drunken orgy." He also denied the Wilson assertions that the resolutions calling for a dry law referendum was passed by intoxicated veterans, as charged by the Methodist dry.

Refutes Wilson's Charges.

"The delegates," Mr. Stevens said, "were the soberest minded people you ever saw. We will treat Dr. Wilson's statement with quiet dignity. We think he could have been more dignified and more accurate. There was no liquor and there was no drinking in the convention and in the committee rooms.

"If Dr. Wilson or any one else had seen these committeemen at work, preparatory to the presentation of the major resolutions on the floor of the convention, he would have been convinced of the sober reflection given by these Legionnaires upon the business before them.

"The hours of energy spent by them in working out resolutions showed they reflected in a most sober manner and that their results were the outcome of serious, careful, and sober study.

"I personally did not see Dr. Wilson in Detroit in the convention and I have yet to meet one person who did see him there. I think his reference to the conduct of the men of the Legion is undignified and his claims are untruthful and lacking in accuracy."

HOOVER FORCES MAY ADVOCATE HIGHER TARIFF

Consider Increases to Meet Gold Change.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—An administration move to raise tariff rates to protect American industries from the depreciated currencies of nations which have suspended the gold standard may come this winter as a result of studies now being made by treasury officials and tariff experts.

SENATOR JAMES E. WATSON. [Fotograms.]

The effects of the abandonment of the gold standard on the import and export trade of the United States are now being watched closely to see if it would be advisable to raise the rates to prevent the flooding of American markets with foreign made goods produced at lower production costs due to depreciated currency.

Watson Brings Up Issue.

President Hoover's attention has been called to the situation by Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader of the senate. The Indiana senator said today that he believes that if the depreciated currency program continues for any length of time the tariff rates of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act will be abrogated and it will be absolutely necessary to raise the rates from 20 to 25 per cent to overcome the lower production costs in countries now on the double currency standard.

Upon learning that Canada had adjusted her tariff rates to protect her industries from imports from countries on the depreciated money basis, Senator Watson today sought action from the tariff commission. He found that in many cases where hearings have been held these rates might be increased under the flexible tariff, if President Hoover should approve the recommendations of the commission.

Canada's Action Cited.

"Inasmuch as Canada has seen fit to protect her interests against importations from other portions of the British empire and countries that have gone off the gold standard, it would be necessary for the United States to act as promptly as possible in raising the tariff rates to meet the lower cost of production in countries where the currency has depreciated from 20 to 25 per cent," said Senator Watson.

"This cannot be done in a wholesale way in the United States except by an act of congress. The rates can be increased by the tariff commission acting under the flexible tariff provision only by a showing made before the commission that will justify that body recommending increases to the President. This would be a long and tireless process, as hearings must be had on each individual item to establish the difference in cost of production here and abroad."

AVOID SALES TAX, RETAIN SINKING FUND, IS OUTLOOK

Treasury Officials State Their Attitude.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Treasury officials said today that little prospect exists for congressional approval this winter of a general sales tax. While stating that such a tax probably would be workable it was reiterated that with administration officials lukewarm toward this method of raising taxes to combat growing deficits the plan probably would fail unless congressional sentiment changed.

Taking up another point on fiscal affairs, the treasury reiterated its opposition to balancing the budget through borrowing over any extended period of time, or to even temporary suspension of the sinking fund, which provides for an "orderly retirement" of the public debt.

At the present time the sinking fund, while being charged against expenditures, does not actually reduce the debt because of the large excess of borrowing over retirements. However, to remove it might react against government credit and it will be retained so far as the treasury's present view is concerned.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced today that the tenders for 100 million dollars of ninety-one day treasury bills dated Sept. 20, 1931, and maturing Dec. 30, 1931, were oversubscribed by 113 millions.

PROBE SHOOTING STORY.

BENTON HARBOR ARRESTS 2 FOR SLURRING BANKS

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Joseph Gubitz, West Hammond, Ill., fruit broker, was arrested here today for making alleged derogatory remarks about one of the three local banks, the second man to be taken into custody today on that charge.

Gubitz was arrested on the Benton Harbor market and lodged in the city jail pending questioning by Prosecutor W. M. Cunningham. Resident buyers who overheard his remarks will be called as witnesses.

William Guhl, New Buffalo, Mich., the first arrested in the campaign by Berrien county officials against those trying to harm banks, was released on bonds of $5,000 following arraignment. His examination is Oct. 13. Conviction on the charges calls for a prison term or $5,000 fine, or both.

Local banks weathered a small run Saturday and Monday and are reported in good shape.

VICTIMS SUFFER AS POLICE TRAP 2 HOLDUP MEN

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Trapped in the second floor office of the Crotona Trading corporation in the Bronx, a pair of holdup men were surprised late tonight by detectives and uniformed policemen just as they had lined up a dozen prospective victims against the wall.

In the pitched battle which followed three of the robbers' victims were wounded, two of the critically; a detective was shot in the face, and one of the robbers was captured, suffering a broken hip sustained when he jumped from the rear window of the office. His companion escaped.

UNABLE TO LINK ENRIGHT DEATH TO SCHOOL FIRE

Investigation yesterday failed to disclose any connection between the fire early Sunday morning in the board of education garage, 321 South Damen avenue, and the murder of Mortimer Enright, chief electrician for the school board, on Sept. 4. Theories that the garage had been fired to destroy telltale records were cast aside after it had been established by Thomas J. Sheehan, fire attorney, that the garage contained no records of any importance.

The fire, according to Mr. Sheehan, appears to have been started accidentally by burglars in search of valuable tools kept in the garage. On the theory that the burglars may have been burned in escaping from the building, Mr. Sheehan ordered police to look for such cases at hospitals and doctors' offices.

FARMS TO CURB HUNTERS KILLING PHEASANT HENS

Loophole in the Law Aids Wanton Shooters.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Armed farmers of the countryside surrounding Chicago have set out to organize vigilance groups and to post notices against the swarm of hunters who have been killing hen pheasants and quail at an alarming rate.

H. P. MILLER.

The first protest meeting was held at Yorkville last night, where W. P. Miller, Kendall county farm adviser, helped officers of the County Farmers' Protective association to arrange for the deputizing of game wardens.

The second county to take action, Du Page, will have a similar meeting on Friday night, when officers of the Izaak Walton league and directors of the farm bureau will meet at the office of Farm Adviser H. S. Wright in Wheaton. The Waltonites plan to aid farmers in increasing and protecting the pheasant and quail population in the county.

Other Groups to Act.

Other county farm groups planning to act in curbing trespassing and present killing of valuable wild fowl in Illinois farms are those in Cook, Lake, Will, and Boone counties, it was reported yesterday. A county-wide farmers' protective association already exists in each of these counties.

Reports by game wardens and conservators last week called the attention of farmers to the fact that the ambiguous new game law protects pheasant cocks but not the hens. One Kane county hunter apprehended last week had killed thirty hens. The Kane county sheriff declared he could not convict him for this, although the courts in several counties yesterday declared they could prosecute hunters for trespassing if they were found on a farmer's property without possessing written permission to hunt game.

Farmers Are Deputized.

"We have deputized twenty farmers for the county farmers' protective association, nine of my deputies are investigating hunters, and the Izaak Walton league has had several of its members deputized," reported Sheriff John Eastermann at Wheaton yesterday. "I expect to have 50 deputies in the county this fall and winter."

Sheriff Rodtmann declared his interpretation of the new law was that pheasants could not be killed at any time, and he said he had instructed his wardens to arrest those killing the hens, regardless of the superstition some had placed on the law. He urged that some one should make a test case to clear up the law.

Two Lake County Action.

A meeting is to be held in Lake county soon to enable the county farm bureau, the county farmers' protective association, and the local Izaak Walton league to join forces in posting Trespass signs on all farms. This plan was announced last night by J. C. Gilkerson, farm adviser at Waukegan. He said he had discussed the matter with W. J. Swayer of Waukegan, president of the farm bureau, and J. J. Claude, Barrington, president of the vigilante organization, and they reported much concern among farmers over the "careless and rampant hunters who kill wantonly and without securing permission."

Several farmers who have stocked their lands with pheasants attested yesterday to their value as destroyers of insects. Steps are being taken against the sportsmen, they said, and against irresponsible people who hunt without permission in groups, tearing down fences and damaging crops in many cases.

For an hour yesterday R. O. T. C. units of the Senn High school unit marched with never a "squads right" or "squads left." It was the initial public exhibition of the new simplified maneuver. So successful is the experiment proving, according to Maj. Frank L. Reals, supervisor of physical education and military training in the schools, that the day of the intricate squad drills may soon be a thing of the past.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Florence Eldridge [Mrs. Frederic March], stage actress, appeared in the Superior court today as defendant and cross complainant to Mrs. Betty Greenberg's suit asking $32,100 damages as a result of an automobile collision. Miss Eldridge asked $5,240 damages in her cross suit. At a former trial last March a jury disagreed.

BURGLAR GETS $7,200 LOOT IN BROKER'S HOME

A burglar entered the home of Samuel J. Cohn, broker, at 750 Kenesaw terrace early last evening and escaped with $90 and jewelry valued at $7,200 after terrorizing a maid, Mary Gaul, whom he met on the second floor.

The maid was in the billiard room when the man appeared. Ordering her roughly to remain quiet, he thrust her into a clothes closet and slammed the door. At the opposite end of the closet was a second door leading into a bedroom. Into this room the maid fled and then into a hall and downstairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Cohn were at dinner. They called the police and the house was surrounded. The thief had escaped before the arrival of the police.

DEMOCRATS HAVE A CANDIDATE FOR CORONER'S JOB

But Bundesen Stays Till He Gets Assurances.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Considerable pressure, it was learned yesterday, is being brought to persuade Dr. Herman N. Bundeson to resign from his elected office as coroner. He now holds that position as well as the appointive office of city health commissioner under Mayor Cermak, but he accepts no salary for the city post.

FRANK J. WALSH. [Walinger Photo.]

The argument of the Democratic organization is that Dr. Bundesen should give way in order that it may place a man in the coroner's office who, when the next election rolls around, will have a year's record of service upon which to run for a full term, thereby giving the party an advantage over a new entry from the Republican side.

Frank J. Walsh Chosen.

The county managing committee has considered the matter and has selected Frank J. Walsh, committeeman from the 17th ward, as its choice for the uncompleted term and as its candidate for next year.

Walsh is an old timer in the organization. He was elected clerk of the Criminal court in 1910 and re-elected in 1914. In 1920 he was appointed naval officer of customs under the Wilson administration.

Although his selection was satisfactory to most of the organization, it is said, the plan came to a stumbling block when County Chairman P. A. Nash transmitted the news to Dr. Bundesen. As coroner, the physician installed scientific methods carried out by medical men and other experts and he said he felt, because of his sense of responsibility for the full term for which he was elected, that he must require definite assurances that the office be maintained on the high level to which he had raised it.

Gives Coroner Assurance.

The organization leaders were anxious to have Dr. Bundesen's resignation at once so that the county board might act on the vacancy at its meeting today. Dr. Bundesen's attitude slowed up this plan. Walsh talked on him yesterday and it is understood gave definite assurances of his intention to maintain the present standards in the coroner's office if he takes it over.

But at the close of their talk Dr. Bundesen remained noncommittal in his statements to reporters.

"There is no change in the situation up to this time," he said. "I have no announcement to make."

It was understood later that the physician would like to have something more than Walsh's statement of his own intentions, that he may want further assurances from the party leaders. It is said Dr. Bundesen fears that a new coroner might replace men of scientific training with organization workers whose chief claims to places on the payroll is party regularity.

At least there will be no action, it is said, at today's county board meeting.

WIFE CHARGES KIDNAP THREAT BY HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Kathleen Janney Lynch, 3100 Sheridan road, daughter of T. G. Janney, an official of the By-Products Coke company, yesterday charged her husband, Michael J. Lynch, 3901 Sheridan road, a promoter, with cruelty in a bill for divorce filed in the Circuit court. She charged that since their separation on Sept. 1 her husband has threatened to abduct her, and asked an injunction to restrain him from annoying her.

In the bill, filed by Attorney Leslie Donahue, Mrs. Lynch asks the custody of her daughter, Colleen, 2 years old, and permanent alimony. She recites that her marriage took place on Oct. 5, 1928, and that shortly afterward her husband became cruel.

Hamilton County After 38 Years Obtains Courthouse

McLeansboro, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Hamilton county bought a courthouse today. The county board of supervisors bid in the First National bank building here for $7,200 at a public auction. The courthouse was destroyed by fire in 1893 and the county has been without one ever since.

U. S. AGENTS TELL WHY "DRUGGAN PLOT" IS A DUD

Little Chance to Dodge Prison, They Say.

An explanation of the internal revenue law as it applies to the income tax cases against Terry Druggan—whose agents are reported to have engineered a plot to discredit United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, only to see it react against them—was made yesterday by government agents investigating the alleged conspiracy. When their inquiry is complete, federal prosecution is expected to follow.

Their interpretation of the statutes, the agents said, served only to emphasize the conclusion that even had Druggan been able to buy his way out of his tax difficulties, either here or in Washington, he would still face a prison term.

The Government's Case.

The government's case against Druggan and his former partner in the beer business, Frankie Lake, may be summed up as follows: Criminal liability for attempting to defeat and evade paying income tax; civil liability for the taxes owed, and a third count, attempting to defraud the government by misrepresenting the amount of assets. This latter charge carries a maximum sentence of ten years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Druggan's aim, according to the story of the alleged plot, was to secure a settlement of the first two charges by the payment of a $75,000 bribe. The money got no farther than a go-between who promised to give help that he could not deliver.

But had the plot worked out as planned, there would have remained the insurmountable barrier represented by the third count. It would not have been a serious obstacle had Druggan and Lake not pleaded guilty to all the charges last January. The third count is not dependent upon the others, for it has no relation to the income tax charges, and even had those other charges been stricken, the chances of evading the third count would have been extremely slim, if not virtually impossible, the government agents say.

Before U. S. Supreme Court.

Since Prosecutor Johnson's case is to a large extent based on this third count, the sole opportunity of a loophole would lie in the interpretation placed upon the law by the United States Supreme court, which now has the convictions of Ralph Capone and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien before it on appeal.

In a majority opinion, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals held that the third count is actually a felony. If this is the decision of the Supreme court, Druggan's and Lake's chances of evading the prison terms are slim, for they pleaded guilty subject to the decision in the O'Brien and Capone cases.

With the exposure of the plot only three days old, Mr. Johnson is receiving letters and telegrams from all parts of the country from persons affirming their belief in him and his integrity. The Washington investigation is not complete, but it was understood that one report sent to their chief by the agents was that no notes of Mr. Johnson's had been taken up by the hoodlums, which constituted an important part of the reported plot.

LOST! 22 Lbs. of FAT

Well Known Battle Creek Woman Jubilant! Reduced Waist Four Inches—Limbs More Shapely—Feels Oh, So Light and Full of Pep!

Suppose you weighed 172 and your mirror constantly reminded you of a double chin, heavy arms and legs, large hips and bust.

And suppose this over-fat condition made you too heavy for your own feet—until you felt constantly all dragged out, stomach upset with gas and indigestion, and you were grouchy and irritable.

And then you tried one thing after another—and you're all ready to give up in despair.

Such was the dilemma of Mrs. Harold Tyler, 191 Elm St., Battle Creek, Mich. She read about Bonkora, the safe, natural way to take off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing retained moisture from fatty tissues. But let her tell the story:

"I wanted to reduce badly, for I was far too heavy. I was nervous and irritable. I tried one reducing preparation after another, but got no results. They seemed only to increase my nervousness. Then I tried Bonkora, and the results certainly came fast. I lost 22 pounds of fat and 4 inches of my waist line—from 172 to 150 in a short time, without following any special diet."

You may not want to lose 22 pounds. But if you have excess fat you can lose it in the famous "3 easy stages" as shown in this picture. For the next week, before meals, take a little Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. No need to starve. Eat as much as you want. The big secret is selecting for each meal the proper combination of foods that do not clog the system and turn to fat. An almost endless choice of appealing dishes, showing how to select the correct combination of foods you probably like best, furnished free.

Bonkora, the safe and effective method to reduce—recently perfected by a skilled chemist—contains only the choicest and most efficacious medicaments of Nature, NO thyroid or other drug that may jeopardize your health.

Simply get a bottle of Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, with free list of anti-fat food combinations, at Walgreen's today—unhealthy fat will quickly disappear and with it bloat, gas, and other stomach ills. You'll feel younger; yes, you'll look younger, with those bright eyes and that clear skin and stunning, youthful figure which only perfect health can impart.

Big bottle of Bonkora only 98c at all Walgreen and Economical Drug Stores.

BRITISH PREMIER IN NEW FIGHT TO RETAIN POWER

Will See King Today on Election Issue.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald, refreshed by five days' rest in the country, engaged in a new fight today to maintain Britain's national government.

Boldly reasserting his leadership, Mr. MacDonald said he would not lend himself to the plans of any one party. The more he has studied the nation's problems the more convinced he has become that national unity is indispensable, it was authoritatively said, and all his efforts will be directed toward that end.

Will See King Today.

The utmost secrecy was maintained tonight after a long cabinet meeting in the prime minister's room in the houses of parliament, where the whole situation was threshed out and a decision made about whether to hold a general election immediately.

Mr. MacDonald will have an audience with King George tomorrow, and the government's plans will be revealed to the nation at the latest on Wednesday. The prime minister, told Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, in the house of commons today that he would announce Wednesday how long the present special session of parliament will last.

An immediate general election, with voting in late October, may be necessary if Mr. MacDonald is to maintain the national government. But he will appeal to the country only as the leader in a national emergency campaign, demanding a "doctor's mandate" to prescribe for the ailing nation. He will not carry the Conservative tariff standard, the Liberal free trade flag, or Labor-Socialist banner, it was authoritatively learned.

Ready to Stand Aside.

If the party leaders do not agree with this, Mr. MacDonald has threatened to stand aside, which would mean his immediate retirement from politics, and to let somebody else wrestle with Britain's present difficulties.

Mr. MacDonald's plan, if a quick election is necessary, is to appeal for a big united central block in the house of commons which would concentrate on immediate national needs and ask the nation to give it power to deal with those needs.

British ambassadors and ministers abroad are to take a ten per cent salary cut in line with the government's retrenchment policy, commons was informed today.

BETTY GREEN.

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—The alleged kidnapers of Charles M. Rosenthal, the young broker who was missing from his home in Lawrence, L. I., from Aug. 11 to Aug. 28, went on trial today in General Sessions.

The defendants, who are charged with having held Rosenthal for $50,000 ransom finally paid by his mother, are Nicholas Rutigliano, manager of the Hotel Vendig, in West 47th street; Marcus Blumenthal, alias Jack Markham; Albert Sileo, alias John Rocco, of Newark; Theodore Adinoli, alias Harry King, of Newark, and Betty Stewart Green, the young Negress who is supposed to have lured the broker into the hands of his kidnapers.

CALIFORNIANS VOTE TODAY ON AQUEDUCT PLAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Los Angeles and thirteen other cities of southern California will vote at the polls tomorrow on a yes or no proposition to authorize 220 millions in bonds for construction of an aqueduct leading to the Colorado river. The aqueduct is expected to convey water made available by Boulder dam, when built. Construction of the aqueduct will consume seven or eight years, finishing about the time Boulder dam water would become available.

PLOT TO RESTORE TROTZKY AS RED WAR LORD BARED

And Amanullah Would Get Back His Throne.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Intrigue of a former king and communists to regain for Leon Trotzky his former post as war lord of Russia, to replace Amanullah Khan of Afghanistan on his throne, and to rally a great Red army to menace the British-Indian frontiers has made a sudden dramatic advance with the visit of Amanullah to Trotzky's exile at Prinkipo island in the Sea of Marmora, according to news received in London from Istanbul.

Swooping unannounced out of the sky in a brand new seaplane, Amanullah arrived at Prinkipo last Tuesday. Landings there are illicit and a Turkish naval patrol immediately rushed to the scene, but when they learned the identity of the visitor, allowed him to go ashore. Large crowds were attracted to the pier, and Amanullah was recognized and photographed by a Turkish woman.

Plane Disappears at Night.

Thursday evening the plane was still lying off Prinkipo, with a Turkish gunboat alongside, but Friday morning neither the boat nor the plane was there, and the extra guard around Trotzky's home was reduced to normal.

The name of Trotzky is one to conjure with in Turkestan, and it is learned that Afridi chieftains, headed by the powerful Badshah Eygul, want Trotzky pardoned and sent to take command of the great army he created, the headquarters of which is within striking distance of India at Tashkent, where the world's largest airport also is located.

It is understood that the soviet commissars in Turkestan, Khiva, Bokhara, Yarkand, and Kashgar, who govern the fanatical Moslem fence around India, insist that Trotzky be returned, but so far the Russian dictator, Joseph Stalin, has been obdurate and has not given his decision.

Looked On as Napoleon.

The name of Napoleon never inspired more awe among warriors than does Trotzky's among the tribesmen, as well as the Russian troops. The latter are said to be more than willing to have him return to organize them. The chieftains joined Amanullah in asserting that Trotzky's name is worth ten of Stalin's in eastern Russia, and this was proved by the great excitement already caused by the scattering of leaflets by planes throughout the tribal territories saying that Trotzky is coming there.

Amanullah is not out by any means to strengthen the soviet army for nothing. He was ousted because his modern ideas alienated the fanatical tribesmen and he hopes now to assuage them by making them understand it is he who is bringing them a military super organizer. The chieftains are not communistic, either, but they are anti-British, which amounts to the same thing as far as strengthening the Turkestan frontiers is concerned.

Turkey Tired of Trotzky.

From the Turkish viewpoint, it is learned that Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Turkish president, is more than tired of Trotzky's presence and the constant intrigues going on about him, and would be greatly pleased by his absence. If Trotzky wishes to fly across the Persian gulf, nobody would try to stop him, but the Turkish foreign minister has stated that if Trotzky left, he could not return, especially in view of the budding Turkish friendship with Britain.

EX-CONVICT IS SENTENCED.

Charles Bowling, 48 years old, an ex-convict, was sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge James Fardy. He was charged with stabbing Miss Gertrude Sievert, 35 years old, 4203 Berkeley avenue, in a quarrel.

GO INTO BANKRUPTCY; CANCEL ALL DEBTS, WELLS URGES WORLD

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—H. G. Wells, noted British author, in a radio broadcast tonight formulated the following prescription for the ills of the world:

The world should be declared bankrupt and its debts written down. The issuance of money should be restricted to one central world authority.

War should be abolished and all foreign offices, diplomatic services, arsenals, dockyards, war offices, navies, and air forces scrapped, disbanded, and pensioned. The earth should be ruled by a dictatorship, not of this man or that man, but of informed and educated common sense.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR FRANK POPE, N. SIDE GAMBLER

Fails to Appear on Contempt Charge.

CRIMINAL COURT.

William Jordan, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Thomas Martin, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory, by Judge G. Fred Rush.

Circuit Judge Joseph Burke issued a warrant yesterday for Frankie Pope, north side gambler, when Pope failed to appear for contempt of court proceedings growing out of the issuance of a temporary injunction protecting his gambling resort, the Aquarium Social club, at 814 Diversey parkway.

FRANKIE POPE.

Judge Burke dissolved the injunction Friday after he was informed that state's attorney raiders had found gambling in the club. He ordered that Pope appear and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt on the charge that he swore falsely to an affidavit that there was no gambling in the club. Pope was also charged with signing the affidavit under the alias of Joseph Sanders.

Judge Wants Policy Owners.

Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey yesterday demanded that police bring before him the actual operators of policy games, and not just their employés and customers. He ordered that a search be made for Silas Johnson, reputed owner of an elaborate policy layout which police seized at 1846 Selden street.

James Washington, 13 West 39th street, colored, whom police found in charge of the place, was sentenced to thirty days in the Bridewell after he had named Johnson as the real owner.

Eleven Negroes, patrons of the place who were found locked in a vault and in danger of suffocation, were fined $25 each.

Slot Machine Episode.

Joseph Unger, owner of a grocery at 1100 West 63d street, appeared before Municipal Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt yesterday, charged with having a slot machine in his store. Police seized the machine as a result of an anonymous tip.

"Who told the police on you," the judge asked Unger.

"I did it myself," he replied. "I wanted to get arrested."

Judge Eberhardt gaped in astonishment.

"A fellow left the machine in my place a week ago and never came back," he explained. "I was afraid I'd be arrested for having it there, but I couldn't figure out how to get rid of it, so I got myself arrested."

He was freed.

Eleven young women and more than 100 men were arrested yesterday by Chicago avenue police, led by Capt. Gregory Moran, in a raid on a handbook establishment at 707 North Clark street.

FORMER AMBASSADOR RICHARD W. CHILD WEDS FOR THE FOURTH TIME

Newport, R. I., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Richard Washburn Child, author and former ambassador to Italy, married Mrs. Dorothy Gallagher Everson, who has served the family as governess and secretary, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gallagher, on North Thames street tonight.

Judge Hugh B. Baker of the Rhode Island Superior court performed the ceremony in the presence of a small group of members of the immediate family. Mrs. Frederick Clifford was matron of honor and Joseph M. Gallagher, a brother of the bride, was best man.

Mrs. Everson is Mr. Child's fourth wife. He was graduated from Harvard in 1903 and the following year he married Miss Elizabeth Scott of Alexander, Va. Their divorce in 1916 came as a surprise to friends. Then he married Miss Maud Parker, an author of note, in August, 1916. The second Mrs. Child was granted a divorce in Paris in 1926, and in 1927 Child married Miss Eva Sanderson, then his literary secretary. They were divorced here in 1930.

Restaurant Owner Starts to Park Auto, Disappears

The Town Hall police were searching yesterday for Dave Edell, 922 Eastwood avenue, restaurant owner, missing since last Wednesday. Edell left his home on Wednesday morning with his son, Irving, 21 years old, and drove to his restaurant at 194 North Clark street, where Irving got out of the car. Edell drove on to park the machine and has not been seen since. Mrs. Elsie Edell, his wife, told the police yesterday she received a telephone call from him the night of his disappearance. "You'll hear from me, honey," he said then left the instrument suddenly.

JOBLESS MAN KILLS SELF.

Pana, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Ben F. Russell, 58, committed suicide at his home here today by shooting himself through the heart. He was believed to have been despondent over lack of employment.

ALCOCK APPEARS AS PROSECUTOR IN POLICE TRIAL

Two Are Discharged for Disobeying Orders.

Policemen Victor L. Carlson and Terence J. Ryan, formerly of the Des Plaines street station, were discharged yesterday by the civil service commission after a hearing in which Acting Police Commissioner Alcock set a precedent by personally conducting the prosecution.

The charge was disobedience of orders. They had, the specifications set forth, arrested Edward Martin and Jack Cohen on July 27; Carlson alone had driven to the station with the two prisoners and after keeping them in the lockup for more than an hour had released them without consulting the district captain.

Stories of Witnesses Conflict.

As the case proceeded the variance between the testimony of the policemen and that of Martin and Cohen perplexed listeners. The policemen testified that they had never seen Martin and Cohen and that they had arrested two other men. Martin and Cohen positively identified the two policemen and also the lockup keeper.

"Cohen and I," testified Martin, "were in the basement of a garage in Clinton street when these two policemen came in. They kept us there in a small room for an hour before one of them took us to the station. The other one remained at the garage. After spending more than an hour in the lockup we were released."

Cohen said he had gone to the garage to get a car.

Warned of Frameup, Claim.

After denying that he had ever seen the accusing witnesses, Carlson shouted: "While in the district I was active in stopping beer trucks and raiding vice dens. I was informed that if I didn't 'go along' I would be framed. Forty-nine minutes after I arrested two men on July 27 I was transferred."

Former Capt. Daniel Murphy, attorney for the policemen, after the trial said he could throw no light on the conflicting stories. Carlson's only statement was, "I don't know what it is all about."

Captive to Stand Trial in Killing of Policeman

Jack Lawrence, 28 years old, dropped his fight to resist extradition from Holland, Mich., yesterday and agreed to come to Chicago to stand trial for the murder of Policeman John Nerad of Cicero. Nerad was slain in 1929 when he tried to arrest two gunmen. Nick Buonice, arrested on Sept. 7 by Cicero police, confessed the killing and named Lawrence as his accomplice. The latter was arrested a week later in Holland.

FALL IN HOME IS FATAL.

Thomas Beasley, 60 years old, died yesterday in the county hospital from a fracture of the skull he received Sunday when he fell in the basement of his home at 2043 West Grand avenue.

Richard Slott, 1422 West 14th street, stuffed $122 into a shoe box in the Sally Shoe Store, Inc., 6329 South Halstead street, yesterday to hide the money from robbers. Slott put the box on the counter for a moment before hiding it in a rear room. A gunman sauntered in and took the box.

Mr. A of Short Name Fame Is Vindicated

Aaron A, who claimed possession of the shortest name in the country but who was found to be Earl G. Gerske, 5931 Elston avenue, when he was charged with forgery recently, was freed yesterday in the Felony court. Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast said Gerske was innocent.

"McKellar for President," Say Tennessee Democrats

Rogersville, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(AP)—United States Senator Kenneth D. McKellar of Tennessee was endorsed tonight by the state Democratic leaders for the presidential nomination. The endorsement was given at a barbecue at the farm of George L. Berry, president of the pressmen's union.

WHAT PIGS OUGHT TO EAT IS ISSUE IN FARM CRUELTY

Sharp Retorts Are Given by Mrs. McLaughlin.

A jury in Judge John Prystalski's court is hearing evidence on the question whether William Schroeder, a Wheeling farmer, is guilty of cruelty to his farm animals. The complaining witness is Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin of Lake Forest. The trial has taken up two court days and will probably cover much of the session today.

Mrs. McLaughlin, who charges Schroeder fed his animals improperly and gave them improper shelter, was on the witness stand again most of the morning session yesterday. In the afternoon Schroeder defended the cleanliness of his pig barn and his right to feed the pigs a certain kind of garbage. Some of Schroeder's neighbors came to court to help him.

Sharp Answers to Lawyer.

The morning session was featured by sharp interchanges between Mrs. McLaughlin and R. H. Miller, attorney for Schroeder, during cross-examination.

"Was there anything wrong in the pigs being out in the open at 1:30 o'clock in December?" asked the attorney. The judge interjected a question to determine whether the pigs were out after midnight or in the afternoon.

"No, of course not," replied Mrs. McLaughlin, "but I consider those particular pigs which were on the outside much better off than the pigs on the inside, whether it was 1:30 o'clock in the morning or afternoon."

Attorney Miller attempted, without success, to get Mrs. McLaughlin to admit that she went on her tour of inspection of Schroeder's farm clad in a lace dress.

Farmer Takes Appeal.

Schroeder was found guilty by a jury of his neighbors before a justice of the peace several months ago. He was fined $10 and costs. He appealed the case to the Criminal court and demanded another jury hearing.

It is estimated that it costs approximately $500 a day to operate a criminal court, counting the salaries of the judge, clerk, bailiffs, prosecutors and jurors. The trial will take nearly three days. The maximum fine that can be inflicted on Schroeder is $200.

The judge several times during the hearing indicated his displeasure with the time taken up by the case. He is anxious, he said, to get back trying the serious crimes which usually come into his court.

YOU'RE A MORON IF YOU WHISTLE, SAYS PROFESSOR

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Persons who whistle are morons, devoid of moral stamina, and possessed of an inferiority complex, Prof. Charles Gray Shaw of the philosophy department of New York university asserted today.

"No great or successful man ever whistles," the professor said. "Can you think of Einstein, Edison or Mussolini tuning up to 'When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain'? Can you think of President Hoover as whistling? The strength of the Hoover mind and will is such that there will be no whistling in the White House."

Prof. Shaw did not mention those who walk about the news room whistling, or worse, half whistling under their breath. Nor did he mention the much worse than "moron" they are called.

BATTLES CHICKEN THIEVES.

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Officers in Knox, Fulton and McDonough counties are searching for three men who engaged in a shotgun duel with S. W. Gooding, farmer, near her, last night when the latter caught them stealing his chickens. Gooding and his family drove the trio off and recovered their chickens. All three of the thieves are believed to have been wounded.

JERSEY LEADERS OF G. O. P. TALK BEER CAMPAIGN

No Decision Announced After Meeting.

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—David Baird Jr., Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey; United States Senators Dwight W. Morrow and Hamilton F. Kean, and the Republican representatives discussed legalization of beer at a conference in Newark today, but if they came to any decision they kept it well hidden.

In the face of reports that the parley was being held to consider the possibility of drafting a 4 per cent beer plank for presentation to President Hoover, Mr. Baird insisted the conference was solely concerned with the state campaign.

Beer, he admitted in his formal statement, was talked about, but it was only one of the many topics discussed and his statement failed to reveal any assumption of a decisive stand by the New Jersey congressional delegation. All other members of the conference refused to make any statements. Senator Morrow, outstanding wet leader, joined with his fellow Republicans in leaving the announcement entirely up to Mr. Baird.

"The issues of the campaign were fully and frankly discussed, including unemployment, taxation, economy, and efficiency in the administration of public business, beer, and the growth of racketeering," Mr. Baird said.

"I propose to discuss all of these issues as the campaign progresses."

While the Republican leaders did not come out at this time for 4 per cent beer, it is known sentiment favors bringing out this argument in the state campaign.

FAIL TO REPAIR MAIN; 7 TOWNS STILL GO DRY

Residents of Harvey, Posen, Dixmoor, Hazel Crest, Markham, South Holland and Phoenix spent another waterless day yesterday. Fifty workmen labored to place a temporary water pipe around the 36 inch main which burst Saturday at the bottom of the Calumet river near 131st and Halsted streets in Riverdale. This adjustment was not expected to be completed until late today.

More than 35,000 persons in Harvey and the other six towns which Harvey supplies with water are suffering in the water famine. The reservoir in Harvey is half full, but this water is kept ready for pumping in case of fire.

Repairing the water main on the bed of the river may take two weeks, according to the engineers. Workmen excavating for the new Halsted street bridge over the Calumet river are believed to have disturbed the river bed and caused the main to burst.

Who wants a white collar job, anyway?

Ability counts

Rules for success same in all jobs

IT'S a joy to meet a craftsman of the old school, who'd rather be a first-rate workman in overalls than a tenth-rate man in a white collar job.

If you were to ask him his rules for success, he'd probably tell you with a twinkle in his eye, "Same as for any other job, I guess. Hard work. Steady plugging. And good health. I've never missed a day's work from illness. I made sure of that years ago. After all, it doesn't make so much difference what you do, as how well you do it. Whatever your line of work, take a tip from my experience. Keep fit with Nujol."

Nujol is not a medicine. It is a pure natural substance (perfected by the famous Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York City). It not only prevents an excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them), but aids in their removal. It's these poisons that sap your strength and energy, kill your ambition, make you old before your time.

Start Nujol today. It can't possibly upset you or disagree with you. Nujol contains absolutely no medicine or drugs. And it costs very little—not more than the price of a couple of those white collars we were talking about.

Worth a try, isn't it? You'll find Nujol at all drug stores in sealed packages. Get a bottle today.

ATTORNEYS ASK LIGHTER PENALTY IN CANAL CASE

Judge Hears Objections to Discipline.

Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, sitting as commissioner for the Illinois Supreme court, yesterday opened hearings on objections of former attorneys for the sanitary district to his report recommending disciplina. Arguments will be heard for several weeks before the judge makes a final draft of the report for presentation to the Supreme court.

The proceedings were brought by the Chicago Bar association against 56 lawyers on charges that they had either countenanced padded pay rolls or had profited through them by doing little work. One of the lawyers named died. Of the remaining 55, Judge Taylor suggested that nine be disbarred, eleven suspended for two years, twenty-seven suspended for one year, seven be discharged, and the case of one was referred back to the court for further instruction.

Judge Taylor informed attorneys for the lawyers that he will hear objections only on the facts and not on the law involved. The bar association was represented by Attorney W. R. Matheny.

The first objection was that of Attorney William Newberger, in which a year's suspension was recommended. His counsel held the punishment to be too severe and asked that a reprimand be substituted. Meyer Kaufman, for whom the same punishment was recommended, advanced the objection he was innocent of wrong intent.

William Scott Stewart filed objection through United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis asking leave to file further affidavits and to reopen proofs. He may be suspended for one year. Objections were overruled or taken under advisement for Stephen A. Malato, Mark J. McNamara, Carl H. Lundquist, Victor L. Ohrenstein, Joseph Paulissen, James J. McDermott, Joseph A. Kelb, and former City Clerk Al F. Gorman.

The bar association's objections to the recommended discharge of Attorney John B. King was overruled by the judge. Attorney Matheny declared King had deliberately attempted to deceive the judge in giving testimony as to his employment with the sanitary district.

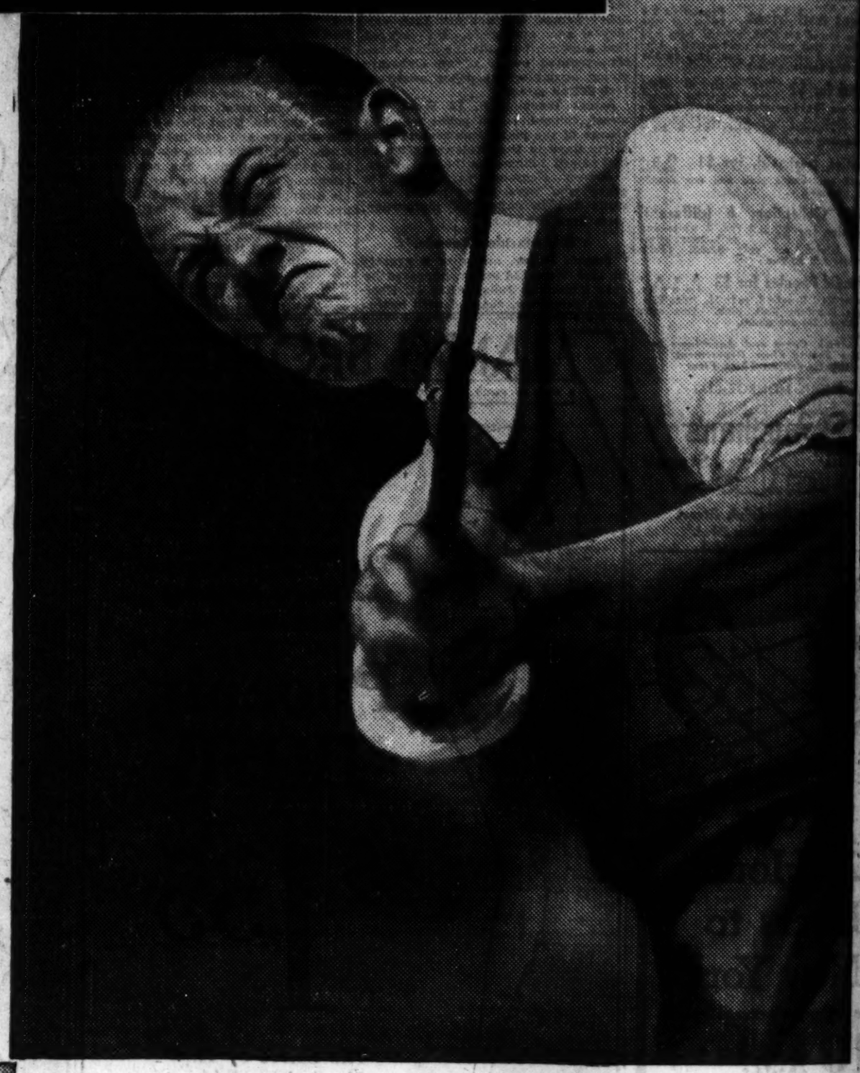
Dubbed Again!



ON the golf course, at the office, at home ... No matter where we happen to be when we "blow up"—we just have to take it out on someone, something.

We blame it on the weather, on business, even on a "dubbed" golf shot. It's so easy to find an excuse ...

But most of the trouble is—"bottled up" nerves! The natural consequence of living the way we do—the American Pace!

It's really surprising to find what little things can sometimes calm us down.

Science, for example, has lately pointed out some interesting facts about chewing gum—and nerves.

Biochemical research has now proved that chewing gum is a definite help in smoothing out tense and tired nerves. Wrigley's actually aids in counteracting nervous tension, in promoting nervous relaxation.

You might try it out yourself. Thousands are convinced there's really something in it. When "nerves" are getting the best of you—try Wrigley's. See if it doesn't relieve the tension and help to make your little troubles fewer!

● If you really want to know: There are to that portion of the face directly connected with gum chewing, the trunks of the 5th or trigeminal nerve and also the 7th nerve. Gum chewing, which necessitates the massage and relaxation of these nerves (scientists say) definitely reduces nervous tension, promotes nervous relaxation.

All statements in this advertisement are based on scientific research.

Wrigley's P. K.'s—flavored with the choicest of Michigan peppermint. You'll find them most cooling and refreshing after meals, between smokes

YOUNG SLAYER MAKES SURPRISE PLEA: NOT GUILTY

Judge Sets Murder Trial for Oct. 12.

Perry Swank Jr., 18 year old schoolboy of Creston, Ind., who shot and killed Eugene Duckworth, a gasoline filling station proprietor of Lowell, Ind., during a holdup on Sept. 20, pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday on a murder indictment. Judge Martin Smith, presiding over the Criminal court of Lake county at Crown Point, continued the case to Oct. 12.

PERRY SWANK JR.

The not guilty plea was a surprise to Judge Smith and the county prosecutors. If his plea young Swank is gambling with the electric chair, for Prosecutor Robert G. Estill announced that the boy would be tried on the charge of first degree murder during the perpetration of a robbery. Death in the electric chair is a mandatory sentence for conviction of this crime in Indiana under a law passed in 1929.

He Pleads Not Guilty.

It had been expected that Perry would plead guilty to the general charge of first degree murder. When John Smith asked him what he wished to do, Perry turned to John Keller, an attorney from East Chicago, who entered the case for the defense. They conversed for a moment. Then Perry said: "I'm not guilty, your honor."

"Why, I thought that you were going to plead guilty," exclaimed Judge Smith. "When did you decide to change?"

"Just this morning," the boy said.

Attorney Asks Delay.

Attorney Haller then asked for a continuance on the plea that he needed more time in which to prepare the defense.

"Why, you don't need any more time for a defense; there isn't any defense," said Judge Smith. "This boy killed a man and has confessed to it."

Haller persisted, and Judge Smith set the trial date. It will be a jury trial.

Outside of the courtroom Haller said reporters that the defense would be "some kind of an insanity plea."

TWO JAILED AS GUN TOTERS.

Curtis Rose, 22 years old, 1252 West Madison street, and Sam Lieberman, 21 years old, 1308 Miller street, found with guns in their pockets, were each sentenced to serve three months in the house of correction by Judge J. William Brooks yesterday.

BOY, 5, STEALS RIDE ON TRUCK AND IS KILLED

John Keane, 5 years old, 5316 South Union avenue, was fatally injured last evening when he jumped from a truck on which he had stolen a ride and was struck by another automobile. The accident occurred in front of his home. The child died in the German Deaconess hospital an hour later.

This death with two others brought the auto toll for Cook county since Jan. 1 to 910. The victims:

Ford Black, colored, 56 years old, 126 East 52d street. Died in the Dailey hospital from injuries suffered on Sept. 17, when he was run down at 53d street and Wabash avenue. The driver was Edward J. Tucker, colored, 5938 South Wabash avenue.

Frank Elwood, 27 years old, 7237 South Paulina street. Killed in a collision between the car in which he was riding, driven by Daniel Egan, 6446 South Paulina street, and another driven by Tony Lacoco, 3363 West 65th street, at 63d street and Kedzie avenue. Police said Egan ran through the red light on 63d street. With Lacoco was Joseph Jasinski, 7022 South Rockwell street. Both cars bore license plates issued for other cars, and police held Egan, Lacoco and Jasinski pending an investigation of ownership of the machines.

J. V. Smith, 1437 Wilmette avenue, Wilmette, suffered a fractured arm, and his daughter, Ruth, was bruised yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding overturned at East Evanston, Wyo.

U. S. AND CHILE AGREE ON NEW COMMERCE DEAL

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Tariff difficulties which for many years have hampered American commerce with Chile were temporarily adjusted today by signing of a modus vivendi which gives the United States a most favored nation status until a new commercial treaty can be drawn up.

William S. Culbertson, American ambassador, and Luis Izquierdo, foreign minister of Chile, exchanged signed notes putting the agreement into effect immediately and making it retroactive to May 22 last.

The agreement, sought by Ambassador Culbertson, gives American commerce on certain products equal rights with the French, who obtained a similar agreement last May. It also is expected to serve as a preliminary step to a commercial study leading to a treaty covering all articles sold by Americans in Chile, many of which do not come under the new agreement. Today's agreement covers the scale of customs duties on 138 articles, including cosmetics, toilet articles, medicinals and biologicals.

RESUME GAS HEARING TODAY, CITY TAKES PART

Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman will cross-examine witnesses today in a resumption of the hearings before the Illinois Commerce commission on the new rate schedule offered by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for its gas.

The new rates sought by the company for use in the delivery of a blend of natural and artificial gas reduce domestic rates approximately 3½ per cent. The city's position is that a larger reduction might be made because of the greater heating value of the blended gas as compared with artificial gas.

Also appearing before the commission will be 96 municipalities served by the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, which has filed a schedule of rates giving a slight reduction with the delivery of blended gas. The municipalities will contend that the reduction should be larger.

RETURN $1,500,000 BREWERY OUTFIT RAIDED BY U. S.

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Thirty thousand gallons of beer and brewing equipment, valued approximately at $1,500,000, will be returned by a federal court order which the Circuit Court of Appeals today refused to stay. The plant and contents, which fifteen prohibition agents have guarded since it was raided on July 21, is owned by the Phoenix Cereal Beverage company.

Following the raid by twenty-five picked men of Prohibition Administrator Andrew McCampbell it was charged that police had hindered the agents in a way which amounted to "practical protection."

The order returning the property was a result of a ruling that the search warrant was illegal. It directed the return of "all liquids and records" and the withdrawal of the fifteen agents assigned to guard the building. The "liquids" returned include sixteen half barrels removed for use as evidence.

For an "Individuality"— not an "Anybody!"

Pebeco is the MOST EXPENSIVE tooth paste in the world —to make, but not to buy.

It costs more to make because 40% is an expensive ingredient not found in other tooth pastes—an ingredient put there because of its value in oral hygiene.

Do not look for a sweet taste...or a foamy lather... but for a characteristic tang that signifies it is doing its work. This is Pebeco's distinctive signature.

You have to think to like Pebeco—but, remember, irrelevant candy-like tastes, or extravagant claims in advertising cannot benefit your teeth—it is what is in the tooth paste that counts.

Do your own thinking about what dentifrice to use . . . ask your retailer for PEBECO

A Product of LEHN & FINK, Inc., Bloomfield, New Jersey

Pebeco is the MOST EXPENSIVE tooth paste in the world to make. But its cost to you is no higher than that of the average dentifrice.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CHINA AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

China's first step when Japan began the occupation of cities in Manchuria, driving Chinese troops and officials out, was to appeal to the league of nations at Geneva. The Chinese delegate reported acts of aggression. The Japanese delegate ordered the league to mind its own business. There was no mistaking the tone. The league made no pretense of misunderstanding what its business was and was not. As in virtually every other case in which a complainant has tried to make a case against a powerful nation, the league reached for its hat and ducked for lunch.

One of its members was complaining that in a time of great tribulation and disorder, of famine and flood and internal disturbances a powerful neighbor had made an attack in violation of all the pacts and covenants which should have prevented it. This member asked for protection. It asked that the alleged offender be told to stop the depredations, the seizure of Chinese territory and the killing of Chinese citizens. Whatever the excuse or explanation for the aggression might be, the league knew the fact of it to be as stated and knew that although China was unequal to a war with Japan one might result. The league has no purpose if it is not to keep the peace for its members, throw its influence to the protection of the weak from attack and to restrain the aggressor. These are its pretensions and they are recommended to the United States by every profiteering or sentimental internationalist here and abroad.

China got nothing at Geneva from its fellow members but a cold stare. It can't be said that the members dropped the issue at the order of Japan. They didn't even pick it up. It was Japan's business to attend to in its own way. It is not the first time the league has nullified its own pretensions, merely the latest. The American people are asked to repose their faith in it and give up their own protections. American pacifists never cease to argue for it and against the army and navy. They demand that trust be placed in pacts and covenants none of which survive the first touch of realism. They have not restrained nations seeking their self-interest and they have not protected people who could not protect themselves.

China has documentary protection all over the place, the covenant of the league, the Kellogg peace treaty, the consultative pact entered into at the Washington conference. China has joined and signed everything that internationalism could produce, but it has not developed the power in itself to protect itself, and the pacts do it no good.

The worthless league of nations reaffirms its futility every time it is confronted with an obligation out of its covenant.

IF YOU KNOW WHAT WE MEAN.

It does not seem wholly out of order that Boston customers should complain angrily to the police when certain wine bricks sold them proved to be nothing but strawberry pie filling; not wholly out of order that a brick should prove to be a fraud or that citizens thinking they were getting an illegal beverage and finding that they had strawberry jam, applesauce or something quite legitimate should complain to the police that their attempt to swindle the law had been frustrated by persons who swindled them.

It is supposed that the wine bricks are honest violations of the law for the most part, but prohibition is notorious for the dishonesty it invites among violators. It has been very difficult to keep the lawbreaking honorable. A customer does not object to a Canadian excise tax stamp on his domestic cooked mash product. It sustains his illusions and justifies the price he pays, but he is not in the market for the making of a plum tart. However, for this alleged outrage there is a remedy. The federal pure food act will protect a citizen from such fraud and a federal agent will see that a vender offering to sell a brick for a beverage in violation of the Volstead act does not sell a brick which will not produce such an illegal beverage. The brick to satisfy one law must make wine and violate another.

There is nothing inconsistent in this. Mr. Capone is in two sorts of trouble. He did not report to the government the amount of money he made in violating the Volstead act. He did not pay taxes on it. Also he violated the Volstead act. The crime of not paying the government its percentage on his illegal income will prove a more serious matter to him than the illegality of the income. It might be tougher on a wine brick vender if his brick did not make wine than if it did.

The government, indeed, might properly regard any swindle in the wine business as a fraud not unlike counterfeiting, inasmuch as the government has invested its own money in the making of illegal beverages and encourages the sale of them. It has subsidized the California winemakers, evidently on the theory that their industry is in the public interest and important to the welfare of the country. Without the Volstead act the California winemakers would be paying an excise tax to the government and would be helping to reduce the deficit. Under the Volstead act the winemakers get a subsidy from the government and help to increase the deficit, although Mr. Hoover is for the Volstead act and against the deficit.

If a person imposes on the government, takes the subsidy and does not violate the Volstead act, he surely has committed a great fraud against a dry administration and has deceived confiding citizens trusting to more honest dealing from Uncle Sam and the brickmakers. If a man finds he has a raspberry tart when he was all worked up for a bottle of burgundy he will lose all respect for government, and that is the serious aspect of prohibition, as the public is so often told.

JUSTICE IN SUFFOLK COUNTY, NEW YORK.

The public exhibition which the Long Island authorities have permitted in the Collings murder case is one of the worst in the history of the administration of justice in this country. It is a national scandal. There was not the slightest excuse for permitting the court to be invaded by an army of press photographers, or for the conduct of the medical officer under examination. The persecution of Mrs. Collings was an outrage. That the eastern press has been an active accomplice in this tragic fiasco does not discount the fact that the local authorities failed utterly to protect public decency and are primarily responsible. Their investigation has been blundering and grossly inefficient, and by permitting the coroner's hearing to be turned into a sensational public show, with a tortured woman as its victim and an official mountebank for comic relief, the justice of Suffolk county, to say nothing of the credit of its community, has been shamed in the eyes of the nation.

We in the west are frequently admonished by the east upon the inadequacies of our police and courts and upon the criminal activities which have been so widely exploited. The proceedings in Suffolk county have had no equal in our community for stupidity or disrespect for public decency.

PANAMA TOLLS.

Dispatches from Washington indicate that the demand for a revision of Panama canal tolls is likely to be heard in the forthcoming session of congress. This is a matter which is of concern to all taxpayers in the country and of especial interest to business men in the interior.

The present rates are low. They are about 30 per cent below Suez canal rates. There seems to be no doubt that they could be raised considerably without any material decrease in the use of the canal because a huge differential exists today in favor of the canal route and against the competing transcontinental railroads.

If the rates were increased the government's income would be increased and the taxpayers would be relieved to that extent. It has been estimated that the canal easily could be made to yield an additional $10,000,000 or $15,000,000, and perhaps much more.

It is plainly in the interest of the interior of the country that this readjustment be made. Because the Panama rates are absurdly low, business has been diverted from the interior to the coast cities. The west coast markets which formerly were supplied from Chicago and other manufacturing and trading centers in the interior now draw upon the factories along the eastern seaboard. The manufacturer or dealer who must depend upon the railroads to carry his goods to market cannot compete on equal terms against the eastern rival who uses the canal.

The whole country paid for the canal, but the commercial benefits of the expenditure have been cornered by the seaboard communities. The inland population has paid for the canal twice: once in its original cost and now in loss of business. Congressmen from the interior states who are alive to the real interests of their constituents will insist upon a revision of the tolls. Incidentally, a revision upward of the Panama rates is one way in which congress can hope to rescue the railroads from their present financial plight.

Editorial of the Day

STEEL DOES IT.

[New York Evening Post.]

The United States Steel corporation joins England in going off the pre-depression basis. It cuts wages 10 per cent.

The move is impressive in many ways. It means that the largest corporation in the world has decided that good times will return neither soon nor automatically. Steel has determined that the idea of a merely temporary dislocation is to be discarded; it has given up the theory that if we could hang on long enough to the old scheme of things the ship would right herself and all would be well; it has noted that England's suspension of the gold standard will cut the costs of our great competitor in steel making; it is registering a long considered verdict that we cannot have good times again till labor, like everything else, shall have been deflated.

We regret to see this step taken, but we admit to a belief in its necessity. And we think it fairly done in both amount and time of action.

The steel corporation, the Times reports this morning, has made twenty-two wage adjustments since its organization. All but four of these have been increases. The record of such an employer must promise a fair deal on a future return to the old higher scale of wages. Furthermore, this change has not been made precipitately. It should not be. For labor it is always a long, slow fight to raise wage levels, and when these levels are established they are not lightly to be abandoned. Steel has not acted lightly. It has held the "prosperity" scale for two years after the crash and has not cut until its English competitor has done so and until it has cut both its dividends and its white collar salaries.

We believe that the action of the United States Steel corporation is sound economics. We see it as an intelligent and necessary step in the return of good times. We are convinced, therefore, that in the long run it will prove a good thing both for labor and for all the rest of us.

In these circumstances we do not at all object to seeing Washington deplore the move and cling fast to its effort to prevent the lowering of wage standards. But we decidedly think that Mr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, goes far beyond the bounds of propriety and good sense when he growls out the threat that "there will be hell to pay throughout the United States in the event of a general wage reduction."

CONTROLLING MALARIA.

NOWHERE in the world is there a greater degree of success in malaria control than the United Fruit company is having on their plantations located on the coastal plains and other lowlands of certain Central American countries. The success is shown not only by the lowered sickness and death rates of the employés but also by the increased working capacity of the labor and the increased wages they are able to earn.

In some of their plantations they have found that 90 per cent of all sickness—by whatever name it goes—is due directly or indirectly to malaria. In one enterprise it was decided that they had to control malaria or close down the works. There was no other alternative. Malaria control measures on this plantation brought the malaria rate down from over fifty-six to under five.

These are some of their methods:

Ordinary treatment of a man with malaria—Start by giving two ounces of a concentrated solution of common salts. Follow with 10 grains of quinine twice a day, and one tablet of 1-6 grain plasmochin compound once a day. The quinine and plasmochin compound is kept up daily until the patient has been free from chills and fever for six to eight days. It is usually not necessary to repeat the salts. After that one 5 grain tablet of quinine is given daily for two months. Small children are given quinine suspended in strip of Yerba Santa. Adults take it in capsules or pills and, in exceptional conditions, by injection into muscles.

To break up chills quinine is the best remedy, but it must be given in sufficient amounts and continued long enough. In certain cases the use of quinine, and especially its improper use, may cause hematuria, or even deafness, blindness, and other untoward effects.

A necessary agent in the control of malaria is plasmochin compound. Given in large doses, it will break up chills and fever almost but not quite as well as quinine and in such large doses is fully as poisonous as, or more so than, quinine. Given in proper doses, and in a proper way, it destroys the malaria parasites in those phases in which they cause relapses, bring about chronic malaria and, more important by far, in which they infect mosquitoes. In the small dose required for that purpose plasmochin compound is quite as harmless as quinine, properly given.

The treatment is always followed by after treatment, which consists in making a good, nutritious diet available; and in giving a tonic pill, containing iron, arsenic, and quinine.

The company raises vegetables and fruits, and they supply other staple foods. The cheaper of these are given to convalescents without charge. The others are sold to them at low prices and on easy terms. Protection against reinfection by mosquito bites is imperative.

POISON BY MISTAKE.

C. A. M. writes: If a person takes one or two bichloride of mercury tablets by mistake, and did not discover the mistake, what would be the result and what effect would it have on the person?

REPLY.

It might cause death. The first effect is a violent gastritis. After that danger has passed, there comes the danger of acute hemorrhagic nephritis with suppression of urine. A persisting form of Bright's disease may follow later.

READING ON LEFT SIDE.

L. P. writes:

1. Why is it always advised that the light should come from the left side?
2. If no shadow falls on the reading material, would the right side be just as good?

REPLY.

1. In order that the light may not fall right in the eye, and the shadow of the hand may not darken the page.
2. Yes.

A TEMPORARY HALT.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Friend of the People.]—About three weeks ago the holes in the streets in the vicinity of 55th and Throop streets were filled with large stones. Nothing further has been done to these streets and if these stones were placed there to help the condition they certainly have failed in their mission, for they not only make more dust and dirt but the noise a machine makes when driving over them keeps all the neighbors awake at night. If action is not taken soon most of the stones will be on the owners' lawns instead of the streets.

M. N.

Report is made that Throop street has been repaired and is now in good condition between 55th and 57th streets. After the work of repair had been started there was an interruption for a few days, which resulted in the complaint made here.

Superintendent of Streets.

INDIANA MORTGAGES.

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 7. — [Legal Friend of the People.]—Are the following questions concerning mortgage transactions in Indiana eligible in your column? "A" holds a first mortgage on the property. "B" holds the second mortgage. "C" is the property owner. 1. "C" is only paying interest to "A" and cannot make this payment when due. Can "A" then demand the entire cash payment of the mortgage or foreclose? 2. How does "A" get clear title to the property if he forecloses? 3. Can "A" foreclose without notifying "B"? 4. Can "A" sell his mortgage at any time? 5. If "A" sells his mortgage can the new owner revalue the property and raise the amount of the mortgage by making a cash loan to "C"? 6. Must he have "B's" consent? 7. If not, what protection has "B" for his loan?

F. S.

1. A's rights depend upon the wording of his papers. It seems probable that he is in a position to foreclose.
2. By carrying through the foreclosure proceedings. We do not understand your question.
3. Yes, but in such case the property would be sold subject to the second mortgage.
4. Yes, if he can find a purchaser.
5. Not so as to bring the new advances ahead of the second mortgage.
6. Yes, in order that his entire advances would be secured by a first lien.
7. See preceding answers.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the gnips fall where they may. W. M.

YESSIR, THESE HERE NOW financiers are a most amiable and estimable lot of gentlemen, but they lack originality; when one of their number leads off with something they all trail and reiterate the same thing until we get just a teeny little bit bored. For instance, their present cry, "Stop Hoarding," is getting awfully on our nerves, and whenever we read it now in the news sheets we burst into tears. And, besides, all we're hoarding is a one dollar bill, a fifty cent piece, two quarters, the new dime John D. Rockefeller gave us, a plugged nickel, and two suspender buttons. If that be hoarding, gentlemen, make the best of it. And, besides, how can you hoard in these days when everybody lives in a flat? Long ago when people had houses and lots hoarding was a simple matter. You put your money in an old jar and hid it up on the shelf behind the jams and preserves. Or you put it in a sock and planted it under a brick back of the kitchen stove. Or you put the sock in a tin can and buried it behind the barn. But where can you hoard in a flat? You can't put your hoardings in the radio or back of the books on the shelves because if you did that where on earth would you keep the home brew? You can't put your hoardings behind the clock because that's where pa keeps his hootch, and you mustn't put it in the piano because Mabel and Charley have their gin hid there. Where are we going to put our hoarding anyhow? Write to your congressman today.

SONNET XXXVI.

I tell you hell could be no more than this.
After the quick worm layers down to bone
And I have suffered the last shameful kiss
Under the final dark, quiet as stone,
Rigid as rock, surrendered to the last,
The ultimate lover, never more to lie
Against the drumming blood, the heart held fast,
After surcease shall come and lay me by:
Fire will be clean and quick and hotly white,
Tinged with no soft, false mercy; adequate
To hush the loudest cry, to render night
The straighter agony I consummate.

The fires of hell burn clearer in my view
After this season spent in loving you.

THE EXCITING NEWS comes from Norway and Sweden that both countries have suspended the gold standard. The alarm produced by the announcement is allayed by the statement away down at the bottom of the dispatch that neither country has got any gold anyhow.

—:—

THE EXACT STATUS of education in these United States cannot now be told with accuracy. Chicago won one of its small college games Saturday, but lost the second. Notre Dame's playing did not seem to suit the coach, Illinois and Purdue are still problems, and Michigan complains that one of its star players got a kick on the snoot that sent him to the hospital. But in spite of doubt and uncertainty we feel reasonably sure that education is marching on.

—:—

THERE'S ALWAYS one darned thing after another! We've got our wine brick at last, but now we're afraid to put it to soak because of the horrible warning on the wrapper: "Neither keep this grape juice uncovered in warm temperature nor stir it frequently, as it may ferment and become an Intoxicating Beverage, which is illegal." Gosh, the weather is cool now, but who knows when it will turn warm? And while we would shoot anybody we caught stirring it and turning it into an intoxicating beverage, WHICH IS ILLEGAL, some foul fiend might creep up from the Gateways of Hell at midnight and stir it around and around. Thus we would find ourselves in possession of an Intoxicating Beverage. WHICH IS ILLEGAL. What to do! What to do!

—:—

GANDHI BROKE BACK on the front page yesterday by saying he got cold at night in his loin cloth panties and had to have a fire. A great many of Mr. Gandhi's sympathizers will think the unusually cold weather they are having in England this fall is another exhibition of Britain's rage at Gandhi, but honestly we don't think King George or Ramsay MacDonald had anything to do with it. It sounds more like Winston Churchill.

DEATH IS AN INTERLUDE.

(For Eolus.)

Summer and autumn are crowded with hurry;
From dawn until twilight, the earth a mad strain
Of labor and travail—endeavor and worry;
Bud into blossom, to fruit, and to grain.

No peace, and no rest. All of Nature is calling.
Life must be served in the noontime; but oh!
After the harvest, when first snows are falling,
Quiet and gladly, the weary ones go.

Earth is not callous. Each dropped leaf has greeting—
Promise of rest, when the long day is done—
Rest for a space, till the time comes for meeting
Old friends and tasks with the new Easter sun.

Death is an interlude—never eternal.
That is the promise the centuries bring.
Sleep for a space, and then—magic supernal!
Waking to work again, when it is spring.

ADD NOTES on the unemployment situation: Bide Dudley says that one of the Line's w. k. contribs, John Connery, was offered a position in the drama department of a Western university the other day, but wired as follows: "My conscience would not allow me to train students for a profession which no longer exists. And, besides, the salary is too small."

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 29, 1915.

LONDON.—The British and French continue—without the least sign of weakening—their tremendous drive against the Germans along the whole western front. Certain sectors have been picked out in an effort to cut through the Teutonic lines, thereby forcing the kaiser to retreat upon unfortified positions. An official communication just made public dealing with the operations in France says that in the heavy fighting around Loos the British have taken exceptionally strong German lines of trenches and bomb proof shelters several hundred yards in extent. In all more than 3,000 prisoners have been taken and twenty-one guns and forty machine guns have been captured and others destroyed.

ROME.—The first class Italian battleship. Benedetto Brin was torn in pieces by an internal explosion while lying at anchor in the harbor at Brindisi. Only 373 men and eight officers of its entire complement of 720 men were saved. Rear Admiral Rubin de Cervin, who was in command of the ship, is among the dead.

CHICAGO.—The first day of the clothing workers' strike was marked by numerous riot calls for police. In many instances these were sent in by the strikers, who plan to "run the coppers to death." There were some arrests, but the riots usually were of no consequence.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 29, 1901.

CHICAGO.—The strike of trainmen on the South Side Elevated road which began yesterday morning failed to cripple seriously the service of the company, but a number of disturbances attended the running of trains with nonunion crews.

NEW YORK.—After a marvelous exhibition of light weather sailing the Yankee single-sticker Columbia defeated Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock II. by the small margin of 39 seconds, actual time. As Shamrock II. must allow the cup defender 43 seconds because of the extra 833 square feet of canvas carried, the corrected time gives Columbia the race by 1 minute and 22 seconds.

SALT LAKE CITY.—John H. Haverly, one of the most interesting characters on the American stage, died at St. Mark's hospital here at the age of 63. The immediate cause of death was heart disease.

CHICAGO.—Harold Richard Vinne, society editor on a morning paper, and John Cowley-Brown, one of the editors of the Club Fellow, between whom there has been a long standing enmity, fought five rounds with gloves. Both were severely bruised. The fight was declared a victory for Cowley-Brown.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 29, 1881.

CHICAGO.—Attorney George Scoville arrived home from Harlan, Wis., and admitted that he had received a telegram from District Attorney Corkhill in Washington stating that Guiteau had requested that Mr. Scoville be asked to appear as the assassin's counsel. Mr. Scoville said that at the importunity of his wife, who is Guiteau's nearest relative, that he defend the prisoner he will leave for Washington to be on hand when Guiteau is called to plead.

WASHINGTON.—District Attorney Corkhill issued subpœnas for witnesses to appear before the grand jury in connection with the assassination of President Garfield and it is expected an indictment charging Charles J. Guiteau with the murder will be returned next week. Guiteau has expressed a desire to have Emery A. Storrs retained to assist in his defense.

CHICAGO.—John Coolidge of Boston is stopping at the Sherman. Judge W. Q. Gresham and Senator Ben Harrison of Indianapolis are at the Grand Pacific.

CHICAGO.—There is no reason why the west park commissioners should not name their largest park Garfield park. Not long ago the south park commissioners named two of their parks Washington and Jackson, and Garfield park might well be made the name of the present Central park on the west side.

THE BURDEN OF TAXES.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—May I express unqualified approval of the Brittain commission's reported recommendation of a 44 to 50 per cent reduction in real estate property taxes?

I have just gone through some seventeen properties that we manage here in the loop and can verify to you figures which show that the general property taxes alone—not taking into account interest on mortgages, operating expenses or repairs—are very considerably more than is the revenue from such properties.

I live in a rather modest home on the north shore and yet I am asked to pay a tax on that home of $847 a year, which is more in taxes alone than I used to pay in rent under normal living conditions.

Taxes on other $25,000 to $30,000 homes are in the same figures, and the result is that a number of beautiful homes and fine communities on the north shore are going to be sold for taxes because the people who own these homes are men who are making $3,000 to $5,000 a year and they simply cannot pay one-third of their income for general property taxes alone and then pay the interest on the mortgages on these homes in addition to the other carrying costs.

Another right step, of course, is taken in the direction of cutting the costs of government. I, myself, think it is perfectly ridiculous for our governmental departments to boast about making 15 per cent cuts in operating costs. In my business I have made economies of over 50 per cent, and I am still doing the same volume of business and handling the same amount of detail, and I have converted it from "red" to "black." I know that other corporations have cut their costs 40 to 50 per cent in a great many instances and still are carrying on and functioning, and any governmental bureau head or any governmental officer who cannot see the tremendously grave situation involved and the imperative necessity of at least 25 to 50 per cent reduction in the operating costs of his department of government is simply preparing himself for a rejection from office by an outraged voting public.

B. BILLS.

FROM DR. HOPKINS.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—I notice that in your issue of Sept. 14, under the "Voice of the People," there is a small squib at the bottom of page 12, under date of Sept. 4, entitled "A Noisy Celebration."

With reference to this I have to say that some one is evidently using my name, as I am not able to find any other "C. W. Hopkins" living near the Henrotin hospital, or Little Italy, and I personally live a long way from both.

I do not wish to appear sponsor for something for which I am not responsible. The reason for this is that I have never been a fault finder or a kicker, and do not wish to appear so now, as most any one of my friends, who are legion in Chicago, would naturally look upon this article as being my own.

C. W. HOPKINS, M. D.,
Chief Surgeon, Chicago and North Western Railway Company.

PEGLER.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Mr. Pegler is one of the best sports writers in the country, and what he has said about the White Sox is the truth and nothing but the truth.

DOC MOON.

PORTENTS.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Apropos of the cross behind the moon mentioned by several of your subscribers, permit me to say that there is no doubt but what this sure omen predicts an approaching war.

There are other signs predicting this same tragedy. If you will remember, in Arkansas grasshoppers with the letter "W" were found immediately preceding the last catastrophe in Europe. There were some of these in Aurora this year. But be not dismayed; the war must end, and peace will be restored surely, because in Clarksburg, W. Va., a spider was recently seen to spin the letter "P" in its web.

And why stop at war? There are other sure signs which never fail. If a bird flies into a house this means sure death for one of its occupants. If a fruit tree blossoms in fall the house toward which the blooming branch is pointed will have a death within a month. Pointing at the rainbow causes warts. Opening an umbrella inside of a house means dire distress to the careless person indulging in such carelessness. Counting the cars in a funeral procession is inviting disaster to the one engaged in this pastime. Never permit the moon to shine on you when you sleep; this makes you "loony."

A cleric told my grandmother that the end of the world would come when the harvest moon rose red. She has confided to me that she spent an anxious childhood peering at the moon.

Of course, one can cheer up, because there are hopeful omens as well. If you find a pin, wait until you see a white horse, then count ten, and good fortune will smile on you shortly. C. A. H.

IN THE SKY.

Blue Island, Ill., Sept. 21.—While standing on the lawn Sunday evening [Sept. 20, 1931] about 7:50 and viewing the celestial universe my eyes caught sight of a great shooting star, moving slowly to the westward. This was something more than a shooting star, for they are visible for only a fraction of a moment, while this one I saw for fully five or six seconds. The head of this body was bright and left behind it a long, streaming tail of fire. These characteristics are like those of a comet, but a comet is visible over a longer period of time and appears to be quite stationary. This wandering ball of fire seemingly radiated from the constellation Andromeda or Pegasus and moved to the west toward the constellation Sagittarius, but disappeared completely before reaching that group of stars [wherein also the moon was situated].

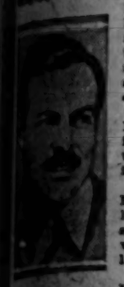
HEMINGWAY IS BUSTLING HOME AND BOILING MAD

Seems There Are Too Many of Him.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Hemingway! Hemingway! The Oak Park, Ill., author has cast aside the spell of the Mediterranean renaissance psychology and is doing everything but row the Ile de France to speed it to these shores tomorrow morning.



A spurious Hemingway is at large. A lot of spurious Hemingways are at large.

The real Ernest Hemingway has smiled complacently as each season has produced a crop of Hemingways. Mr. Hemingway realized that he did not invent the staccato narrative method of telling a story and just added another mark for publishers to shoot at. Many aspiring young literary lights adopted his favorite style of writing "another Hemingway." It took a double to bring Hemingway home—and now there is going to be serious trouble in which more than orange may be smashed.

How It Began.

The way Mr. Hemingway learned about his double in Paris a week ago. By telephone, reads:

"Hello, Ernest. This is Lewin."

"Who, Lewin?"

"Say, you remember me. We palled around in New York."

"Never heard of you, unless my memory is bad. Come around to my hotel and I'll see if I know you."

Lewin appeared. "You're not Hemingway," he said after one look.

"And I never autographed a first edition for you," said the original Mr. Hemingway.

"Listen," said Lewin. "I've known Ernest Hemingway a long time. I met him on the S. S. Roma out of Genoa last Dec. 2. Check that."

"All right," said the author, "I was in Genoa last December. Check that."

To date was a lot more checking of double checking, the trans-Atlantic telephone declares, and then Mr. Lewin affirmed:

"Now, this Hemingway of mine had a lot of copies of his books and he wrote his name in them and gave them to me. Later he asked me did I like 'em."

"And did you?" asked the original Mr. Hemingway, speaking in short, staccato sentences.

"I told him they were punk."

"O, you did, did you?"

"Sure. He didn't mind. Anyhow, there was a hostess from the Breakers hotel in Palm Beach along. She liked 'em."

"Must have been another fellow," said Hemingway.

Enter the Admiral.

"Maybe," said Lewin, "but me and this fellow, Hemingway, went around to the Explorers' club and met a lot of literary folks. Say, was your father an admiral?"

"No, he was a doctor and lived in Oak Park, Ill."

"One of you Hemingways must be mistaken. Funny, both you fellows would write the same books."

And that is why Mr. Hemingway is coming home, in a fit of temper, to look for a spurious Hemingway. Or maybe it is just an idea his publishers had.

ILLNESS NOT TO KEEP VAN DEVANTER FROM HIGH COURT SESSION

Ionia, Mich., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Willis Van Devanter, associate justice of the United States Supreme court, was ill today in the home of Judge Montgomery Webster, where he and Mrs. Van Devanter are visiting. Although he kept to his bed, on advice of the attending physician, he expected to return to Washington late this week to be present for the court session, opening next week.

Justice and Mrs. Van Devanter motored here from Marion, Ind., where Justice Van Devanter visited his mother, Mrs. Isaac Van Devanter. Ionia is the former home of Mrs. Van Devanter.

Flyers Forced to Return on Alaska-U. S. Flight

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Five and one-half hours after they started on an announced flight to Tacoma, Wash., by way of Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, Cecil Allen and Don Moyle, who failed in a nonstop flight from Japan to Seattle early this month, returned here at 5 p. m. today. They said they were "unable to get through because of thick weather."

13 Persons Are Injured in Street Car-Bus Crash

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Thirteen persons were injured in a collision today between a Broadway surface car and a Fifth avenue bus. Many women in the car and bus were thrown to the floor and cut by flying glass. Only three of the persons were injured seriously enough to require hospital treatment.

Britain and Mexico May Make Envoys Ambassadors

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—The Mexican and British foreign offices are considering raising their legations to the status of ambassies. The British government, in view of Britain's increased trade with Mexico, suggested sending an ambassador here. Large quantities of Mexican raw material are going to Britain, while manufactured goods, including British machinery and railroad supplies, are entering Mexico. Within the last year more than a score of British expert houses have opened agencies or branches here.

DAVIS WILL TAKE LEAVE FROM POST IN PHILIPPINES

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MANILA, Sept. 28.—Gov. Gen. Dwight F. Davis announced today that he would take a leave of absence, as suggested frequently in the last few months by Senator Sergio Osmena and other leaders, at the close of the present legislative session.

The governor general indicated he had talked the matter over with Patrick J. Hurley before the secretary of war ended his visit here, and concluded that his resignation at the present time would be injudicious and that the taking of a leave of absence would be the proper procedure.

Mr. Davis has long desired to visit his family in Paris. Mrs. Davis is ill and cannot live in the Philippines. It is not denied that the most important factor in Mr. Davis' decision to take a leave just now is the degree of confidence reposed in him by powerful Filipino groups.

The NEW BRITANNICA at a NEW BIG SAVING

Announcement

An unprecedented reduction from the standard price of the New Britannica is now publicly announced.

A Remarkable Bargain

You can now buy the Britannica (14th and latest Edition) at a new wonderfully low price. This price represents a saving of many dollars over previous regular prices. Here is a remarkable bargain and there is bound to be a big demand for the sets available.

How money is saved

After weeks of investigation and thorough planning, it was found that the manufacturers could make substantial economies in the cost of paper, binding material, printing and overhead, provided we ordered a printing equal to the largest single printing ever made by the Britannica.

Who makes the saving?

Day and night since early summer, giant presses have been turning out thousands of volumes and we have now completed a printing equal to the biggest single impression of the new Britannica ever made. And the resulting economies are passed on to you. You pay less, because we printed more.

Get the particulars now

We believe that many thousands of keen, progressive and prudent people who have always wanted the Britannica will now buy it. We believe that this printing—large as it is—will be sold out in a comparatively short time but we don't know whether business conditions will ever make it possible to duplicate this unusually low price again. You can't afford to delay.

WHAT YOU GET

Many people may not realize that the 24 large and beautifully bound volumes carry 35,000,000 words written by 3,500 authorities and are richly illustrated with 15,000 pictures, many in full color, and with 500 maps—the whole, indexed with 500,000 separate entries, is easily and agreeably read.

$5 down, $5 a month

Our Thrift Plan favors the pocketbook. Only $5 down is required to bring the set to your home for immediate use. The balance is payable in a few monthly instalments of $5 or more.

What to do

Send at once for particulars. Now is the time to get full details about the new low prices. Fill out the coupon below, mail it to us, and receive free by return mail a beautiful, 56-page booklet, rich with color plates and maps and sample pages. It contains a full description of the Britannica and how you can make it your most useful possession. Send for the large booklet today. No obligation.

COMPACT BOOKCASE—A new compact bookcase, made of mahogany, has been specially designed for the 24 volumes.

WHAT BRITANNICA OWNERS TELL YOU

"One of the first things we must have for ourselves as well as our children is some kind of general reference library, and I find that the Encyclopaedia Britannica fills this need admirably."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt

"Comprehensive and authoritative. Nothing has been left undone to make it thorough and complete."

Charles Evans Hughes
Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court

"A regular college education has been denied me; but I find its equivalent in these remarkable books."

G. C. Warner
Glen Ellyn, Illinois

"It is the ideal encyclopaedia for a home with children—indeed, for any home."

Willis A. Sutton
Recent President, Nat'l Education Ass'n

"The new Britannica is not only an Encyclopaedia in which to look up dates and details, but one to read in; it is not only a collection of the knowledge of the past, but a pantheon of the living, and a great harbor of modern science and research."

Emil Ludwig
Biographer of Napoleon, Goethe, etc.

"The most for the money of anything I ever bought."

SLAYER PLEADS GUILTY; FEARS INSANITY PLEA

Given "Not Less than 20 Year" Term.

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Philip Knapp, 28 years old, recently apparently a quiet, law abiding husband of West Orange, N. J., decided today to pay for the erratic career that culminated in the "thrill" slaying of a taxicab driver six years ago. He will serve 20 years or more in Sing Sing prison.

After a day of conference with his attorney and his family he stood before County Judge Lewis Smith at Mineola and said in a sober tone, "I plead guilty."

The charge was second degree murder. Judge Smith immediately pronounced sentence—not less than twenty years, nor more than the natural term of his life.

Young Wife with Him.

Knapp bowed attentively to the judge. Behind him was his father, William W. Knapp, retired Syracuse, N. Y., manufacturer; his mother, and the wife who married him with no knowledge that justice held a mortgage on his freedom and a claim for his life. Knapp married her under an assumed name.

"I have been in conference all day with the family," Knapp's attorney told the court. "I explained to them that I thought an insanity defense would prevail before a jury, but after discussing the matter with Philip they decided that they did not want to take upon themselves the hazard of placing his life in jeopardy."

Believed Sane.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards said he believed the ends of justice had been met, though he remained of the opinion that Knapp was legally sane when he slew the taxicab driver, Louis Panella.

Panella's body was found hidden under a pile of rubbish near Camp Mills on July 4, 1925. Knapp, at the time, was on leave from Mitchel field, where he was serving in the air corps.

Prior to the decision for him to plead guilty Knapp's attorneys were preparing a defense in which it was maintained that he was an erratic maniac until the slaying, and that the slaying transformed him into a law abiding citizen.

Knapp was arrested three months ago.

John Janda, Pay Roll Clerk for City, Killed in Fall

John Janda, 38 years old, a pay roll clerk in the city controller's office, died yesterday in his home, 1842 South Laflin street, of injuries suffered in a fall a short time earlier. He missed his footing at the head of a flight of stairs and fractured his skull. Janda is survived by his widow and three small children.

BUREAU FILLS 662 JOBS.

The Illinois free employment office in Chicago during the week ended Sept. 26 filled 662 jobs and had a total of 2,396 applicants, according to John Keane, general superintendent. The previous week 700 jobs were filled and there were 2,485 applicants.

PICNIC POISON TRIAL OPENS AT LEBANON, IND.

Mother Accused of Killing 2 Girls.

Lebanon, Ind., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Carrie Barrett Simmons, wife of a Hancock county farmer, went on trial in Circuit court here today for the poisoning of her two young daughters at a picnic here last summer. At the outset the state indicated it will ask the death penalty. The county prosecutor, Ben M. Scifres, was insistent in demanding of prospective jurymen assurances that they would hold no prejudice against the death sentence for murder. Numerous veniremen were excused because they admitted such prejudice and it seemed possible that the second special venire of seventy-five might be necessary before a jury is obtained tomorrow or Wednesday.

Mrs. Simmons has been in the county jail here since the night after the family picnic at which chicken sandwiches were served that were fatal to her daughters, Alice Jean, 10, and Virginia, 14, and caused illness to several others.

Mrs. Simmons has admitted she made the sandwiches and placed them in the tin box from which they were served at the picnic. After the death several of the sandwiches were found to contain poison capsules.

AKRON CRUISES 9 HOURS; TESTS TURNING RADIUS

Akron, O., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Akron tied up at its dock tonight after a nine hour cruise, the longest test flight since it was turned over to the navy a week ago.

Commander Charles E. Rosendahl ordered the ship up at 10:44 a. m. in the fourth of five scheduled test flights. The airship was sent through a series of maneuvers designed to determine turning radius. Prior to the flight it had been given speed and control tests.

Cruising northward, the Akron appeared over Cleveland shortly after noon and then headed out over Lake Erie, where it maneuvered for more than an hour.

John Egan, a Veteran of Municipal Court, Is Dead

John Egan, an employé in the office of the bailiff of the Municipal court since 1907, died yesterday in his residence, 6429 North Washtenaw avenue. He was a brother of the late Dennis J. Egan, Democratic leader. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at St. Timothy's church, Devon and Washtenaw avenues.

CRITICS OF NEW DOG POUND ARE ASSAILED BY MAYOR CERMAK

A complaint that the canines lodged in the city's new dog pound are suffering from uncleanliness and a lack of heat caused Mayor Cermak yesterday to assail the critics of the management of the institution.

"These women are becoming unnecessarily alarmed," the mayor said. "There is more heat at the dog pound than in many homes in this city, and the conditions are much better for the dogs than for many children.

"If they would become alarmed about children freezing this winter and not being properly fed the women would be doing a better service. If I had been mayor when the plans were drawn the dog pound would never have been built. There is a number of other places where the money could have been used more advantageously.

"More attention should be paid to children who go to school unfed and who return to cold homes. I am running the dog pound as well as other institutions, and they all will be kept clean."

WITNESS SHOWS ORE TAKEN FROM FACTOR MINES

Counsel for John [Jake the Barber] Factor, who is resisting efforts of the British crown to return him to England for trial on charges of swindling investors there out of $7,000,000, yesterday introduced evidence in an effort to prove that stocks sold by Factor and his associates were not valueless.

Ore samples purporting to have been taken from the Vulcan and Rhodesia mines in Africa, on which Factor sold stock, were produced at the hearing before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker over the strenuous objections of Franklin R. Overmeyer, counsel for the crown. The samples, according to Maj. Harry Brian Pearson, British mining engineer, who presented them, contained 43 per cent copper. Maj. Pearson was the first of several witnesses brought from England by the defense to take the stand for Factor.

Under cross examination Pearson admitted that the samples were the best that he had discovered rather than representative of the average deposits of the mines.

Commissioner Walker said that he would rule later on the British counsel's objections to Maj. Pearson's testimony and recessed the hearing until today.

FOUR MYSTERY BOMBS MENACE LIVES IN DENVER

Denver, Colo., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Denver police tonight were searching the city for a person who exploded four mysterious bombs, one endangering the lives of fifty children in the Holy Family church and the Oriental theater here. So far as learned, no one was injured.

Members of the Holy Family church school were meeting in the church when a terrific blast shook the structure. Patrons of the theater, which is across the alley, rushed out in fear.

A few minutes later another bomb was exploded close to the home of Police Sergeant Cornelius Callaghan.

The first explosion of the evening, in the Valverde district, did no damage, and first was attributed to boys, but police abandoned this theory when the others occurred.

A fourth bomb destroyed a house at 345 Perry street. Fire followed. Police and firemen sought to learn whether any one was inside.

M'ADOO REALTY SYNDICATE ASKS FOR A RECEIVER

Depression Brings Woe to Project.

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—The Guaranty Trust company was appointed receiver in equity today by Judge Julian W. Mack for the real estate syndicate headed by William Gibbs McAdoo, Hamilton H. Cotton, and Joseph P. Day, which several years ago purchased 789 acres of land in the Jamaica-Hillsdale section of Queens for development and sale.

WILLIAM G. McADOO.

The petition for a receiver, filed by Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Cotton, is a friendly action and names Mr. Day as the defendant. It sets forth that the sale of the property, which was purchased for $5,000,000 on Nov. 13, 1925, has been seriously affected by the present depression and by the obstructive tactics of the J. A. Wigmore Land company, from which the property was purchased and which holds a first mortgage on it.

The syndicate is composed of sixteen prominent real estate and business men. Messrs. McAdoo, Cotton, and Day were selected to manage the syndicate. A cash payment of $800,000 was made and the balance was to be paid under terms of a contract to which the syndicate, the land company, and the Guaranty Trust company were parties. The release price was fixed at $6,300,000 and the sales value was fixed, for the purposes of the trust, at $18,000,000.

Payments of nearly $3,000,000 have been made on the mortgage of $4,200,000, the petition states, and sales contracts are outstanding which should yield an additional $750,000. The syndicate is also hopeful of receiving $1,500,000 from a project of Joseph P. Day, Inc.

NURSE TO FORMER LOLITA ARMOUR TAKEN BY DEATH

Miss Mary Biller, who was the nurse for Mrs. John J. Mitchell, the former Lolita Armour, when she was a child, died yesterday at Santa Barbara, Cal. Miss Biller had served the Armour family as a nurse and companion ever since. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the bungalow on Mrs. Mitchell's California estate, El Mirado, where Miss Biller made her home. Burial will be in Santa Barbara.

Miss Biller had been in ill health for six years. During the last three weeks she became so ill that Mrs. Mitchell postponed her return to Chicago.

Miss Biller is survived by a brother, Urley J. Biller, Washington, D. C., and a sister, Mrs. Charles Kline of Dallas, Tex.

DENNIS H. QUILL, 70 years old, who had lived on the west side since birth, died late Sunday in his home, 5310 West Jackson boulevard, of heart disease. Mr. Quill was a marble setter. He is survived by five sons and two daughters.

WOMAN IS SHOT TO DEATH.

Mrs. Dorothy Holden, colored, 42 years old, 1048 West 14th street, was shot and killed yesterday by William McCutcheon, a caretaker for the Santa Fe railroad. The shooting occurred near the Willow Springs station.

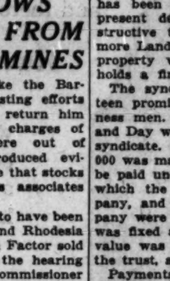
CLAIM COMEDIAN WON'T PAY SON'S HOSPITAL BILL

Cliff Edwards, screen comedian, is making $60,000 a year, but has ignored requests that he pay hospital bills for his son, George Clifton, 12 years old, who lost both his legs six weeks ago when he was run over by a train, it was charged to Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday in the Superior court.



CLIFF EDWARDS.

The charge was made by Attorney Joseph H. Hinshaw, representing Mrs. Gertrude Ryrholm, the comedian's divorced wife and mother of the boy. He said that Edwards had been reached by telephone in California and had agreed to pay the hospital bills, but had forwarded no money.

Attorney Albert Sabath, representing Edwards, was granted a continuance until tomorrow to communicate with his client.

NO DISTRESS after eating

GET RID of that old dread of indigestion, and eat without fear of distress.

When food ferments, disagrees, lies like lead in the stomach, it is a sign of too much acid. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. The quick corrective is an alkali. Don't resort to burning doses of soda—take instead, an antacid that will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia!

A spoonful of this soothing alkali restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked system. Then the stomach, liver and bowels function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when bad breath or coated tongue indicate too much acid. Take a spoonful today, and for several days, and see how soon it sweetens the entire system. Your digestion will be vastly improved. Things will taste better and you will feel better in so many ways.

Also, you will find when your system is properly alkaline you are not so susceptible to sickness and colds. That you are no longer troubled with constipation, or with headaches, gas on the stomach. An alkaline balance builds resistance.

Ask for Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, which is the preparation of magnesia prescribed and recommended by your own doctor for correcting excess acid. 25c and 50c bottles are sold at drug stores everywhere.

To avoid the condition of acid mouth, you should use a milk of magnesia toothpaste. Your teeth are worthy of the best dentrifice. Try Phillips' Dental Magnesia, which contains 75% concentrated Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

ITALIAN COUNT SUES ESTATE OF DEAD HEIRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 28.—One of Montreal's most prominent heiresses, who married a European count, was recalled to memory today when a court action by the count to obtain part of the wife's fortune opened in the local Superior court.

Marguerite Claire Stephens is the woman. She died in March, 1930 leaving her fortune to various individuals and institutions. The former included R. B. Bennett, prime minister of Canada, and the Duke of Connaught, former governor general of Canada.

Suing the estate is Count Luino Gaspare Guiseppe Falchi, Italian war ace. They were married in Paris but a few years later separated. He was given $5,000, for which he agreed to renounce all claims to the Stephens estate. Now he has taken court action for one third of his former wife's estate, which he said is due him under Italian law.

Maurois Tells About Lyautey, Empire Maker

Harder Reading Than His Other Books.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Lyautey," by André Maurois. [Appleton.]

ANOTHER book, like Paul Morand's "1900 A. D.," reviewed yesterday, which was the direct result of the Colonial exposition in Paris this year, is "Lyautey," by André Maurois. It is the biography of the man who was more responsible for the exposition than any other living Frenchman. If the exposition had not taken place "Lyautey" probably never would have been written by M. Maurois. I make that guess from the internal evidence in the book. Lyautey is not a subject which M. Maurois naturally would choose, and the biography lacks the special vividness that has characterized all of M. Maurois' work. It reads as if it were done with the author's will, not with his creative joy.

Marshal Lyautey is not a figure to fire the imagination of an ardent reading public. Many of us never even heard of him, and, in reading his biography, have little personal feeling that they have met and known a great man. To the French Marshal Lyautey has the interest appeal of a provincial of the aristocratic mold fighting passionately for a republic's empire building. It sounds a trifle complicated, but it is something especially thrilling to a Frenchman about the life of a solid provincial aristocratic to be spending his life keeping France's claims her own and making them commonly alike to their preserver and the international glory of France. Lyautey made Morocco the brilliantly beautiful spot that it is today. In North Africa, so lovely to tourists as it is now, so dire to travelers a few years ago, bears the stamp of Lyautey's organizing and governing genius. Indo-China, Madagascar and other physically and more French were already that they would have been if Lyautey had never governed them. Lyautey is a grand old man now, busily planting his park in Lorraine as he planted so many cities in his native land for places. He is an idol of the people, and rightly so.

This is French hero for the book in M. Maurois' biography. He is a vivid memory of my first visit of "Lyautey" in my mind. It is a picture of the terrace in front of the Café des Deux Magots, on the Rue St. Germain des Pres in Paris. I was a night in late June, when the sun sinks reluctantly and the air had just lost its rosiness and was the first shade of pure clear blue that the French sky has in early summer for an hour or two before it becomes darkness. Against that lambent blue were sketched in grays of varying intensity the outlines of St. Germain des Pres, as eternal as anything temporal is a monument from the tenth century. As I sat there sipping a drink Marie Brizzard, sinking my consciousness in the calmness of that very old church and its placid perspective, I noticed a young man seated down in his chair against the wall, settled for the evening. Before him on the table was a pile of paper. I could not see it, but he was not writing. He was reading from a book, slightly larger than a novel size, obviously a French book, from its binding. It was bold in such a fashion that I couldn't see the title. The young man was unquestionably an American, a student, perhaps. He seemed to be having a hard time with his book. The pages weren't turned for minutes or more, perhaps because doesn't count on June nights on a café terrace in Paris. He was working hard at his task.

I am afraid that like the elephant's child in the jungle books I have a most "certain" curiosity when it comes to the private reading of the world. I run from personal confidences. I shy clear of secrets imparted by acquaintances. I am always the last person to know a wisp of gossip. But I MUST know what any one else are reading. It's a complex. Buses and trains are happy hunting grounds for my curiosity.

The palpitant blue turned to a velvety blue-black and still I hadn't been able to see what our young compatriot was having such a time with, when suddenly he gave a great sigh and closed the book and fastened his eyes on St. Germain. As he laid it down I saw: "Lyautey"—André Maurois. That was the first time I had known of its existence. When I was having dinner with M. and Mme. Maurois a few days later I told him about the young American's concentration and his evening's devotion to "Lyautey." [I didn't tell him that I thought the young man was finding it difficult, however.]

"My publishers are insisting on a translation of 'Lyautey.' I am afraid that the American reading public will find it a dull book," Maurois answered. I assured him that it couldn't be, that he couldn't write a dull book if he wanted to. And I meant it. I didn't think it was possible. I still don't think it is possible, but as nearly as it lies in the power of a brilliant biographer to write a book which lacks brilliance M. Maurois has done it in "Lyautey." The young American who devoted the loveliest part of a lovely June night in the shadow of St. Germain des Pres to "Lyautey" and the not so young American who devoted two long days of a not too enchanting September in the shadow of The Tribune Tower, both, I fear, closed "Lyautey" with a sightly disappointed sigh.

'Save U.S. Schools' Is Methodist Plea; Funds Are Sought

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Decision to rally all its forces for the support of Methodist educational institutions whose existence was said to be threatened by financial difficulties was made by unanimous vote of the Illinois conference of that church here today.

Belief was expressed that "there will be no stopping point" if any of the institutions is allowed to recede in its work. "If the schools go, the hospitals will come next and then the churches," President W. J. Davidson of Illinois Wesleyan university declared. The Wesleyan foundation at the University of Illinois will be the center of conference support. It was voted to raise a fund of $20,000 to meet this year's deficit and to reduce the expenses of the foundation by eliminating the business manager and assistant director.

In addition to the fund to be raised in conference churches, a field director will be appointed to seek additional gifts which will be credited to world service.

The first Sunday in December was designated as "special education day" when the value of Christian education and needs of the Methodist institutions will be presented. The conference education board report stated that the mortgage indebtedness of the foundation is $206,000 and declared that it is a "staggering load that threatens to crush it out of existence," since it has proved almost impossible to secure private gifts lately.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes strongly urged that the foundation be given immediate aid. He praised the "heroism with which you preachers are meeting individual situations growing out of the most amazing salary reductions I have ever known."

The report of the conference treasurer, the Rev. E. H. Sauer of Paxton, showed a decrease of $79,000 this year in salaries paid to ministers, district officers and the bishop. This is an average cut of 8 per cent in the 560 churches of the conference. A decrease of 1,950 members was reported for the year, the total membership roll now standing at 150,994.

Dr. Davidson in reporting on Illinois Wesleyan university said if pledges to the last campaign are met when they fall due "Wesleyan will crawl out of its difficulties."

"The faculty has been reduced this year, although standards have been maintained," he declared, urging at the same time a larger freshman class for next year to help meet expenses through income.

President C. P. McClelland of MacMurray college reported the largest enrollment last year in the school's history. The college is in fine shape, but needs more funds for larger endowment, he said.

Praises Ramsay MacDonald.

Bradford, Pa., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The 122d Genesee Methodist conference will close here today with appointment of ministers.

Bishop Adna Wright Leonard delivered his conference sermon yesterday in which he praised "the moral courage of Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's prime minister," and asserted that "What America needs at Washington is not more politicians but more patriots."

Marx Brothers Cause Laughter at M'Vickers

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

One grand, good time is waiting for you over at McVickers', folks! So get your tickets, pack up your troubles in those old kit bags and prepare to smile, smile, smile!

The four Marx brothers top the program with an hour or more full of their inimitable horseplay and wise cracks, with incidental piano and harp music by Chico and Harpo. "Monkey Business" has neither rhyme nor reason, but it is merriment incorporated.

The action starts aboard an ocean liner and ends in a haymow, and it gets what its perpetrators aim for—the good old stomach laugh—every inch of the way. Papa haw-haws, Mamma titter-titters, and Baby and Little Boy Blue— and his sister, too—[poem]—shriek with joy from start to finish.

I tell you, you've done something for this sad old world when you can make folks laugh like that! More power to the Marx boys!

So much for "Monkey Business."

THEN, there's a Mickey Mouse cartoon. Mickey and his dog friend go a-fishing—and what they catch is plenty. THEN—there's a swell football "short." THEN——

Chances are you'll want to sit through the entire program again—though you probably won't have time.

"THE BIG GAMBLE."

Produced by RKO-Pathe. Directed by Fred Niblo. Presented at the Palace theater.

KIND: Crook melodrama with comedy interludes.

QUALITY: Fair.

ACTING: A bit forced on the part of the "straights"—Dorothy Sebastian, William Boyd, William Collier Jr., and June MacCloy. Natural and comical as rendered by James Gleason and Zasu Pitts. Warner Oland does a "heavy" in his accustomed villainously convincing fashion.

DIRECTION: I've known better.

PHOTOGRAPHY, SOUND, SETS, etc.: Satisfactory.

STORY: A demon master crook who would have his way, and $100,000 worth of insurance on the life of a man which is supposed to end within a year, is f-o-i-l-e-d! Rather an exhilarating surprise is sprung in the last reel by that Mr. James Gleason, who is a blessing to every picture in which he appears. Octavus Cohen wrote the yarn.

Prof. Compton, U. of C., Going to Europe for Study of Cosmic Rays

Prof. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago, who was awarded the Nobel prize in physics in 1927, left Chicago last night on the first stage of a journey to Europe. There he is to continue his work in the measurement of the intensity of the so-called cosmic rays.

Those rays, the shortest known, are believed to result either from the disintegration or the formation of atoms. A determention of their phenomena is regarded as important in astronomical research. Dr. Compton has invented a machine for measuring these rays quantitatively.

England Cradle of Humanity, Osborn Hints

Piltdown Man Is Million Years Old, He Says.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn of New York peered a million years into the past today. He announced a discovery which shatters the prevailing beliefs as to man's distant beginnings.

Drawing on a lifetime of research with fossils, Prof. Osborn asserted the oldest man was not the Java man, as hitherto supposed, but the Piltdown man, who roamed the forests of southern England in the dim prehistoric ages. The clews which revealed the story, he declared, was not the famous human fossils, but the fossilized teeth of prehistoric elephants which primitive man hunted for food and ivory.

Prof. Osborn's belief was so clear cut and confident that it startled anthropologists of the British Association for Advancement of Science as they listened to him today. Not only did he state his conclusion as facts, but he read a table of dates, giving the approximate periods at which man's primitive ancestors lived.

Thus he declared that Piltdown man lived a million years ago, and the so-called Heidelberg and Peking man 920,000 years ago. The Java man or Pithecanthropus Erectus, who was thought to be the oldest, he declared to have lived only 500,000 years ago. The Neanderthal man came next, 70,000 years ago, he said, and 30,000 years ago appeared the Cro-Magnon man, whose crude drawings still are to be seen in caves in southern France. Modern Nordic man of southern Scandinavia, he held, appeared 12,000 years ago.

Prof. Osborn had been working for the last few weeks in museum collections in Great Britain trying to prove his theory that men's geologic age could be established by the teeth of prehistoric monsters. He said today that specimens proved his theory perfectly.

"Man has been the traveling companion of members of the elephant super-family for a very long period of time, roughly estimated at 1,250,000 years before our era," Prof. Osborn said. "The first natural inference is that Tertiary man inhabited the same kind of partly forested, partly open upland country, bordering streams and rivers which also was attractive to primitive elephants. The second inference is that only in the sands and gravels of these river and stream borders—subject to occasional floods and cloudbursts—are we likely to find fossil remains of primitive man and primitive elephants intermingled in the deposits."

Realizing that near each of the famous prehistoric skulls the remains of elephants also were found, Prof. Osborn asserted that man and elephants were found side by side from the closing of the Pliocene epoch. While a man's grinding teeth are relatively stationary, he declared, the ridge plates of the teeth "evolved with extraordinary chronologic precision at the same rate whether in the same region or in widely separated regions."

"Thus," he told the scientists, "the evolution of the grinding teeth of primitive elephants affords an absolutely reliable chronometer whereby the antiquity of the successive stages of human evolution, even in widely separated geographic regions, can be precisely determined and correlated."

SORORITY GIRLS DO BETTER THAN BOYS AT U. OF MINNESOTA

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 28.—(AP) The University of Minnesota sorority co-ed continues a better student than the fraternity man. Official compilations today showed sorority members last year earned an average grade of 1.435 to 1.098 for fraternities. This gives sororities approximately a "C plus" rating and fraternities A "C."

Twelve of 32 social fraternities failed to meet the "C" required by the university. This is twice the number delinquent last year. The twelve will be warned they must do better this year or face loss of privileges. All sororities met the requirement.

The scholastic average of all students rose to 1.223 from 1.215 the previous year. The university does not compute achievements of all men students compared with those of women as a group.

And others.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THERE is nothing frivolous about "The Silent Witness," which came to the Selwyn theater last night as the Dramatic League's first contribution to the playgoing season. It is a substantial slice of British melodrama, with the upper crust of Mayfair much in evidence; it takes its murder, its plot and its clews seriously. It contains none of the lunatic material that has been over-exploited under the label of "mystery melodrama," but nevertheless its secret will keep you guessing until the last act is well advanced.

The play begins with a wild-eyed slaying in one of those cozy little apartments for two that are often described as love nests, and churns up the emotions of a passional crime in an exciting manner. It shows you a stalwart father of the best British stock—a baronet—grimly assuming the guilt of his wretched son, and calmly departing for Scotland Yard, with an inspector gripping his elbow. He has what he regards as an indestructible alibi, and faces the court room scene of the second act with confidence.

Then you see British justice at work in full panoply of robes and wigs. A specialist in court room theatricals should not fail to add this episode to his collection. It's a fine, rich specimen, with the traditions of centuries hanging over it. His lordship, wagging his jowls in boredom and bitterness over the total idiocy of the human race, might be old Judge Jeffries himself at the hangings assises after Monmouth's rebellion.

Little by little, the assurance of Lionel Atwill, in the dock as the sacrificial father, is torn away. He gradually discovers that as a liar and perjurer he is a failure. His alibi, although genuine, withers away under cross-examination, and unless he admits that his son was not with him on the night of a family theater party, he is doomed. It seems that London theaters are amazingly punctilious in keeping records of the purchase of tickets and occupancy of seats.

The father breaks down and confesses on the witness stand—and then a mysterious stranger comes bolting into the courtroom to exonerate him. That ends the second act with a stimulating outburst of theatricalism; but the play has something more to say about the murder of the jezebel named Doreen Smith.

The kinks in the third act bring a surprising twist to the story. Its secret deserves to be kept, but I will drop this hint: The murder that the audience witnesses in the "cut back" episode of the first act is not the real murder, and the father had perjured himself in vain. Any melodrama deserves a happy ending, and "The Silent Witness" has one of the best.

Mr. Atwill, returned to the Chicago stage after too long an absence, gives a vivid and persuasive performance in the central rôle. He is an actor worth watching. Kay Strozzi, as the crooked lady who earns a strangling; Thurlow Bergen, as the judge; J. W. Austin, as counsel for the crown; Kathleen Lowry, as a British ingénue; Florence Fair, as the gentle mother; and Harold De Becker, as a cockney taxi driver, are other members of the long cast whose contributions are helpful.

Note to playgoers who are shopping for shows: "The Silent Witness" is a good one.

Episcopalians Call Dry Law Crime Breeder

Bishops, Deputies Split on Prohibition.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal church tonight agreed with the house of bishops that there is a widespread difference of opinion among church members as to the wisdom and desirability of retaining the eighteenth amendment in its present form.

Although recognizing this situation, the church's general convention declined to take action on the grounds that "it would not be wise to ask the church, in its corporate capacity, to pass upon questions of method thus involved in issues which in their nature are highly controversial and closely related to partisan politics."

While the deputies and bishops were agreed on this point, they were deadlocked over provisions of a matrimonial canon. A committee was appointed to attempt a settlement of differences on marriage and divorce.

The prohibition issue was contained in the report of the committee of twenty-one appointed to study industrial dislocation, world peace and prohibition and lawlessness. The report was adopted tonight by the deputies. The house of bishops had previously approved.

"Candor compels recognition of the fact that much lawlessness today arises in connection with necessity of control of liquor traffic," the report stated. "Although it is a distorted view of conditions which lays at the door of the prohibition law too large a responsibility for the evils of lawlessness." The report added:

"Passage of the eighteenth amendment was attended with high hopes for moral reform and social betterment, and now it is generally recognized that the law has benefited society by abolishing the saloon, which we are convinced has actually been definitely and permanently repudiated."

The report points out lawlessness results from failure to repeal laws which do not command public confidence.

"There is, nevertheless," the report states, "widespread and honest difference of opinion in the nation, within this church, and among members of this convention as to the wisdom of retaining the eighteenth amendment."

The report recommends that "churchmen urge an intelligent discussion of the question and attempt to discover the sober, informed and deliberate opinion of the people."

There was no debate on the prohibition section of the report. Neither was there discussion on the section which recommended America's entrance into the world court.

The deputies tonight took up consideration of a marriage and divorce canon proposed by the bishops as a substitute for one adopted by the deputies. The differences between the two were slight. Both the bishops and the deputies agreed on the establishment of ecclesiastical courts to consider marital cases. The deputies proposed the courts be mandatory in each diocese and missionary district.

The bishops' proposed canon calls for ecclesiastical courts at the discretion of the diocese. The courts would operate through the bishop.

Under provisions of both proposals ministers of the church may not solemnize the marriage of any person who has been or is the husband or wife of any person living, from whom he or she has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage.

The liberal phase of both proposals lies in the provision which allows divorced persons who have remarried to retain their communicant status in the church and be admitted to baptism, confirmation, and holy communion. Divorced persons, remarried by civil authority may, under both canons, petition the ecclesiastical court for recognition. Under a favorable decision by the court, acting through the bishop, a minister of the church may bless the union and parties to the union retain their communicant status.

Under the existing canon, ministers of the church may remarry a divorced person who is the innocent party to a divorce granted on grounds of adultery. This exception was eliminated by both the deputies and the bishops.

Rector United with Kin Through Story of Career

The Rev. Mansel B. Green, rector of the Episcopalian Church of the Good Shepherd in Oak Park, formerly was a member of the Northwest mounted police. About two years ago, when his congregation built the first unit of a new church, a story was printed in THE TRIBUNE telling of the rector's career. That story has been printed again and again at intervals. Recently Wilton Green, a brother of the Rev. Mr. Green, who had not seen or heard of him for thirty years, read the item at his home in Moosejaw, Sask. The brothers are to meet this morning when Wilton arrives on the Canadian Pacific railroad at 8:15 o'clock.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin and Don Philippe de Rodriques, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom Libby, arrive in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy. Tom and Irma inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a young daughter, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. Bill and Wallace shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

A WIFE AT HEART.

When the curtain fell on the act that night Irma went swiftly to her dressing room. Phil was busy on the stage attending to last night duties. The drops, the little grilled balcony, numberless props had to be assembled and packed. There was much shouting and arranging between Phil, Tommy, and the stage hands. Irma was in the pretty black lace dress by the time Phil was finished. She was nesting a tall, red comb in her hair when he knocked.

"Come in."

He opened the door and closed it behind him. She didn't like that. People on the bill thought things. He was still dressed in the velvet suit with the red bolero.

"Where are you going?" he asked, watching her fit the red comb between the silky waves of hair.

"You know. I'm going to judge the tango contest."

"You're not."

"Who's going to stop me?"

"I am."

"You and what police force?"

"Now, listen, Irma. I talked it over with the Filmores. They had girl acts for years until they started to work alone. They know all the rules and they say you have to go on the train I go on."

"O, yeh?"

"Yeh. They said I was in the right. Sure, I am. It stands to reason. How would I know you'd show up in Garchester and I'd be stuck."

"Well, I'm not going tonight."

"You gotta go with me. I can fire you right here without notice if you refuse."

"Phil, don't start something you'll be sorry for."

"Sorry? Why, you lousy little amateur, there are better dancers than you walking streets for a living. How'd you like to be fired here?"

"How'd you like to be left without a girl for the act here?"

"I'd get a girl easy enough. I'd get one who didn't cart drunks backstage and make a holy show of herself petting with them right where everybody could see her."

"Well, then get one, because I'm not going to Garchester."

"O, you're not? Where's the two weeks' notice you have to give me?"

"I don't have to give you two weeks' notice. I'm through with show business."

"Yah? Going to try monkey business instead, huh?"

"Maybe. I haven't decided."

He went out then slamming the door behind him. She stood for a moment with her hand on the door knob. She wished he hadn't goaded her on to taking this irrevocable step. It was a filthy trick she had pulled on him. Tommy and he would be out of work at least a week till another girl had been rehearsed. Still to take back her words would mean that Phil would ride her unmercifully. He would always believe that he had done her a favor.

Bill came up and slid his arm around her waist.

She sat down and tried to gather her wits. What now? What was she going to do? What was in the cards?

Some one knocked at the door. She recognized the shuffle of the doorman's carpet slippers.

"Miss Corbin, Mr. Graham, and Mr. Fitzroy are here."

"All right. Tell them I'm coming."

. . . . . .

Irma stood upon another balcony. This one was secure. It overhung the dance floor at Bill's Palais de Danse.

The tango contest which had been directly responsible for bringing her theatrical career to an abrupt end had been a huge success. Irma, however, had been unable to enjoy any portion of it. She felt cold and heavy hearted. The train had gone, carrying Tommy and Philippe away and leaving her behind. She had intensely disliked them both, but they were familiar annoyances in her life like cold dressing rooms and bad coffee. It was terrifying to picture a future with strange annoyances in it. For the first time since she had met them Bill and Wallace appeared to her as they really were. People who amused her, who were kind to her but with whom she had no real bond of understanding. Her careless, homeless mode of living had toughened her. Her personal contacts had taught her more of people than these complacent business men would care to know or even hear. They were pleasant, but they were strangers.

Curious how at home she had felt with Thrace and with these men while there had been the theater and the act and Garchester looming ahead. Now everything was different. She was stranded in a strange town among strangers.

She wondered what it would be like to be head hostess at the Crystal Moon. Probably very tiresome and exasperating. Her eye lighted on a fat man. She thought with horror of teaching him to waltz. Still once she got accustomed to the strangers, it would probably prove more pleasant than working for Phil.

Bill came up and slid his arm about her waist. None of the patrons could see them as they stood in the dim blue light on the little balcony.

"Gimme a little kiss, baby."

Irma stepped away from him.

"No."

"Why not?"

"Because I'm going to marry Wallace Graham."

"O." He peered at her sharply in the faint light. "You just decided that, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Do you know why?" He plunged on without waiting for her reply. "You decided that because I came up to you and spoke like a fresh drummer. I said, 'Gimme a little kiss, baby,' just as though I was the red faced guy in the North Dakota territory whose car had broken down and you were the farmer's daughter. I was crude. I could have had you then, too. Your mind is hopping in circles, sister, you'll do what seems the least repulsive. They're playing 'Samson et Delilah' in waltz time. Pretty, isn't it? The lights are dim and I'm not looking bad in their charitable glow. I should have folded you in my arms and kissed you gently and said just the right thing. I'd have had you then."

"Pretty certain, aren't you?"

"Of course. I'm never one to kid myself. Millions of men have lost these little battles by saying the wrong thing and I'm one of them. However, don't tell Wallace tonight that you'll marry him. Maybe tomorrow I'll say the right thing. But I really came up to say how about some chow mein, little one?"

Bill's avalanche of words set Irma wondering. Was he right? Had her whole life been altered by his crude approach? Could something as important as that be determined by such unreliable forces as man's speech and attitude? If this was so, then surely the world was run in a slipshod manner.

He said, "How about that chow mein, Irma?"

She shrugged indifferently. "If you want some."

"I have to get Wallace," he said. "I told him I'd pick him up. Wonder where he is?"

Wallace was waiting at the slim flight of stairs that led to the balcony. "We were just coming to get you," Bill said. "How about chow mein?"

Wallace was hailed as they entered the Bamboo Gardens. A man who had known him for years and who had never thought of anything to say except, "Howya, Wallie," now had a few drinks of what he hoped was good rye in him and was therefore full of news. Irma saw him sit down. He sat on the edge of the chair and looked anxious to get away, but there was no doubt that he would be there a minute or two.

"Bill," Irma said, "I'm going to tell Wallace tonight that I'll marry him. I just wanted to let you know."

"You don't love him, Irma."

"I think I do."

"Stop kidding yourself. You think his respectful attitude and reserved manner is just grand. He looks like a fellow who'd be kind to dumb animals. That's not enough to marry on."

"I think I love him."

"O. K. I hope you always think so."

"Thank you. We're going to be friends, aren't we, Bill?"

"Certainly. Why not? I always suspected that you wouldn't have me, and I guess it's just as well. You're probably a wife at heart."

"Probably."

Antoinette Urges Caution and Skill in Applying Rouge

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There's a powerful amount of cosmetic coloring used in this country of ours and goodness only knows, in tonnage, how much powder is offered up annually in the interest of better looking faces. Still, the job of applying both to the face needs more clever practitioners. Especially with rouge!

Walking along a crowded thoroughfare in daylight every so often your eye is hurt by a cheek tinting job that is ugly. I speak particularly of coloring as applied to a face no longer young. Say, anywhere from the late thirties on.

And there's a type of brunette who just ought to hire a restraining hand to go with her when she buys her rouge. She falls so hard for a rouge which, on her particular cheeks, takes on an almost purplish tone. And when that tint goes on to the cheek it does the most devastatingly hard things to the face that it is just a shame. Then there is the type that lays the rouge on far, far too heavily. The shadows lent the cheek as a consequence of this violent toned rouge are very, very ageing.

She has a blond prototype, this brunette we talk about. Only the blond is a tinted blond, as a rule, and goes in for a brighter, redder rouge. And she lays it on with total disregard to what happens to eyes, face, and hair.

Here's one good tip for any woman who touches up her hair: Go lightly on the rouge! Use a little—but always a little. Let the hair coloring do the talking, and let the cheek remain subdued. For when you have a foreign coloring in the hair and you apply with lavish hand another foreign coloring your eyes are bound to suffer painfully.

Rounded Shoulders for New Fall Suits

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The squared, athletic shoulders of our American girls form a means of identification for the French. They can pick out a flapper from the U. S. A. in any crowd by her shoulder lines, they tell me. This fall, if certain of the French dressmakers control the styles, it's going to be hard to do this, for one of the features of Paris fashions for the coming season is the rounded, sloping Victorian shoulder line, which is an outstanding characteristic of many jackets, coats, dresses and evening gowns.

In all the daytime garments listed the shoulder line is made rounded by sloping shoulder seams and by dropped yokes and caps at the top of sleeves. In the evening the 1850 dropped yoke method is extensively used. These shoulders make waistlines look more slim, and this is one big ideal of the new fashion.

The pictured wool suit from Lyelens shows you how some of the Paris style makers want our shoulders to look, to be in harmony with our new tip tilted hats. This suit is made of a woolly cashmere in a dark red that was the darling of Victorian ladies—maroon. The straight sleeves are given shoulder caps cut in one with the body of the bolero jacket, and up the outside of the arm is an elongated Y made by encrusting a one inch wide bias band of the material. Small Y's done in the same way trim the jacket front and back.

The dress under the bolero is a one piece frock with a dropped shoulder line and a gored skirt, both trimmed with bias band Y's. The belt is a Spanish belt of robin's egg blue moiré and the ribbon scarf is the same silk and color.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Sidewalk Exhibition.

My most embarrassing moment happened in cold, icy weather on my way to work. The sidewalks were so icy that I was taking my time and great care with each step.

Looking up, I saw the one young man I wanted to make an impression on coming towards me. Unconsciously, I was less careful in taking my steps, and as a result, just as he was about up to me, I slipped and started to fall. A young man walking behind me tried to prevent the fall, and in doing so he slipped, also, and we both went down, I sitting in the strange young man's lap.

My friend came to our rescue and helped us both up. Now, my "friend" is more than a friend to me." L. R.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

CHILD'S DRESS.

This small directoire model is one of the newest, and very pretty, too. The partial belt, ending in points above the inverted skirt plaits is a cute idea, and the collar, bow and cuffs finish the dress perfectly. Tweed like cotton with collar and cuffs of white pique, linen, broadcloth, wool jersey, challis and light weight worsted are lovely for this dress.

The pattern, 3295, comes in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 8 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting and 1 yard of ribbon for the bow.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My little niece, aged 7, having heard the grownups say "nipped in the bud," when annoyed with her brother for something he had said, told him "You can just knit that in the rug."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for Cards.

"I wonder if you could get some pinochle playing cards for us. We are patients in this sanitarium and card games help us to pass the time.

"J. M."

If you are a pinochle player, I am sure you'll have an extra deck of cards to pass on to these young men who must spend their days indoors. They'd be delighted to receive them.

How Do Chorus Girls Manage?

The theatre knows no "sick list." Chorus girls just can't be "absent." Regardless of their monthly sickness, they must be in line, on time, on their toes, and smiling. How do they do it? Nature doesn't spare them. They menstruate, of course; but stop the pain for hours at a stretch by the use of a perfectly harmless medicine called Midol.

It acts in seven minutes. Relief is complete. The pain is gone. You menstruate in comfort. Midol is not a narcotic and offers no interference with nature. All druggists; ask simply for Midol.

Food Talk.

Even though autumn has crossed our thresholds and entered our hearts, we yet have a little time to finish our picking, canning, and jelly making. With the last mentioned task in mind, I want to answer the many inquiries we have received about the use of paraffin in all these methods of preserving, for a "paraffin seal" is not confined to jelly making alone.

Paraffin may be purchased in almost any local grocery or hardware store by the individual cake, or by a box containing three or more cakes. It has several commercial names which need not disturb you, for most of them are good and will well serve your purpose.

When you attempt canning or jelly making, melt the paraffin after you have finished filling the jars or glasses. Then melt only a cake at a time, depending on the amount of jars you have to cover with it. Melt it over a slow fire, and pour it hot over the jelly. Roll each glass gently so that the paraffin entirely covers the exposed surface of the jelly. Leave about half an inch from the top of each glass as you pour in the jelly to allow for an approximate quarter of an inch of paraffin seal.

It is a debated point as to whether or not the paraffin should be put on the jelly while the latter is hot. I like the flavor of my own jelly better, if it has been permitted to cool before being so sealed. Cool—not cold!!

As the season progresses, and you enjoy glass after glass of your tasty jelly—and. I'm sure that is the kind you make—save each piece of paraffin which you remove. Wash it carefully, and store it away for the next preserving season. When the time again arrives to put up fruits and vegetables for winter use, bring the old paraffin forth, and melt with whatever amount of new that you need. You may save yourself a few worthwhile pennies each year by so doing. Not to mention the convenience of having a little paraffin always in the house for emergency use.

If you discover the children chewing on it in the interim, take care that you save paraffin in a secret place in the future, for it does provide a grand gum!

LEMON RICE PUDDING.

½ cup of rice.
½ cup of hot water.
¾ teaspoon of salt.
2 cups of milk.
2 eggs.
½ lemon.
⅓ tablespoon of sugar.
¼ cup of sugar.

Put the rice in a double boiler; add the hot water and salt and cook together until the water is absorbed. Add the milk and cook until the rice is done. Beat together the egg yolks, one-half cup of sugar, and grated lemon rind, and juice. Stir into the rice, and cook three minutes. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Whip the egg whites stiff, add the one-half tablespoon of sugar and pile the meringue on the rice. Bake in a slow oven [300 degrees Fahrenheit] for about ten minutes.

Chicagoans Act as Agents for the Fair of 1933

BY THALIA

SEVERAL Chicago travelers to one or other of places have, in the last year or so, been serving as emissaries working in the interests of the 1933 Century of Progress. Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Atkinson, who expect to return in another month from their lengthy globe circumnavigation, called on the Siamese government last week to discuss with them Siamese plans for participation in the exposition. The big game hunting Herbert Lewises did their bit in Africa last year when they investigated the possibilities of transporting the inhabitants of a pygmy village to Chicago for the fair time comes around.

Mr. Lewis recently Mr. George Henry Lewis in Europe with Mrs. High on their annual summer trip, has been pursuing his interest in the representative of European photographic society in the international salon of photographic works that is to be one of the features of the exposition. Mr. High, you know, is one of the most accomplished and accomplished of Chicago's amateur photographers. The Highs will be returning to Chicago in time although the duck hunting season is always an incentive for Mr. High's early fall arrival here, is later this year than usual. In Paris about a month ago Mr. and Mrs. High gave a luncheon for the other Chicagoans who were there. The Thomas W. Days, who sailed for this country on the same ship the J. Andrews Kings, who returned to Lake Forest last week, and the Charles B. Goodspeeds were among the guests. The Highs were joined in Prospect with their daughter, Mrs. Bussy of London, for a stay in Paris.

Albert Michelson Is Ill

in Pasadena Hospital.

Disturbing news from Washington, D. C., concerns the serious illness of Dr. Albert Michelson after an operation in the emergency hospital there a few weeks ago. Mrs. Michelson had gone to Washington, D. C., from Provincetown, Mass., where she and her younger daughter, Mrs. Sheldon Dick, had had a house this summer. Mrs. Dick and Mrs. Philip B. Maher are with their sister, Mrs. Festus Gates, in order to be near their parents.

Mrs. Easton Owsley has dismantled and given up her apartment at 3150 Lake Shore drive with the intention of spending most of her time away from home during the next year or so. She departed on Saturday for a stay at Hot Springs and plans to visit Galveston, returning to Chicago only for brief intervals.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield Kings have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Grimson [Mrs. Grimson is Adelaide Hoffman, the artist] as house guests at La Fosse, their Santa Barbara residence. They had a small dinner for the visitors yesterday, at which Clarence F. Mitchells gave a dinner for them last week. The Kings are returning to Chicago on Oct. 1, and the James Ward Thornes are making the eastward trip at the same time. The Kings' son-in-law and daughter, the John Irving Shaws, have returned from their honeymoon and are looking for a house in Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Gross Back

from Their Summer Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Gross have returned to Evanston from their residence at York Village, Me., where most of their children and grandchildren visited them during the summer. The daughters, Mrs. Rene Traveletti of Evanston and Mrs. Dana H. Grant of Tuxedo, N. Y., have returned also to their respective residences. Their daughter, Mrs. George S. Isham of Evanston, is recovering slowly from the illness she contracted last December, and has gone away to Warm Springs, Ga., for the winter. Her children, Anne and Joan, will spend the summer with their grandparents, are to be with her.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley of 1 Ridge parkway have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Victor Elting Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Elting of Winnetka. Miss Stanley studied at St. Timothy's at Catonsville, Md., and spent a year of study and travel abroad before she made her debut last winter. Mr. Elting is a graduate of Princeton, class of '28. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Singleton Wed to

A. L. Porter on Saturday.

In romance that culminated, or rather what does a romance do, culminate in the quiet wedding on Saturday of Miss Susie Singleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Singleton of St. Louis, Mo., and Burnell L. Porter began last winter when Mr. Porter and his brother and sister-in-law, the Gilbert E. Porters III., were on a pair trip to Honolulu. The wedding took place late Saturday afternoon at the Gilbert Porters' Lake Forest residence, and the bride and groom went to Virginia Hot Springs on their honeymoon trip. Mr. Porter—"Burf," as his friends know him—was until his marriage one of the most popular of eligible bachelors.

Mrs. Samuel Insull was to arrive yesterday from an eastern trip. She was in St. Ambridge, Mass., for a week. . . . Mrs. Alden B. Swift and Mrs. Harrison Swift accompanied Miss Mary Swift to New York to see her off on Miss Nizon's school in Italy and remained in the east for a few days. . . . Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift and her daughter, Miss Geraldine, have been in New York seeing off Miss Mary Swift, also bound for Miss Nizon's. . . . Mrs. Alexander H. Revell, who has been at Easthampton with her daughter, Mrs. Loring Hoover, has returned to Chicago and is at the Ritz until she goes to Florida. . . . Mrs. Gideon Armour is in London.

Purdue, with 4,642, Sets Record for Enrollment

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Official figures on Purdue university enrollment, given out today by President Edward C. Elliott, reveal the largest attendance in its history. The total is 4,642. That is 140 higher than last year at this time. The number of freshmen is lower than last year, but there are more enrolled in the other classes and the graduate school has a record breaking registration.

WILL STUDY IN ITALY

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Marie Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift; Miss Lydia Swift, the Alden B. Swifts' daughter, and Miss Elizabeth Baum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Baum, will be students this winter at Miss Mary S. Nizon's fashionable school at Florence, Italy. All three girls will be debutantes next season.

Should Child Know It's Adopted? Foster Parent Says "Yes"

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The following touchingly sweet and intelligent letter sets forth the situation in which a number of foster parents find themselves. A few necessary changes have been made to cover possible identification:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Will you please advise me how we may make known to our dear little not quite 3 year old nephew, without breaking his heart, that the dearly beloved mama that he knows is not his real mother? There could not be greater love between them if she were. His own mother is the 'pretty girl' whose picture hangs where he can always see it. She passed on when baby was only 11 days old.

"He has been in Sunday school for some time and will soon go to kindergarten. I do not want him to learn the truth from outsiders; I think it is a form of cruelty. . . . Today the little one, trying to persuade his mother to let him accompany her on a little ride, asked, 'Are you my mama?' My heart seemed to stand still. Can you help us in this?"

I found one short letter which seems to fit this question—first, it reinforces the wise decision that this beloved little boy must be told, and, second, it gives a general idea of a simple approach to the telling.

"I have two adopted children, both girls. Believing that girls would be more sensitive to their adoption than boys, I pondered telling them of the fact for some time. Keeping it a secret, of course, is like sitting on dynamite. Birth certificates are more and more in demand these days. In many states one must be produced at marriage. The sudden learning of adoption at such a time might possibly alienate mother and daughter irreparably.

"Therefore I resolved to treat their adoption as we treat their build and stature; just ordinary facts that just 'happened that way.' The understanding of the word 'adoption' came to them when I told them where babies came from. At the earliest possible age, 5 for one and 6 for the other, I told them how babies grew and told them that I had not been strong enough to carry them safely and feed them well, so that another mother had done that for me. Later on I told them all hospitals had such babies; the mothers were too poor or too ill to care for their babies and allowed other mothers to have them.

"They rather pride themselves on having had two mothers, and this attitude has entirely protected them from any barbs from schoolmates. Some know, some do not, but all seem to ignore it."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover attended the funeral services this morning of Mrs. Everett Sanders, who died in Paris two weeks ago. The service was held at the Mayflower, where Mr. and Mrs. Sanders lived for several years.

The secretary of state returned here this morning from Highhold, his summer place on Long Island, where Mrs. Stimson will remain for a short time yet.

The secretary of commerce, Robert P. Lamont, returned this morning from New York and joined Mrs. Lamont, who also arrived here this morning after an absence all summer in their summer home in Wisconsin and a short visit to their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Lamont Jr.

Justice and Mrs. George Sutherland returned to their Washington home tonight from New York, where they landed from California, having made the trip by water via Panama.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Stevens have arrived at the Mayflower for a short visit on their way to their home in North Carolina from Detroit, where Mr. Stevens was elected national commander of the American Legion.

Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett and her sister, Mrs. Charles G. Matthews, have closed Casa Blanca, Mrs. Blodgett's summer home on Mackinac island, where they have been all summer, and are en route to their Washington home by motor.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll will give a dinner dance in honor of their debutante daughter, Miss Mildred Nicoll, on Dec. 4 in the crystal room of the Ritz-Carlton preceding the first junior assembly.

Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson Jr. arrived at the Weylin yesterday from Lenox and is joined at that hotel today by their son-in-law and daughter, Count and Countess Gianguillo Rucellai, who are due on the Conte Biancamano.

Miss Phoebe Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Andrews, has returned from Bar Harbor, where she was the guest of Miss Rosalie Slack.

Mrs. Richard E. Breed and Miss Jane Breed returned from Europe on the Europa.

Mrs. Louise de Koven Phelps has returned from Bar Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ranold H. MacDonald Jr., who passed the summer months at their country home, Beech Hill house, Dublin, N. H., will return home on Thursday.

Bertha Palmer, O. T. Lewis Wed at Bar Harbor

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—The wedding of Miss Bertha Palmer, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, to Mr. Oakleigh Thorne Lewis, which took place at noon today at Hare Forest, the summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago, marked the close of the season in this fashionable summer colony.

The Rev. Albert Wilson, rector of the Church of St. Gregory-by-the-Sea at Rumson, N. J., an old friend of the parents of the bridegroom, Mrs. Philip S. Chancellor of Ormond, Santa Barbara, Cal., and the late Mr. Blakeman Lewis, officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a breakfast and small reception for the limited number of relatives and intimate friends who witnessed the marriage. Miss Pauline Palmer served as her sister's only attendant and Dr. Chancellor, the bridegroom's stepfather, was his best man.

Miss Palmer's wedding dress was a simple model of ivory satin, made with a long train, and her veil was of tulle.

Following their honeymoon Mr. Lewis and his bride will be at home at his country place, Thorndale, at Millbrook, N. Y. They will come to Chicago to spend the Christmas holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer at 1301 Astor street.

The bride's mother is the former Miss Pauline Kohlsaat, a daughter of the late H. H. Kohlsaat, Chicago newspaper publisher.

Mr. Lewis comes of a pre-revolutionary family. His mother is the former Miss Charlotte Thorne, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne of this city and Las Tejas, Santa Barbara, Cal. The Thornes settled in Massachusetts in the middle of the seventeenth century, later moving to Long island, where one of the ancestors of the bridegroom was a patentee of the town of Flushing.

Create Own Type of Beauty, Women of Business Are Told

"Mere prettiness is an accident of color and contour. Beauty as we have come to know it is within the reach of practically every woman, and reveals almost universally the type of woman who makes a success in the theatrical, the business or the social world."

At least so Kathleen Cory, director of the Dorothy Gray studios, informed the Alliance of Business and Professional Women last night.

"Every great beauty creates her own type," she added, "most of them, examination reveals, by submerging some defect by a radiant personality. Norma Shearer and Gloria Swanson, for instance, are the two best examples of women who lacking perfection of feature, have successfully created the impression of beauty.

"One of the greatest drawbacks to chic appearance is the failure of the majority of women to see themselves in full length perspective, as men see them. One buys a hat, seeing only that part of the costume, when in reality we should be looking ever more frequently into our full length mirrors and seeing it as a part of the whole.

"Magnetism, that vibrant quality that some women exercise as they enter a room, actually lives in the muscles and can be developed. It is one of those stimulating effects possible to the woman who takes sufficient care of herself to get beauty sleep before she needs it, and to keep herself fit and healthy, for health, after all, is the real basis of all beauty care.

"Creams and lotions can help, and so does exercise, but nothing in the world, but good rich blood will feed muscles and tissues and bring that glow that means real beauty."

Concerning Platinum Blonds.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 28.—(AP)—That platinum blond effect may be obtained with a coat of paint. And the paint is much safer than powerful bleaching agents that may injure the hair permanently, Emil R. Rohde, Chicago expert, told a beauty culture convention here today.

MARRIED

MRS. H. TYLER TODD.
[Teloff Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Marianna Rogers Ruffner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Ruffner of Highland Park, to Harrison Tyler Todd, son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Henry D. Todd Jr. of Washington, D. C., took place last Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church in Highland Park. After Nov. 1 the bride and groom will reside at 1110 Union street, Schenectady, N. Y. Gen. Todd commanded the 58th field artillery brigade, 33d division, during the world war. By an error in yesterday's paper the wrong picture of a bride was run as Mrs. H. T. Todd.

Pastors See Slump as Time to Arouse Zeal for Religion

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

More than 750 Protestant ministers of Chicago attended the first union ministers' meeting of the fall season yesterday morning at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago temple. The attendance, according to officers of the Chicago Church federation under whose direction the monthly meetings are held, prophecies intensified work in religious fields, despite the depression.

In fact, Dean Shailer Mathews, president of the federation, told the pastors the present conditions forms an extraordinary background for spiritual progress. He pointed to former religious revivals and declared that they invariably sprang from conditions which proved the treachery of trust in material things alone.

"There is no reason that history will not now repeat itself," Dean Mathews added. "Certainly not since the world war has civilization been swept with uncertainty and hardship as now. Yet in spite of the misfortune everywhere, we must not forget that refining is by fire, and that strength of character is developed not through ease but through enduring reverses."

Greeter Gaw Receives Pal of 'Billy the Kid'

The old days in New Mexico, when feuds meant shooting it out, were described yesterday by one who used to be considerable of an expert in that line. He was George Coe, 76 years old, who lays claim to being one of the last survivors of Billy the Kid's gang.

The westerner was greeted at the Dearborn street station by Greeter Gaw. Then he, with Mrs. Coe and Dr. William Brown, superintendent of Valmora sanitarium in New Mexico, who came with him, was taken to the Stevens hotel in the shining official automobile used for city visitors. Thursday evening Mr. Coe will be a guest of honor at the annual banquet given by friends of the sanitarium and will again tell his experiences as a border fighter.

"It was this way," he explained: "It was in Lincoln county back in the '70's that Billy the Kid—his real name was William H. Bonney—became our leader and before he died with his boots on he had killed about 21 men.

"You see, there were two factions that sprang up after the killing of J. H. Tunstall, an English cattleman. Billy the Kid was then 17 years old. Under our leader, McSween, we set out to avenge Tunstall's murder.

"We fought the faction lined up with Sheriff Brady. Being old timers they thought they had the whole country sewed up for themselves. They wouldn't let newcomers in. We were opposed to that idea. Anyway, Billy became our leader and by the time he was killed we had driven out the crooks that were lined up with the sheriff."

Doris Describes the Right Sort of Line to Hand a Boy Friend

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Some times you speak of a 'good line' as a requisite toward a girl's popularity. Just what is meant by a good line? INTERESTED."

How can I voice it, now? A good line, let's say, would be any line that would put the party at the other end of the twosome in an agreeable, easy, comfortable frame of mind. A line that would inspire a boy to throw out his chest a bit and think: "Now, here is a girl who understands me. She knows I have the stuff in me. She's no dub."

It isn't a line of witty sayings. It isn't a wise-cracking line. It isn't a glib succession of "O, yeahs" and "Don't be sensitive, brother," and "Ain't he poisonous?" It isn't parading a half baked knowledge of the soviet plan or the British coalition government. Nor conversation to indicate that you read the blurb on the best seller's jacket. It isn't acting as if you were 12 years old permanently, as one of our better women novelists accused American youth of being, recently.

It's just being a swell girl, a girl who can say a nice and gracious thing with the poise of a woman of the world. No giggles; no hysteria.

It's talking in pretty much the same sort of vein that you use with a brother with whom you are on chummy terms. Only, perhaps you throw in just a shade more of the well known blarney than your brother would get.

It's acting as if you were used to boys and you'd learned not to take up an entirely different set of airs for their consumption. You wouldn't, for instance, start in making fun of a girl just to get a laugh. You wouldn't pose before her. You wouldn't be guilty of innuendoes that would set her to guessing just what manner of girl you are, anyway.

You'd talk about the things and the people and the happenings that you both were involved in and with. And you'd say things to a new girl that would please her, so she would like you. It's just as good a line for the boys. Only you can throw in a little more of the well known applesauce with the latter.

KLEENEX

Disposable Tissues

MOTHER—you dread those contagious diseases that spread so rapidly among children—but are you doing everything you can to ward them off?

Have you, for instance, taught your child to use Kleenex instead of the ordinary handkerchief—and destroy immediately after using?

That is the way to protect your child from the disease germs that lurk in dirty handkerchiefs. Almost all contagious diseases are contracted through the nose and mouth. And you know how careless children are with handkerchiefs ... use them for anything ... then back go countless germs to the unprotected nose and mouth, every time the handkerchief is used.

Germs in Kleenex destroyed

When Kleenex is used, germs are destroyed. And at once. The cost of these soft tissues is so low that each one need be used but once. No self-infection—no laundering—and no irritation, because Kleenex is so remarkably soft and absorbent.

Mother, think! Can you permit your child to risk the dirty handkerchief, now that this new, sanitary handkerchief has come to take its place?

Nothing like it

There's nothing like Kleenex for saving your time and temper a dozen times a day. For wiping spectacles; for applying medicines; for minor bandages; for wiping razor blades . . . these are but a few of the many uses for Kleenex. And don't forget that Kleenex is declared the safest, most efficient way of removing face creams by those experienced in skin care. Its superior absorbency is needed to remove all impurities from the pores. All drug, dry goods and department stores sell Kleenex.

TESTS SHOW DISEASE GERMS that thrive in handkerchiefs include the Pneumococcus, Streptococcus (pus germ), Staphylococcus, and Catarrhalis. A handkerchief used only once during a cold was tested and found to be teeming with germs.

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES

Dirty handkerchiefs are a menace to society!

"I looked where I'd of went if I'd been him . . . and there he was"

Don't stop us if you've heard this one . . .

It seems a horse was lost. The owner and his men had searched long but futilely. Then there appeared a small boy, leading the missing animal. They asked how come, and learned the horse had been found in a certain meadow some distance from the close-cropped pastures —a meadow where grass was longer and clover more luxuriant.

Said the wise child: "I looked where I'd of went if I'd been him—and there he was".

You haven't lost a horse, but maybe you're looking for valuable prospects in the New York area. Well, think what you'd do if you were one of these prospects . . . where you'd go if you were as free to choose, financially, as so many of them are.

Out where suburban skies are blue. Out where life offers a greater return on a comfortable income. That's where you'd go—that's where you'll find them. And that's where the New York Herald Tribune has its greatest circulation.

Nearly twenty per cent of the families in the New York Market districts where incomes average over $5000, read the Herald Tribune. They like the way this newspaper is edited—believe in it—and respond to the advertising it carries.

STUDENTS WAR ON $4 FOOTBALL AT NOTRE DAME

Want Home Rate for N. U. Game.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—A football war broke out at Notre Dame today, but Senior Coach Hunky Anderson and his team were not included in the proceedings. It was an embattled army of seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen—comprising a majority of the student body—who started it and apparently they are out to finish it. The spark that ignited the uprising was an official announcement this morning that tickets to the Northwestern-Notre Dame game at Soldiers' field, Chicago, on Oct. 10, would cost Notre Dame students $4 each.

Seniors were to have first call during the distribution, which was to start at 1 o'clock, the announcement stated. Long before that hour, the campus was in an uproar. A few early readers of the bulletin frowned, transmitted the news to friends, and the classroom corridors and grounds were soon dotted by rebellious groups protesting on the possibility of organized resistance against the high cost of tickets.

1,500 Ask Price Cut.

By noon, several energetic spirits with a genius for organization had united the dissatisfied students into a solid army, and a petition signed by 1,500 students, asking for a reduction in prices, was presented to school authorities. The students appeared to have won the first skirmish, for the official sale of tickets for the day was halted, those being purchased by seniors.

Robert Georgio, president of the student activities council, also made a plea for a reduction in ticket rates.

The game in question is regarded as a home game for Northwestern. Notre Dame follows the western conference principle in this matter, the visitors paying a special minimum charge for home game tickets, and the full admission price for games away from home.

The students were not aware that the game on Oct. 10 would be regarded as a home contest for Northwestern until the announcement was posted this morning. If Soldiers' field had not been previously decided upon as the site of the game, it would have been played at Notre Dame as a part of the customary home and home arrangement. The students' argument is that it is still Notre Dame's home game. The Rev. Raymond Hesch, C. S. C., prefect of discipline; John C. Harper, athletic director, and Coach Hunky will confer on the situation tomorrow morning.

Frosh "Advised" Not to Buy.

When the first seniors appeared at the stadium office today, they found picketed by fellow classmen and juniors. The five who bought tickets were the sole customers of the day. The junior class has pledged its allegiance to a "no reduction, no purchase" policy, and they have been joined by a majority of the sophomores. As for the freshmen, they have been informed it will be considered unwise of them to differ from their elders.

While the students were carrying on their unexpected rebellion in the halls and on the campus, the football training camp itself, in which a personally conducted war by Coach Anderson had been anticipated, was unusually peaceful. Anderson did not berate the squad with the gusto expected after the varsity's poor effort against the reserves Saturday, but merely went over the mistakes of each player. The players responded with one of the most spirited drills of the season on fundamentals and signals. They open the season Saturday against Indiana at Bloomington.

Emmett Murphy returned to quarterback on the first team, with Charley Lockwich holding down the same post on the second string. No significance was attached to the change, since the two have alternated since practice began. John Rogers, second string center, was demoted to the third string, and was replaced by Tom Germain, formerly of St. Philip's High of Chicago. Ray Brancheau took Carl Cronin's place at second string right half, more because of his good work in Saturday's game than any lack of skill by Cronin. The drill was divided into a pass defense drill for backs and blocking for line men, followed by a dummy scrimmage and signal drill.

Lukats Not in Uniform.

The first string included: Kosky and Mahoney, ends; Culver and Kurth, tackles; Harriss and Hoffman, guards; Capt. Yarr, center; Murphy, quarter back; Schwartz and Sheeketski, halves, and Banas, full back. Nick Lukats, injured full back, was not in uniform. The second string was composed of Host and Devore, ends; Brown and Kozac, tackles; Greeney and Pierce, guards; Gorman, center; Lockwich, quarter; Koken and Brancheau, halves, and Melinkovich, full back.

Athletic Director Harper today announced the Notre Dame reserve team's schedule, which features four Big Ten opponents. The team will be divided into three squads on Oct. 17 to play as many games away from home. The schedule includes Purdue, the first intersectional oppo-

DO THEY LOOK READY FOR NEBRASKA?

Northwestern is undertaking a sizable assignment in opening its 1931 season with Nebraska, but these seven players, who will form the Wildcats' forward wall, appear to be ready for anything when the Cornhuskers come to Dyche stadium Saturday. Left to right they are: Dick Fencl, end; Capt. Dal Marvil, tackle; Jimmy Evans, guard; Harold Weldin, center; George Dilley, guard; Jack Riley, tackle, and Edgar Manske, end. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Pug Rentner, the half back whose forward passing helped Northwestern to win a share of the western conference championship last year, flashes his speed in a workout at Evanston. The former Joliet High school star is expected to feature as a ball carrier this season, in addition to doing most of the passing.

Al Moore Rejoins N. U. Squad; Finds Rookie Meenan on Job

Offensive football was temporarily shelved at Northwestern yesterday in favor of planning a defense for Saturday's opening engagement with Nebraska at Dyche stadium.

After having spent two weeks on his attack Coach Dick Hanley hauled out a blackboard and in a long chalk talk pointed out what the Wildcats can expect from the Cornhuskers. Following the lecture the varsity participated in a shadow scrimmage with a freshman team which ran Nebraska plays.

Al Moore, regular left half back, rejoined the squad yesterday after having been laid up for a week with a leg injury. Ken Meenan, sophomore from Oak Park, who has been at left half during Moore's absence, has played so well that a hot fight is expected between the two before either clinches the job.

Lewis or Potter at Quarter.

Hanley apparently is satisfied that Nebraska. About the only fault found in the performance against the freshmen last Saturday was the blocking of several players, principally the quarterbacks. Hanley said the starting quarterback will be either Will Lewis, a senior, or George Potter, sophomore. The superior kicking of Potter may win him the assignment.

The problem of finding a suitable kicker still concerns the Wildcats. Purple scouts report that Nebraska punters excel the Northwestern men with the exception of Ollie Olson, sophomore full back, who may have to be put in the lineup to bolster this department.

Two weeks of practice still finds several starting positions open. The only back field jobs definitely in line are full back and right half, where Reb Russell and Pug Rentner are entrenched.

Three Fight for End Job.

There is a three way fight for left end among Ralph Eyler, Art Jens, and Ed Manske, with the odds favoring the latter. Harold Weldin and Paul MacDonald are about evenly matched at center.

There is little doubt about the tackle and guard positions. Capt. Dal Marvil and Jack Riley stand out as the starters at tackle, while Jimmie Evans and George Dilley are the first choice guards.

Fight Decisions

At Pittsburgh, Pa.—Tony Herrara beat Joe Goodman [10].

30,000 Seats Left for Northwestern, Notre Dame Game

Thirty thousand seats still are available for the Northwestern-Notre Dame game to be played at Soldiers' field Oct. 10, according to announcement yesterday by the ticket authorities of the two schools. Many of these seats are located on the horseshoe bend of the stadium, while all are in the concrete stands, since the north end bleachers are not to be erected.

Both Arthur Haley and Max Hayford, ticket managers at Notre Dame and Northwestern, respectively, said that a large number of box seats are available between the goal lines. These are the only seats unsold alongside the playing field.

Notre Dame and Northwestern have an equal share of the remaining tickets. Supporters of the South Bend eleven will be on the east side of the field and Northwestern's on the west.

The demand for tickets has been widespread, nearly every state in the country being represented by purchasers. Mr. Haley reported that a large delegation of Kansas ranch owners, residing near Jesse Harper's ranch, will attend the game in a group. Large parties of high school and college coaches together with their teams also have placed orders for tickets.

DOPING THE OLD SERIES

BY UNCLE WILBERT MACK.

[Per Westbrook Pegler.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 28.—Once again the blue ribbon classic of baseballdom is ready to spread its wings and burst into full bloom with a bang as the umpires, in their spick and span uniforms, dust off the world series plate and arouse every red blooded American sport lover with the age old toxin cry of "play ball."

Naturally, as an old world series hero of the old days, the true fans, both young and old, will want to know my opinion of the two contending stellar aggregations which seem so evenly matched, although I am personally inclined to dope the Cardinals a fraction of a point the better of it in the psychology department, whereas, it will have to be admitted that the Athletics have the edge in the hurling with Grove and Earnshaw, without overlooking that anything can happen in a short series.

Young Fellows Just as Good as Old Ones.

As I look back down the long parasangs of the years, through the drifting mists and the purple autumn haze, it seems to me that the young fellows of today are just as good in most departments of the grand old game, and especially this is true of the mental attitude which is half the battle when you come right down to cases than they were in the days of such historical characters as McMurdo, McMutrie, and McMurder of the famous old Superbas. The only difference, as I see it in my humble opinion, is that the present day heroes do not have to face as hard a pitching on the one hand or as good a batting on the other hand, which naturally makes for emphasizing the other factors like fielding and taking advantage of the breaks.

But I am afraid I am a member of the modern school at least mentally if not physically for whenever I hear one of my fellow-old-timers who have fallen behind the Trek of progress down the Yesteryears into the Morrow, dropping the stragglers by the wayside in the survival of the fittest, I have to admit that life is like that. And fans, we must all be ready to answer the umpire's call for, always remember, only a game fish swims upstream.

So I always insist that the younger generation is all right and if you think they are drinking and dissipating I wish you could turn time backward to when I was just a young rookie coming up and compare conditions. It is just like everything else in this world. Sometimes there is no telling and then again the reverse is likely to be true.

Personally, I do not drink, smoke or swear in any form, and folks, while I do not want any one to get the impression that I don't enjoy a good, clean joke, or witty saying as well as the next man, I tell you it is something when you can go to bed at night and look the whole world right in the eye, be it man or woman.

Touches on Second Base Situation.

Up to now I have hardly touched on the second base situation and there you have one of the most important situations in the whole problem. First of all, a chain is only as strong as its weakest link and the keystone sack is no exception to the rule. But any time you find two ball clubs going into the big test with such men as Bishop and Frisch it is always a good idea to look before you leap because there is enough talent to upset the dope bucket either way.

Now, I don't want to get too technical but I would like to explain one or two inside matters that the fans are not in a position to realize including the all important question of pitching. You take the case of Waddell in 1911 and compare it to the present circumstances if you want the answer, and you can't go far wrong when you count up the cold hard results. But the ball has changed a lot since Waddell's day and I doubt that you can draw the line without upsetting your calculations in some sectors.

But I am afraid I might confuse my readers with too much secret inside strategy so I am going to content myself with sticking to the grand old dope, which, barring the factor of surprise, usually may be adhered to on forming your basis of conclusions. So what do we find?

I will have to take this up in my next article.

(Note to readers: Tomorrow's article will explain the psychological factors which may produce the decisive breaks in the world series.)

IT'S ROOT VS. FABER IN CITY SERIES OPENER

First Game at Wrigley Field Tomorrow.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs and White Sox, following double header labors with which they concluded their regular season on Sunday, were put on a do as you please program yesterday. Today, however, they will be summoned back to their respective working places to do a little muscle stretching preparatory to the opening of the city series tomorrow at Wrigley field.

Although there is a tendency to believe the south siders are in no shape to meet a team which by its record of thirteen wins in its last fifteen starts in the regular campaign must be regarded as fairly difficult, there apparently is as much interest as if the contenders were a 50-50 paper match. At least, the advance reserve seat sale has been big enough to indicate the town isn't going to walk out on the attraction. The bulk of the attendance, however, will have to come from the $1.00 customers, who won't be able to get their tickets until the day of each game.

Bush May Use Cripples.

Manager Donie Bush had his cripples moving around in the last four games at St. Louis Saturday and Sunday, and is inclined to think he'll be warranted in employing them tomorrow and as long as the series continues. Cissell, at short, still is handicapped a bit by the leg injury which had him limping around for more than a moment and Reynolds also is favoring the ankle that was fractured. However, even in their hampered state, they might do better than the fellows who have been operating in their places. They couldn't be worse.

If Reynolds should be able to play and is anything like his real self at bat, the Sox outfield might, by its attack, provide the Cub adherents with a rude shock. Reynolds, who will have to perform in center because he is the only one of the three with speed enough for the vast territory, will be flanked by Fonseca and Jolley. So as to have Fonseca's ailing legs at their best, Bush permitted him to escape the trip to St. Louis. Mr. Jolley's legs, however, are now in working order.

Faber Probable Starter.

Bush also granted the 43 year old Red Faber a furlough during the St. Louis expedition and that is fairly accurate evidence that the present intention is to allow the veteran to have the pleasure, or pain, of facing the Cubs in tomorrow's opener. The hunch is that of all the prospective starters Red, even if whipped, would be a bit more stubborn than any of his mates when it came to a matter of allowing runs.

In Sunday's double barreled triumph over the Pirates, Hornsby used the four men he thinks can handle all the pitching he'll need for the duration of the tournament with the Sox. They will be Root, Bush, Smith and Malone in the order of appearance.

DERRINGER IS LIKELY CHOICE FOR FIRST GAME

Hold Parade for N.L. Champs Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 28.—The 1931 world series whoopla got under way here today with a baseball workout by the Cardinals, accompanied by photographers. The ball players got along swell, but the photographers were blighted by the fact that the Cards wore dirty old gray uniforms which even the best retouchers can't make look like opening day regalia. Next Thursday the Red Birds will wear snowy white.

Tomorrow morning things will be even livelier than they were today, for there is to be a parade. There will be not one silver cornet band but three, not to mention a fife and drum corps and tons of confetti, mangled telephone books, and paper towels. The most stirring feature will rest in the fact that each player—there will be two to a car—will wear a large placard bearing his name.

Thoughtful Mr. Street.

At the drill today Manager Street warned each player to be sure to get the right placard, pointing out that if the boys become confused, as ball players sometimes do, things will get into a tangle. As an illustration, he cited the injustice that would be done to the public if Sparky Adams, who is 5 feet 5, were to get Paul Derringer's card, Paul being 6 feet, 3.

Mr. Street said that some fans might go clear through life without knowing that their mental pictures were awry, while others will worry themselves sick when they try on Thursday to spot the men in uniform from their parade impressions. Manager Street is one of the most thoughtful men in baseball.

Manager Street, in speaking more specifically about the series, denied that he had made definite announcement in Cincinnati that he will start Derringer in the opening game. He did not say, however, that Paul won't get the call, but confined his statement to the announcement that he had not decided for sure.

No Mystery About Gabby.

It should be said in Street's favor that he is not trying any of Connie Mack's mystery hocus pocus, which is causing the otherwise popular Connie to become just a little boresome as he repeats his fox pose year after year. Gabby says he'll make a definite decision tomorrow. And it probably will be Derringer.

It became positive today, it was said, that Jesse Haines, world series hero of other days, will not be able to participate in the impending series. A shoulder injury suffered on Sept. 5 has failed to respond to treatment and the veteran will not be able to do his stuff, at least in any crucial spot.

There was another casualty story before the drill today. It was reported that Pep Martin would not be able to play. But Pep showed up at the practice and said that the only thing that would keep him out of the opener would be bench orders from Manager Street.

Street expects to keep in touch with the club physician, and if Pep isn't able to appear in center field the outfield against left handed pitching will be Hafey, Roettger, and Blades, and Hafey, Watkins, and Orsatti against right handers.

Reasons to Rejoice.

The all season Cardinal fans today refused to concentrate on series betting to rejoice that Hafey and Bottomley are in a virtual tie for the National league batting championship and that the Cardinals this year became the first pennant winner to reach the hundred victory mark since the Giants scored 101 victories in 1913.

Thursday's capacity crowd will have more than the usual local representation through a plan by which the Cardinal management has given preference to St. Louis fans in the distribution of the tickets. Some time before the regular season customers were sold $10 ticket books with the understanding they would be privileged to buy the same reservations for the series. The scheme has enabled St. Louisans to get many of the choice locations that usually are assigned to out of town hot shots at world series time.

MAROONS BEGIN 2 WEEKS' DRILL FOR MICHIGAN GAME

Stagg Praises Work of Sahlin, Zimmer.

The Maroon football team, with two weeks of uninterrupted drill for the Michigan game before it, was given a light workout yesterday. The squad was undamaged, but still weary from Saturday's double-header.

Coach Stagg expressed himself as being satisfied with Saturday's performance, despite the failure of his small squad to stand up against a battering in the second game. He is particularly pleased with the showing made under fire by Vinson Sahlin and Pete Zimmer, his sophomore backs. Wayne Rapp, sophomore end from Long Beach, Cal., and George Schnur, another sophomore who substituted at tackle, also came in for commendation.

The only injury was received by Sahlin, who was injured in three successive dives over the line. On the first he cameup with a black eye, in the second he took a bad scrape on the cheekbone and in the third he was kicked in the head.

While the reserves scrimmaged yesterday the regulars were introduced to the new running offensive which Coach Stagg saved out for the Wolverines. The Maroons used only four plays on offense Saturday. Stagg hopes to have two more useful backfield men available for the Michigan game. Fat Page, Jr. will take a German examination next week which will determine his eligibility and Joe Temple also is expected to clear up his scholastic deficiencies in time for the game.

ILLINI WORRY PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Coach Noble Kizer this afternoon started to iron out the spottiness in Purdue's line play that was evident against the yearlings Saturday. Illinois constitutes Kizer's big worry.

"Zuppke will stop us cold unless you guards and tackles start blocking and charging more effectively," he told the squad.

Kizer was well pleased with the performance of his veteran backs headed by Ed Risk, but disappointed with the guards and tackles.

With the opening double header against Coe and Western Reserve here Saturday as the immediate problem, the squad spent practically the entire afternoon in dummy scrimmage.

The opening day crowd will be swelled by several thousand Boy Scouts, who will be the guests of the athletic department.

MICHIGAN SCRIMMAGES

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Most of the Michigan football squad went through a scrimmage this afternoon. One eleven, generally regarded as the team which will start against the Central State Teachers next Saturday, ran up an 18 to 0 score on the Blue eleven.

The majority of regulars and some of the men who were injured in practice Saturday were worked on new plays. Everhardus, Morrison, Hozer, and Petoskey were used in the scrimmage.

Tessmer at quarter back, Hozer at full back and Stinespring at half back were the ground gainers on the winning team, while De Baker, used for a few plays on the Blue team, gained consistently. Everhardus suffered an ankle injury, and Lindsay, quarter back on the Blue team, sustained a head injury when attempting to tackle Bill Heston. McCrath, a tackle, will be out for 10 days with a broken bone in his hand.

Harry Eastman, a letter winner at half back last season, reported for practice today.

LONG RUNS IN OHIO DRILL

Columbus, O., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Following the game Saturday, when the varsity walloped the reserve team, 78 to 0, came another scrimmage today between the same aggregations. Long runs by Carroll, Cramer, Vuchinich, and Holcomb featured.

Another injury hit the Ohio squad in one of its weakest positions, end, when Gillman sprained his hand and wrist while making a tackle. He will be unable to take part in the Cincinnati game Saturday, team physicians say.

Indications are that little change in the starting lineup will be made when the Buckeyes take on Cincinnati. Dick Smith is set at center. Tackles will be Haubrich and Baumgarten or Bell; guards will be Varner and Gallus, while Ferrall and Conrad or Nasman will play end. Cramer at quarter, Vuchnich at full, with Holcomb and Hinchman at halves make up the backfield.

YALE CUTS PRACTICE

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—For the first time in the history of the "presidents' agreement," which permits Yale, Harvard, and Princeton football practice prior to Sept. 15, Yale today decided that its team was having too much work and therefore canceled the double practice program for the rest of the pre-school period. Two sessions a day could have been held through Wednesday, as college opens on Thursday. The squad held five scrimmages last week and the players were showing signs of fatigue.

BADGER GUARD ELIGIBLE

Madison, Wis., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—The gates were closed on Wisconsin's football practice for the first time today. Coach Thistlethwaite gave the squad no scrimmage. Instead he spent the afternoon on speeding up the offense. Several new plays were given out. It was impossible to recognize a first or second team, the veterans being scattered through two elevens. It was announced that Harvey Kranhold, best of the new linemen, who is slated for a regular guard position, was successful in an examination last Saturday to remove a condition in physics. The status of Molinaro, reserve end, and Wimmer, quarter back candidate, who also wrote condition examinations Saturday, is still unknown.

FOOTBALL for the FAN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

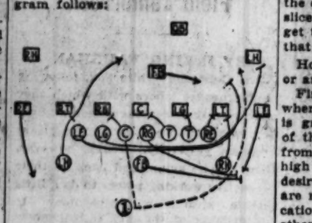
The play which is aimed on the outside of either of the opposing tackles is considered the fundamental line attack of football. Unless this play is highly developed, smashes directly into the line, which does not utilize all of the eleven attacking players, it will not succeed. Neither will wide plays around the flanks be successful.

This outside tackle play [commonly called off tackle] may be worked from any formation. If it can't be worked, at least once in a while, something is wrong with the arrangement of the attacking players or the team is physically outclassed.

Notre Dame's system of shifting backs banks on an off tackle play. It is a "power" play. With the Notre Dame idea of speed it sends the ball quickly to the line of scrimmage. The off tackle play also is a power play in the Warner system. With a single wing back, the original Warner formation, it is a bit faster but no more powerful than when the play is run from a double wing back formation.

How Warner System Executes Off Tackle Play.

The diagram which follows reproduces the off tackle play of the Warner double wing back system which is used by Northwestern. Of course, this off tackle play is but one part of an attack which involves a well balanced offense including passes, direct smashes, spinners, etc. The diagram follows:



Northwestern's off tackle play from double wing back unbalanced scrimmage line.

In this diagram the line is unbalanced to the right, which, according to the Warner idea, has four players on the right of the center and two on the left. The Northwestern right half and left half are called wing backs, for they are stationed on the wings outside of the ends.

The defensive team's line, of course, is balanced and the designations "left" and "right" correspond to the positions of the players and their own center.

Northwestern's right end and the right half [wing back] charge to turn the defensive left tackle in or back. Northwestern's right guard comes out of the line at the snap of the ball and with the assistance of the full back blocks and turns the defensive left end out of the path of the ball carrier.

These are the essential assignments, since No. 1, the ball carrier, runs between these defensive players. If either the defensive end or tackle is not put out of the way the play will fail immediately.

In the unbalanced Northwestern line the tackles play together. One checks the defensive left guard; the other blocks the defensive center. The Northwestern center is responsible for the defensive right guard. The other Northwestern wing back [left half] is responsible for keeping the defensive right tackle from following and tackling the ball carrier from behind. This need not be a complete block and the wing back continues down field to get in front of the runner. He delays the tackle momentarily.

The defensive right end can not reach the runner and so no player is assigned to stop him.

Like all plays, on paper it is good for a long gain.

If each of the offensive players performs perfectly the play will gain. However, more times than not, one of the blockers will not "get his man" or will succeed partially. Example: the defensive left end, a superior player, may smash through, use his hands to dispose of the blocking full back and guard and stop the runner. Or the tackle will outcharge his opponents and pull down the ball carrier. Again, the defensive center or left guard may slice through the line. If they do not get the runner they will delay him so that teammates can stop the play.

How can the essentials of this play, or any play, be seen by the spectator?

First, most spectators do not sit where all the players can be seen. It is granted that, because of the size of the stadia, many seats are distant from the action. But those who sit high in the stands have a view more desirable than those spectators who are nearer the ground. From this location the nearest players obscure the others.

Don't Concentrate on Watching Ball Carrier.

In the second place, the spectator must not concentrate his attention on the ball carrier. A four way vision must be cultivated at the start of each play. Look at the runner but also catch the movement of the players in the line. This is not difficult after practice. After the play starts the vision may be directed more particularly to the point of the attack.

We admit that some knowledge of football strategy is necessary to complete enjoyment. For in football, as in other sports, the game is appreciated in ratio to the individual ability to understand the purpose of the attack. This may be gained only through application.

The defensive backs are responsible for assisting the linemen in stopping the running attack. As soon as they see that the play is not a forward pass the defensive full back and left half will advance to meet the runner, warding off would be blockers. If the ball carrier goes sideways or backward they will not come in but will watch for eligible pass receivers whom they have been assigned to cover.

Ability to diagnose the attack [run or pass] marks these defensive backs as superior or ordinary just as the ability of the linemen to follow the ball and smash through blockers to reach the runner is the test of their value.

(Tomorrow's article will discuss the forward pass.)

ILLINOIS SEEKS PUNTERS

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Signal drill and a special session for punters occupied the University of Illinois eleven today as it began the final week of work before the opening of the schedule here Saturday against St. Louis.

Eddie Schalk, Art Schultz, Sam Glick, and Dave Cook tested their kicking ability. Cook spiraled one or two efforts half the length of the field while the varsity defeated the yearlings Saturday. Efforts by the new punters today sent the ball about 45 yards. Bob Horsley and Bill Charle, diminutive back field men, returned the kicks.

Schalk and Schultz, candidates for the full back position, along with Art Schildgen, Casey Straw, and Ed Snavely, will strengthen their bid for the open berth if their punting wins Zuppke's approval.

TWO GOPHERS OUT

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Only two members of the Minnesota varsity squad were ailing today when the one-a-day practice program was begun. Quarter Back Champlin's shoulder and Full Back Hribar's knee require treatment and they will be inactive for several days.

Coach Crisler indicated that the linemen would come in for the most strenuous drilling this week, as they get ready for the Oklahoma A. & M. game next Saturday. He said blocking and tackling was mediocre in the opening double header.

Some changes in the lineup are expected. Burdick, a back; Oen, a center, and Dennerly, guard, played so well Saturday that they may become regulars.

IOWA CRIPPLES REPORT

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Four University of Iowa linemen who had been out with injuries appeared at practice today as the Hawkeyes drilled for the Pittsburgh game Saturday. It was the first time in ten days that Swaney, sophomore end, had been in uniform. Samuelson and Orvis, tackles, and Merten, end, were able to participate only in light workouts.

The varsity back field hit the freshmen line for consistent gains in scrimmages. Laws, southpaw quarter, tossed several passes which were completed for long gains.

The varsity had little difficulty in smothering Pittsburgh plays demonstrated by a yearling eleven. Foster, Dolly, and Akin were alternated at left tackle in a search for a running mate for Dee.

C. D. G. A. OFFERS SERVICES TO AID UNEMPLOYED

The services of the Chicago District Golf association have been placed at the disposal of Mayor Cermak and Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's commission by George W. Blossom Jr., president of the Chicago District Golf association, to help raise funds for the unemployed this winter.

"We intend to coöperate with the mayor and governor in every possible way," Mr. Blossom states. "Our tournament bureau is prepared to conduct any tournament or series of events for relief of the unemployed this winter. The chairman of the various Chicago District Golf association committees are informed of this action and will also aid in meeting this crisis."

MAROON FOOTBALL.

CHICAGO'S Maroons, whose work was pronounced satisfactory by Director Stagg, according to reports, did not display enough against Cornell and Hillsdale Saturday to cause Midway partisans to expect any marked turnabout in the adverse record of recent years. In fact, it is conceivable Chicago may suffer the same fate as in 1930, which recorded a string of straight defeats after the opening game, punctuated only by ties with Princeton and Mississippi.

Even so, Stagg's young men probably are somewhat better than they looked. The futility or folly or something of asking a squad consisting of barely enough experienced men for one eleven to play two opposing elevens on one afternoon was clearly demonstrated. Some of them played almost two full games because there were none to take their places. Young Stagg, Maroon field general, did play two full games. Hillsdale might have won anyway with its snappy team but certainly many of the Maroons there against them were weary and worn.

One has not the heart to criticize Chicago players. Instead, one feels sympathy for what they are asked to do. The eleven is not hopeless. It will be outclassed in material and reserves, however, by most opponents. There are several more than average players. One lineman, who did not have high school experience, made a most excellent showing Saturday until he tired. Others were doing their part. At least two backs would go places if they had adequate interferers and blockers.

This Maroon outfit may upset some opponent along its schedule. For the sake of a bunch of game boys, competing against almost hopeless odds in most instances, and for the sake of their coach, in his fortieth year at the Midway, The Wake hopes so.

Football Retrospect.

In attempts to forecast 43 football games Saturday, The Wake landed on 37 winners and 4 losers, while two contests ended in ties. Our mistakes were Hillsdale's defeat of Chicago, St. Mary's downing of Southern California, South Carolina's defeat of Duke, and Waynesburg's defeat of Penn State. Only the latter was a marked upset.

I Need You.

I know I could be gay again,
I know that I could play again,
If you would only say again,
I NEED YOU.

These weary hours I'd smile away,
My troubles would be miles away,
If I could only hear you say
I NEED YOU.

Before your fame and fortune came,
We lived on love and dreams.
To win your goal I'd sell my soul,
But you've forgotten, so it seems.
But if some day your fame should end
And you would find you need a friend,
I pray this message you will send—
I NEED YOU. J. Paul Fogarty.

JOE SEKYRA AND LEVINSKY HAVE PUNCHES READY

End Drills for Coliseum Bout Tomorrow.

Joe Sekyra finished preparation yesterday for his fight tomorrow night at the Coliseum with King Levinsky in which he will risk the prestige gained by his recent victory over Charley Retzlaff. Sekyra trained yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium and today he will confine his activity to light exercise.

Levinsky also is reported ready for his first indoor fight of the season. Judged by his showing against Con O'Kelly at White City, Levinsky will be a more dangerous opponent than ever before. His right hand punch, which in other fights missed as many times as it connected, was more accurate, and in that fight Levinsky did what no other ever had done. He had O'Kelly on the floor and only the Irishman's extraordinary recuperative power brought him back to his feet.

Both Try Comebacks.

Levinsky was awarded a draw with O'Kelly, but many of the spectators conceded he had an advantage in the ten rounds because of the knockdowns.

Sekyra and Levinsky are attempting comebacks. Sekyra was defeated more times than not last year until he about faced and climaxed his reversal in form with a victory over Charlie Retzlaff. Since then he was defeated by Tommy Loughran; but at one time in the bout he had the veteran near a knockout.

Levinsky's record is well known. Ranked number four in 1930 in the light heavyweight boxing records, the King has dropped out of the first 20 in the National Boxing association's ratings sanctioned at the Detroit convention this month. Levinsky now is a heavyweight.

King Must Win Early.

The King expects to win by a knockout. If the match goes ten rounds the odds favor Sekyra.

Joe Corbett and Charlie Young meet in a six round bout in the support of the Levinsky fight. Paul Dazzo, Italian featherweight, and Paul Dempsey also are scheduled for six rounds. Spike Herrera, brother of Tony Herrera, will face Mickey O'Shea, and Newt Rickman and Tony Capparelli will open the show. Both of the fights are for four rounds.

A match for the featherweight championship of the world between Battling Battalino and Earl Mastro, leading contender, at the Chicago Stadium on Oct. 16 is expected to be announced soon. Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, believes he has the fighters' managers in line.

MAUREEN ORCUTT LEADS QUALIFIERS IN CANADA GOLF

Miss Van Wie Ties for 3d with 83.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., today won the medal in the Canadian women's golf tournament. Starting in defense of the title she gained a year ago, Miss Orcutt, by her excellent iron play and fine putting, scored an 80 over the Rosedale golf club course that enabled her to tie one shot ahead of Mrs. Alexa Sterling Fraser of Ottawa, three time holder of the United States crown.

Although third place went to Miss Victoria Kirkham of Lachine, Que., the Canadian closed champion, the players from across the St. Lawrence dominated the qualifying round. Fourteen of the 35 who entered from the United States gain the right to compete in the match play which starts tomorrow.

Miss Van Wie Cards 83.

Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, holder of the western title, and Virginia Van Wie of Chicago were close to the leaders with 83's. The two English entrants, Miss Marjorie Kerr and Miss Enid Wilson, each posted 84. Considering that Miss Wilson threw a 9 at the par 5 eight hole, her score was rather unusual.

The Americans, including Miss Orcutt, used the balloon ball, but Miss Wilson switched to the 1.62 sphere used in standard in the dominion and event. As soon as she began her practice session here yesterday, however, she had no better success with it on the greens than with the larger ball.

Miss Browne Qualifies.

Harrison Gets Test Saturday with Lindblom

Capt. Pilney, Andy Puplis, and Kairis, who have led Harrison Tech to two victories, will face their third and hardest test of the season Saturday afternoon at Normal park, meeting Lindblom, which conquered the Techs in the Chicago Public High School league championship game last November.

Harrison Tech thus far has set the fastest pace of the league squads and with the opening games of the league campaign two weeks away will enter the race as one of the favorites to win the 1931 championship. Harrison defeated Morton, 19 to 0, in its opening contest and last Saturday overwhelmed Wendell Phillips, 38 to 0.

The north division race of the Catholic league was officially opened when St. Mel defeated St. Patrick last Thursday night, and all teams in the section will play Saturday or Sunday. Loyola, 1930 champion, will meet St. Michael in its opening contest, Weber will face St. Philip, St. Mel will play St. George, and De Paul tackles St. Patrick.

The latest addition to the Crane Tech line is L. Z. Swygert, whose family recently moved to Chicago from a hamlet in southeastern part of Georgia. Swygert, an 18-year-old tackle, weighs 240 pounds and is 6 feet 3 inches tall.

Nothing but hard work is in sight for Fenger, south section winner last year. For on Saturday afternoon it will meet Ashland High school of Ashland, Ky., state champion for three consecutive years. Ashland has not been defeated for four seasons.

Leo scored its first victory of the season in defeating Calumet last Saturday, but suffered the loss of Jack Moran, its captain and right tackle, for the remainder of the year. Moran suffered a broken arm in the last quarter of the game.

Midway Arena Offers Double Windup Tonight

Matchmaker Johnny Coulon has arranged a double windup for the weekly boxing show at Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, tonight. Georgie Keenan will meet Jack Lewis, while Ralph Lubansky, Hyde Park, will battle Joe Serletic, South Chicago. The show is scheduled to start at 8:30 o'clock. Tommy O'Neil will be the referee.

Honor Wesleyan Coach at Viator Game Saturday

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Plans were being formulated today for Doc Elliott day, in honor of Illinois Wesleyan's new head coach. Students and alumni will pay tribute to Coach Elliott at Wesleyan's first game of the season with St. Viator college Saturday.

North Side Yachtsmen See Harbor Dreams Materialize

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[This is the second of a series of articles on the status of yacht harbor improvements in the Lake Michigan district.]

Yachtsmen of Chicago's north side are beginning to realize their dream of a perfect harbor system which will eliminate the present congested condition and give their favorite sport an impetus it never had before.

The mammoth lake front improvement project being undertaken on the north side by the Lincoln park board and the Chicago plan commission includes, in addition to the present harbor at Belmont avenue, boat havens in the area north of Navy pier, at Montrose avenue, and at Edgewater beach. Work on the second, which will be known as Montrose harbor, already has reached the three-quarters mark and will be completed by the end of the year, according to Hugh E. Young, chief engineer of the plan commission and consulting engineer of the park board.

Belmont harbor for years has been the sole port for north side sailors, and its population is growing too rapidly for its boundaries. The completion of the harbor at Montrose avenue will remedy this condition considerably, since the new port is to be restricted to power craft, including those already at Belmont, which the sail yacht owners will have to themselves in the future.

Montrose Harbor 31 Acres.

The Montrose harbor project owes its present situation to Sheldon Clark, Malcolm D. Vail, and Clark Wright, all of the Chicago Yacht club. The latter two, after viewing the original plan for the harbor section of the improvement, agreed it was too small, and suggested enlargements to Mr. Clark, vice president of the Lincoln park board. He in turn brought the matter to the attention of Engineer Young, who made the necessary changes so that now the area of the harbor is 31 acres. Piers forming an arrowhead will be constructed at the entrance to the harbor to protect the boats within from the ground swell and heavy seas.

Plans for the development of the area north of Navy pier from Ohio street to Oak street include the construction of a series of breakwaters to augment the present one and form a protected harbor for small craft. It is used as a harbor now during good weather, but a running sea makes it impractical.

The most pretentious part of the lake front improvement, that involving the proposed Edgewater harbor, probably will not be completed in time for the World's Fair in 1933, but it will be one of the finest yacht harbors on the great lakes when it is finished. The lake front improvement from Foster avenue to Devon avenue, which will include lagoons at Bryn Mawr and Thorndale avenues, will be ready in time for the fair, but the harbor proper will not, due to the fact that three islands of various dimensions will form it, none of which will be completed at the time.

Islands Protect Entrance.

The smallest of these islands—31 acres of made land—will be a barrier between the harbor and the lagoon at Edgewater. To the south, between Argyle and Foster avenues, will be an 87 acre island, which will form protection from southerly weather, while northeast storms will find themselves halted by a huge island 467 acres in area, which will extend from Glengyle to Devon. The eastward tips of these latter islands will be built so as to form an arrowhead to protect the harbor entrance. The islands will serve other purposes with the construction of bathing beaches and playgrounds on them. The harbor formed by these islands will be 238 acres in area.

Plans for a new clubhouse site and harbor for the Columbia Yacht club, involving the lake front area between Monroe and Randolph streets, will be studied at the next meeting of the executive committee of the Chicago Plan commission, composed of Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman; John Wentworth and Bertram W. Winston.

VINES CAPTURES 12TH DOUBLES TITLE OF SEASON

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, ace of American tennis, won his 12th 1931 doubles title today. Vines and Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, turned in a victory over the national doubles champions, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5, for the Pacific southwest crown. It came as a birthday gift to Vines, for he was 20 today.

With one more tournament to go, Vines already has set a United States season record. Yesterday he successfully defended his Pacific southwest singles title by defeating Fred Perry of England, thus increasing his singles championships to 13.

He plans to leave here Wednesday night to participate in the Pacific coast championships at San Francisco, playing in both the doubles and singles.

NATALIE, WHITE MEET TONIGHT IN CUE PLAYOFF

Pasquale Natalie and Major White, both of Chicago, will meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the playoff of a tie for first place in a pocket billiard tournament which ended Sunday night at the Woods Billiard room, 154 North Dearborn street. White defeated Natalie, 125 to 39, in 14 innings in the final game and gained a tie for first place at six games won and two lost.

White had an opportunity to gain first money, but he lost on Saturday to Coy Julian of Springfield, Ill., 125 to 88. Natalie remained in the race by defeating George Nuss of Kansas City, 125 to 95, after Nuss opened the game with a run of 69, and winning from Charles Summerall of St. Louis, 125 to 95, in 16 innings.

TRESPASS LAW OFFERS SAFETY TO PHEASANTS

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois has one of the most efficient trespass laws in the United States, with full protection given the land owner who wants to use it against uninvited visitors that try to run wild over his property. Right now, with authorities and sportsmen asking farmers to invoke the power of this law to prevent hunters from entering upon their lands to shoot hen pheasants in Illinois, the provisions of the trespass law, which is a part of the game code, take on new weight.

Violators Face Jail.

Here is the way article 28 of the Illinois game code reads:

"It shall be unlawful for any person to trap or hunt with a gun or a dog, or allow a dog to hunt within or upon the land of another, or upon waters flowing over or standing on the land of another, where notice that hunting or trespassing is forbidden is posted or exhibited in a conspicuous place on such land, or where the owner, agent of the owner, or occupant has expressly forbidden hunting or trespassing on such land by publication in the local newspaper."

Article 62 of the code makes a violation of this part of the game code punishable by a fine of "not less than $15 nor more than $100 for each offense," or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than ten days, or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

How Legislation Failed.

Many sportsmen have wondered how the legislature failed to provide protection for the hen pheasants. We were among this number. Ralph Bradford, director of conservation, points out that house bill 153, which extended protection for the hen pheasants, was so amended in the senate that the house refused on the last day of the session to concur in the senate amendments and the bill failed to pass.

SUN BEAU YAWNS AS PLATERS RACE AT HAWTHORNE

Old Champion Rests for Gold Cup Engagement.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The fall racing season opened at the Hawthorne race course yesterday and about 75 horses went into action in eight claiming races.

Then along came Sun Beau, the old champion of the world in money earned, to steal the show. And all Sun Beau did was unload himself from his palatial express car, step rather lively over to his stall in a barn on the back stretch, dine lavishly on oats and crisp hay, then tumble into his easy bed of thick straw to slumber all during the running of Hawthorne's opening program.

Old Sun Beau arrived to fill his engagement in the Hawthorne Gold Cup on Oct. 3. He was accompanied by five others in the Willis Sharpe Kilmer stable. And he gave the impression as he greeted his many Hawthorne friends that he will be rather glad if Twenty Grand, his conqueror in the Saratoga cup, and Mate, the master of Twenty Grand in the Arlington Classic, come on to keep him company in the Hawthorne Gold Cup.

Thirteen Named for Big Race.

Just about the time Sun Beau was being unloaded the complete entry for the Gold Cup was announced. In includes 13 horses, the only topnotchers in the 3 year old and upward division that are still showing anything.

It is a rather sad situation when only that number of horses are left in training at this time of the year for such an event. But you can comb the United States, Canada, and Mexico and find few horses that could make things interesting for those nominated.

The field follows:

Sun Beau, Mike Hall, Mowris, Kai Fung, My Dandy, Jim Dandy, St. Brideaux, Twenty Grand, Mate, Spinach, Brown Wisdom, Plucky Play, and Chief John.

Three Would Be Enough.

This sort of a battle will have the whole country awaiting the outcome. A struggle with only Sun Beau, Twenty Grand, and Mate in it would attract an audience that would cause the walls of the ancient Hawthorne track to bulge and creak.

Traveling into Hawthorne with Sun Beau were Sun Memory, a 4 year old, and the 3 year olds Sun Tree, Suntica, Sunteatime, and Dark Mist.

Long shot players celebrated the opening of the Hawthorne fall season with the most enthusiasm. In the best race on the program Barney Sexton came romping home and in the mutuels paid $31.44 to win, $9.34 to place, and $5.14 to show. The veteran Dodgson, which in recent races had given some promise of returning to the brilliant form of his early career, finished second, beaten a neck, and he paid $5.08 to place and $3.18 to show. Prince Tokkion also rallied and was third at a $2 price of $3.42.

Jones Brings Him In.

Barney Sexton never beat these kind of horses before, but Bobby Jones gave him a powerful ride and he got up in the late strides to take the measure of Dodgson, which faltered after making the pace nearly all the way. Prose and Poetry which, according to the betting, was expected to run pretty well, could never keep pace.

Two horses that they were stoutly backed came home in rather easy fashion. They were Bill Looney in the second race and Griffin in the third. But in the other numbers the choices were always beaten. Fox Chase, the heavily backed favorite, was trimmed in the last strides by Adsum as the opening day program got under way.

Report Big Profits.

It was reported a cleanup was made at Cicero when San Presto won the fourth race at a mile and a furlong, beating Aye Ready, Macedon, and others. The choice was Macedon.

The upsets continued when Clover-club, a field horse, greeted the judges in the sixth race. He got the verdict by a head and paid $21.10. Quibbler, an aged son of Fair Play, was the offending favorite. He was out of the money.

So it went all afternoon. Joe McCord, a 23 to 1 shot, captured the eighth race to cause unrestrained joy among the boys and girls who play 'em by the eenie meenie minie mo system. And I don't know but what they pick most of the winners, after all.

PREP GRID STAR PLAYS TWO DAYS WITH INJURY; DIES

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(AP)—A youngster's code of "do or die" on the football field cost him his life today.

He was 16 year old McCoy Oakley, star end of Livingston [Tenn.] academy eleven who played on for two days without telling any one he had received a chest injury. Thursday he collapsed at practice.

Brought to a Nashville hospital over his protests that he was "all right," doctors found pneumonia had developed. He died today.

STAGECRAFT WINS AQUEDUCT RACE IN NOSE FINISH

Widener Filly Steps Five Furlongs in :58 4-5.

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Joseph E. Widener's filly, stagecraft, won the Beldame handicap at Aqueduct this afternoon in the fastest of the meeting for five furlongs. The daughter of Fair Play and Franconia gave Mr. Widener his first score in the stake, which had a value to the winner of $2,655, but she had only a head to spare at the end.

Stagecraft's time was :58 4-5 and she is the first 2 year old to run under :59 at the meeting. No other has approached that time, which, however, is well behind the track record of :57 2-5, set by Miss Star under 107 pounds in 1922.

She Carries Top Weight.

Top weight of 123 pounds was Stagecraft's impost, a burden four pounds over the scale of weights. Stagecraft handled it well to finish gamely and outlast the Wheatley stable's Unique, which was second by a length and a half over Evening, one of the two sent to the post in the colors of George D. Widener. Straightlace was the other. She was fourth, back of her stablemate, while the Woodland farm's Upturn was fifth and last.

Upturn Has Bad Luck.

Upturn might have been the winner were it not for a slamming she received inside the three furlong pole from Garner and Stagecraft.

Garner came over with Mr. Widener's Colorbearer, which was the 9 to 20 favorite, and hit Upturn hard enough to make Tommy Malley pull up. Upturn dropped out of contention, never recovering from the bump.

Evinrude II. Wins Race from St. Louis to N. O.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The speed boat Evinrude II., racing up the Mississippi river from New Orleans, arrived here at 3:21 p. m. today, with elapsed time of 78 hours and 46 minutes, to win the Koening cup. The boat had been delayed several hours with carburetor trouble and failed to break the record between the two cities, which is 74 hours and 4 minutes.

PANICKY SALES OF BONDS HIT NATION'S BANKS

Many Bargains Seen for Investors.

BY O. A. MATHER.

There is no doubt that in times of depression many people find it necessary to sell securities purchased for investment in better times. However, the pressure of a host of investors throwing overboard sound securities, including stocks, not from necessity, but from unreasoning fear is something not lacking of the courage and good sense of Americans.

Thinking of this situation is expressed in a letter received from one of the big public utility corporations which is worthy of comment and reproduction. The letter might go further and explain that the decline in bond prices, irrespective of the merit of the issues, is one of the factors in making troubles throughout the country. Many banks have either been forced to sell bonds to preserve the existing liquidity necessitated by depositors' demands or have found their bond assets affected by the severe decline in prices.

"Many Opportunities."

"The ridiculous situation in the bond market today should be brought to the attention of every one interested in investment securities," the letter says. "The opportunities now presented for buying sound bond investments producing not only security of principal but also substantial income return over a period of years have seldom if ever been equaled. Many bonds, particularly public utility bonds and debentures, distributed within the last three years may now be purchased at prices 15 and even 50 per cent below the issue at which they were originally offered by responsible investment houses.

"Prices seem regulated almost exclusively by demand influenced to a great extent by the quantity of supply. Quality represented by security and income at the present time seems to be a negligible factor as far as the bid and asked price is concerned. The increasing deposits in savings banks are up to a constant demand for legal investments. Trustees must invest trust funds within a reasonable period and insurance companies have to keep their money working, but have a wide field of investments from which to choose.

"Other investors, however, may keep their money idle if they so desire, hence all bonds not legal for savings banks and trust funds are extraordinarily cheap. Realization on the part of investors that this cheapness is the result of the action of the forces of supply and demand rather than intrinsic weakness in the individual situations must ultimately result in investment buying which will quickly correct the absurd prices at which many prime securities are selling. Money invested in good bonds is better employed than placed in banks or hoarded away."

Specialist Chiseling.

One day last week this column suggested that it isn't quite a square deal for brokers to lend customers' stocks to short sellers. Apparently there are other practices that also ought to be changed, as witness a letter received from a Chicago broker yesterday.

"If the average speculator really knew everything that went on behind the scenes he might realize the tremendous percentage which operates against him," this broker says. "I have in mind particularly the specialist system and I am told that one specialist was 'chiseling' out $3,000 a day. How many times does a customer enter a selling order at a certain price only to see the stock sell temporarily at one-eighth below his price. This is caused by the specialist trading in their own stocks against the orders.

"The most unfair procedure on the stock exchange is the rule permitting specialists to trade and I think you would be doing a favor to the trading public to throw a little light on this subject through your column."

N. Y. Stock Exchange Seat Purchased for $160,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 28.—Arrangements have been completed for the sale of a seat on the New York stock exchange for $160,000. The amount involved is the same as that in the previous transaction. It represents the smallest sum paid for membership on the stock exchange since November, 1928, when a like amount was paid for a seat. In March a seat sold for $550,000, the high price for 1931.

Sharpers Hamper Agencies Seeking to Aid Real Estate

BY SCRUTATOR.

Various agencies seeking to do something constructive for real estate and real estate securities find their work greatly hampered by the activities of a lot of sharp traders who are reaping a harvest at the expense of the public.

Numerous defaults have weakened confidence to a point where the ordinary investor is ready to believe almost any bad news. But the truth is that real estate is not so sick as he fears.

A good share of the pessimism may be traced directly to the work of concerns that spread false tidings about this or that issue, preying upon the fears of the uninformed and buying up real estate bonds for a fraction of their worth.

Their operations are usually based upon bogus quotations and misinformation. The trader shows the bondholder a printed quotation on his bonds at a very low figure, tells him some bad news and advises him to sell quickly to avoid a further loss.

Deliberate Attempts.

Instances of deliberate attempts to dynamite sound issues have been brought to the attention of this writer. In each case the story has been backed by plenty of documentary evidence.

Building B, for instance, is in good shape. Its earnings have been ample for all interest and sinking fund requirements, leaving a sizable balance for net income.

Yet the word has been circulated among holders of the bonds by a concern with an important sounding name that the building is in bad shape and that they had best sell. They have been shown bid and asked quotations on the issue in the low thirties.

Banks who held these bonds as collateral have checked up and found these rumors unfounded. Knowing that the low quotations were ridiculous one banker wrote to the concern broadcasting them offering to buy at the asked price quoted. He received no reply.

A Crooked Deal.

In some cases the outfit making the fake quotations has entered into a deal with the owner of the property after pointing out to him the possibility of buying back his own obligations at a low price.

Building B, is a case in point. Its bonds are backed by earnings sufficient to cover interest and sinking fund requirements, with enough left over to retire some of the principal.

The owner has admitted that he made an arrangement to buy back his own bonds, worth par, in the sixties. Part of the game was to inform the bondholder that default was likely on a certain date. That date passed and, of course, the threatened default did not occur. These operations were halted by the underwriter.

Many bonds are off in price because they are in difficulty. With such issues, too, there is opportunity for racketeering, for a sharp trader frequently finds it easy to make an inexperienced investor believe that a bond should be sold for 30 when it is worth 50, or 20 when it is worth 40.

Must Be a Market.

There are legitimate firms that supply real estate bond quotations, for some sort of market must be maintained for such securities. But reputable houses do not intentionally give out misinformation to affect sales, nor do they attempt to make a big profit on the turnover.

The plundering campaigns of unprincipled traders rob innocent people of money they can ill afford to lose and they adversely affect public confidence in securities in general.

The circulation of lies and false rumors can be prevented only by giving the investor the facts about his holding. Tell him the truth and he can call the racketeer's bluff. Banks, investment houses, and bona fide bondholders' committees can do much to check these evils by making accurate information available to the bondholder.

WALTER J. COX ELECTED HEAD OF MERGED BANKS

Chicago has a new bank president today as the result of the merger of the Chicago Bank of Commerce and the Union Bank of Chicago, which was accomplished Sunday. Directors of the Chicago Bank of Commerce, which name is retained, last night elected Walter J. Cox as president and promoted Henry S. Henschen, who had been president, to the chairmanship of the board.

Mr. Cox formerly was executive vice president of the State Bank of Chicago and held the same position with the Foreman-State National bank following its merger with the State bank. He was associated with these institutions for more than 30 years. He is a graduate of Northwestern university and was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1908.

The increase in trust business as the result of the merger led to a reorganization of the bank's trust department and the following officers were named: Harold G. Townsend, vice president; Taxwell H. Jenkins, vice president and trust officer; Harry G. Keats, trust officer; John M. Treveller and Lester F. Beck, assistant trust officers. The addition of new directors and new officers of the banking department will be announced as soon as the selections have been completed.

It also was announced that the merged banks will start off with assets in excess of $13,000,000, deposits over $10,000,000, and capital surplus and reserves of approximately $2,600,000.

12,000 GET WORK WHEN 21 MINES ARE REOPENED

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Twenty-one collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, many of which had been closed for months and some for more than a year, reopened today, furnishing work for more than 12,000 men.

The reopening represented one of the largest single working orders issued in recent years, officials said. After operations are in full swing, they said, several hundred additional men may be employed.

Increased coal orders made necessary the immediate opening of the mines, it was stated. A large section of the coal fields is affected.

MONEY MARKETS OF EUROPE UNSETTLED; POUND CLOSES HIGHER

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The dollar value of European currencies underwent further changes in the foreign exchange market today as fresh unsettlement was interjected by the suspension of the gold standard by Sweden and Norway, and the possibility of similar actions elsewhere.

The market fixed a uniform rate for Scandinavian exchanges. A nominal quotation of 22.75 cents for cable transfers was given for Norwegian, Swedish and Danish exchange, which represented a drop of 3¼ cents in the value of the Swedish krona and a slightly higher price for the other two, compared to Saturday.

The dollar value of the pound sterling remains the major influence in the foreign exchange market here, and is reflected also in the fluctuation of other leading European currencies. The British pound was buoyant at the opening today, rising 11 cents. It then fell back rather sharply before rallying to close 4¾ cents net higher.

N. Y. BANK COMPANY OMITS ITS DIVIDEND; GENERAL MILLS PAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 28.—Bancomit corporation, controlling Banca Commerciale Italiana trust companies in this city, Boston and Philadelphia, omitted the 25 cents quarterly dividend due at this time on both its common and common A stocks.

Directors of General Mills, Inc., declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on common stock of the company.

Trade bank of this city has preferred action on the quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share. Guarantee Company of North American declared an extra dividend of $2.50 a share. Simjlar extras have been paid in previous quarters.

Southern Berkshire Power & Electric company declared a dividend of 75 cents a share on its $25 par stock. Last previous payment was 75 cents quarterly, Nov. 10, 1930.

The McCord Radiator and Manufacturing company passed its quarterly dividend on the class A stock due at this time. The Lawrence Portland Cement company today omitted its quarterly dividend of $1 due at this time.

Chrysler Corp. August Output Shows Big Gain

Figures just compiled by the Chrysler corporation show that the company's production last month was 232 per cent of output for the like month last year and 113 per cent of production for July this year. In the first eight months this year Chrysler corporation produced 99 per cent as many cars as it produced in the like period of 1930.

Danes to Hold Gold Meeting; European Bank Rates Go Up

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Norway and Sweden were off the gold standard today, apparently as a precautionary step, and the Danish cabinet called a special session of the Folkething [congress] for tomorrow to consider whether Denmark, too, should suspend the gold standard until Nov. 30. A suspension bill, which also would reduce the metallic coverage from 50 per cent to 33 per cent, will be introduced in the Folkething.

Otherwise the principal financial developments in Europe were further increases in bank rates. The Irish bank discount rate went up from 5½ per cent to 6½ per cent and that of the bank of the Netherlands was raised from 2 per cent to 3 per cent. Ireland, because its currency is tied up with that of England, already was off the gold standard.

Golds Demands Heavy.

The bank of the Netherlands has announced that Holland does not intend to suspend the gold standard, since stability of the guilder is assured. The bank raised its discount rate today from 2 per cent to 3 per cent. The Finnish Riksbank, on the other hand, said Finland had no intention of following their example.

Demands on Sweden for gold have been heavy since the British action, commissioners of the Swedish Riksbank said, and the bank's gold reserve had been reduced last week by $25,000,000. Norway's action would have been necessary in any event, Chief Director Rygg of the Bank of Norway explained, and that country took the step to keep control of a situation which he attributed to "overwhelming forces from abroad."

Will Keep Boerses Closed.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The boerse committee announced tonight that stock exchanges throughout Germany will remain closed until further notice. The exchanges went out of operation last Monday as a result of the temporary suspension of the gold standard by Great Britain.

Another important financial action today was the appointment of Eugene Ernst, a member of the Prussian ministry of trade, to the post of federal commissioner of banks. Clothed with powers, he will have the duty of correcting tendencies toward credit crises, such as the emergency which developed last July, requiring a realignment of the nation's budget policies and drastic measures to "freeze" foreign investments in Germany.

The commissioner is empowered to collect accurate information about banking activities. Although, it has been explained, no attempt will be made to intervene in the actual administration of banks unless an emergency develops. The commissioner will work in close coöperation with the reichsbank.

Warns Against Inflation.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening warned the German Association of Savings banks today that the nation cannot risk another period of inflation. The action of Britain in suspending the gold standard has made it more important than ever for the government to steer a steady financial course, he said, and he pledged the cabinet to stick to the program of deflation.

Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, told the bankers that, since most of Germany's external and internal debts are payable in dollars or gold marks, it would be folly for the nation to align itself with Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries by suspending the gold standard.

Expect Others to Follow.

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Wall street widely expects that additional European countries will temporarily leave the gold standard. The chief countries now on a free gold basis are the United States, France, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, and Japan.

Nations on gold have endeavored further to strengthen their position by requisitions upon the United States' large stocks. Exports today, as well as further setting aside of gold for foreign account, resulted in a loss of metal approximating $52,000,000, making a loss in the last week of roughly $240,000,000.

Money was again plentiful in Wall street today, after the temporary tightening last week when some $100,000,000 worth of acceptances were dumped on the market by foreign banks. Today banks were said to have had about $100,000,000 in excess reserves at the federal reserve bank.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES LOWER; TRADE HEAVIER

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The bond market was generally lower today on a heavy turnover in all classes of issues. Sales totaled $16,297,000 on the stock exchange.

The news that Norway and Sweden had gone off the gold standard was not altogether unexpected but the loans of both countries dropped sharply to new low prices. The same was true of Danish bonds., Swedish 5½s of 1954 dropped to a new low at 68 and closed with a net loss of 15¾ points, the largest individual decline of this group. Other losses among the foregoing issues were unusually wide, however. Several German and Argentine loans moved contrary to the general trend.

The average price of twenty bonds each of industrial, public utility and railroad isues reached another new record low level at 84.8, a net loss of seven-tenths of a point for the day. Losses of one point were common throughout the domestic list and a number of them were much larger.

Sales of five bonds of the American Telephone and Telegraph company exceeded $500,000, an unusually large turnover for them, and they closed with varying losses. Atchison general 4s dropped one point on heavy sales. All of these bonds are regarded as high grade.

Yellow Truck Company Builds Aluminum Coach

Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company has developed two new large capacity city service coaches constructed almost entirely from aluminum. It is estimated that the use of aluminum has replaced more than 6,000 pounds of steel in each vehicle.

RETAIL STORES IN CHICAGO AREA SHOW AUGUST SALES GAIN

Retail stores in the seventh federal reserve district showed slight gains in sales over the preceding month, the federal reserve bank of Chicago announced yesterday.

"The expansion of 7 per cent for August over July in the seventh district department store trade compared with an average seasonal increase of 12 per cent. The total for Milwaukee firms showed a decline in the comparison, while that for Chicago recorded a 3 per cent increase over the preceding month. Stores in Detroit sold a 9½ per cent larger dollar volume and those in Indianapolis 10 per cent more. The total for sms cities was 19 per cent greater."

Retail shoe store sales were down, the report continued, and so were those made by wholesale houses, but the sales of 17 chain stores totaled about the same in volume during August as in the preceding month.

J. T. Mahoney Is Elected President of Labor Bank

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 28.—The election of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as chairman of the board of the Federation Bank and Trust company, of Jeremiah T. Mahoney as president of the bank, and of John J. Munholland, as executive vice president, was announced today. Mr. Mahoney, a former Supreme court justice of New York state, succeeds the late Peter J. Brady, who was killed recently in an airplane crash, as president of the bank.

FOUR DIRECTORS OF U. S. LINES, INC., PLAN TO RESIGN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Four directors of the United States Lines, Inc., have signified to the shipping board their intention to resign. The board, at whose instance the men were made directors, has as yet taken no action.

In a brief communication to the board, Ira Campbell, M. L. Hague, and Franklin D. Moody, all of New York, and E. N. Hurley of Chicago made known their desire to leave the line's directorate.

At the inception of the line's financial difficulties the four were designated directors in an effort to improve the lines' condition. They have served since midwinter. With the lines now being reorganized, it was explained at the board that the men felt their work was done.

He carried but $10,000 life insurance . . . yet his wife will get $34,400!

The unusual protection afforded by the Continental Family Income Policy is strikingly illustrated by the experience of a widow with two small children whose husband was insured for $10,000 under this plan. For instead of getting only the face amount of the policy she will, by the time her youngsters are grown, receive no less than $34,400!

Here's what occurred! Her husband bought a $10,000 Continental Family Income Policy (which costs about the same as ordinary life insurance) and died at the end of six months. His widow at once got a cash "clean up" fund of $1,000 and will further receive a monthly check for $100 during the next nineteen and one-half years. At the end of that time she will also be given the full face amount of the policy, making a total of $34,400 paid her on only $10,000 worth of life insurance!

To a man with small children the value of the Continental Family Income Policy is obvious. Regardless of how long he lives his wife is sure of the $10,000 for which he pays, while if he dies early she will be given extra protection while her children are growing up. This remarkable policy also includes a $100 a month disability clause and has a constantly increasing cash value. 'Phone your agent or broker about it . . . today!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 28.—Both bull and bear neglected the stock market shamefully today. The so-called constructive trader could find nothing in the news to cook up excitement over, and operators for the decline were held in check by the stock exchange's questionnaire designed to prevent price "raiding."

Banking interests continued to drop their support here and there on some of the holdings they laid in as a measure of help for the market at the time of England's suspension of the gold standard, and this, with other liquidation, caused the list to subside gently to lower levels. The losses ranged anywhere from a fraction to 5 points or so.

Sales amounted to only about 1,500,000 shares.

Suspension of gold payments by Norway, Sweden, and Egypt caused little concern. The street had been expecting the abandonment of the standard by these countries, in view of their close relationship to Great Britain, but the simultaneous step by all three at this time caused some surprise, especially after the display of strength in Swedish exchange last week. Many had thought that a further effort might be made to maintain gold parity in the last named country at least.

News Means Nothing.

News from other quarters was limited to dividend announcements of the usual character and to another round of bank failures, most of them of second rate importance, in different sections of the country. None of the items came in for more than passing notice, so far as the trend of events on the exchange showed.

Trading was at a leisurely pace all day, the turnover up to the beginning of the last hour barely amounting to a million shares. The ticker was idle for as long as a full minute at a time. The heaviest selling came in the last thirty minutes or so, but the market at no time was in distress.

Railroad shares had another respite from the heavy liquidation which has

THE MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. LOUIS RAILROAD COMPANY

FIRST AND REFUNDING MORTGAGE FOUR PER CENT.
FIFTY YEAR GOLD BONDS, DUE MARCH 1, 1949

To Holders of Certificates of Deposit for the above-mentioned Bonds, issued under the Deposit Agreement dated as of October 3, 1923, as amended by amendment adopted as of September 14, 1931:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Bondholders' Committee has further amended the above-mentioned Deposit Agreement in the particulars specified below and has filed said amendments with City Bank Farmers Trust Company (formerly The Farmers Loan and Trust Company), 22 William Street, New York City, as Depositary under said Deposit Agreement, said amendments being in substance as follows:

1. Article Fifteenth of the Deposit Agreement is further amended by specifying the 5th day of October, 1934, as the date prior to which a plan and agreement shall be prepared or approved and adopted and notice of such preparation or approval and adoption published.

2. The amount that the Committee is authorized to exact or collect from the Depositors or the deposited securities for expenses and compensation of the Committee is increased to not exceeding four per cent. (4%) of the face amount of the certificates of deposit issued under the Deposit Agreement, and Articles Tenth and Eleventh of the Deposit Agreement are amended accordingly;

All as more fully appears from the amendments as filed with the Depositary as aforesaid.

Under Article Twelfth of the aforesaid Deposit Agreement you may, at any time within fifteen days from the date hereof, upon surrender of your certificates of deposit in transferable form to City Bank Farmers Trust Company, Depositary, at its office aforesaid and upon payment to the Depositary for account of the Committee of two per cent. of the face value of your certificates of deposit, withdraw from the said Deposit Agreement, receive bonds of said issue to the principal amount called for by the certificates of deposit so surrendered, and thereupon cease to have any rights under the said Deposit Agreement. Depositors who do not so withdraw within said period of fifteen days shall be conclusively and finally deemed for all purposes to have assented to the foregoing amendments and shall be irrevocably bound thereby.

STOCK PRICES IN LA SALLE STREET ARE MORE STEADY

Trading Slows Up After Previous Action.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Ticker tapes slowed up yesterday and stock prices ruled comparatively steady after a week of violent fluctuations. La Salle street interpreted the change as evidence that the selling storm which raged last week had spent its force. To support this belief was the sharp decline in the volume of trading on the Chicago exchange as well as on other markets. Total shares exchanged amounted to 73,000 shares, which represented a normal day's trade in the weeks preceding the desertion of the gold standard by Britain.

Prices were firm during the greater part of the day, but turned easier late in the period, with most of the active shares closing a fraction to a point lower. No important liquidation appeared in individual stocks. Report had it that the substantial support had been mustered for Middle West Utilities common which had been the target of heavy selling last week. The issue closed off a fraction at 10¾. Insull common was easier and the higher priced Insull shares were proportionately lower.

U. S. Radio Lags.

Trading in U. S. Radio lagged as the street awaited issuance of the company statement for the fiscal year ended July 1. Current estimates put earnings around $5.50 share after substantial chargeoffs for reserves.

It was reported in the financial district yesterday that General Theaters Equipment has arranged a renewal of a $10,000,000 bank loan which matured this week. Preparations have also been made, it is understood, for payment of interest and sinking fund on the company's ten year 6 per cent convertible debentures of 1940 which come due Oct. 1. The concern's annual statement showed a special loan of $10,000,000 obtained for payment for shares of class A common stock of Fox Film corporations. The loan was due last April and was renewed to Sept. 27.

Edison Pays Dividend.

Commonwealth Edison directors yesterday authorized the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the capital stock of the corporation.

The Associated Telephone and Telegraph company reported that net earnings for the six months ended June 30 were greater than for the corresponding months last year. Net profit for the half year period was $1,005,378 after charges including taxes and depreciation as compared with $936,612 in the first half of 1930. The earnings covered first preferred dividend requirements 4.56 times and were equivalent to $8.35 a share on class A shares against $6.01 last year.

W. F. Hall Printing company reports that the number of holders of its common stock has increased over 13 per cent in the last year. The last dividend on the common stock went to 2,172 individual holders compared with 1,922 on the corresponding date in 1930, it was stated.

TRADERS REFUSE TO TAKE POSITION IN GRAIN MARTS

Wheat Prices Close Well Toward Bottom.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

There are so many cross currents in the world's grain situation at the present time that the average trader refuses to take a decided stand on either side, and is waiting for further developments. Little attention was paid to the abandonment of the gold standard by Norway and Sweden, but the fluctuations in sterling and Canadian exchange continue to attract considerable attention, and until the period of readjustment which is now under way is completed erratic price changes in grains are generally anticipated, with ordinary influences counting for little.

Pit brokers claimed that the interest in the wheat market yesterday was unusually light, reflecting hesitation on the part of the trade, although there is a rapidly growing belief that a period of price inflation is in the making. However, the late weakness in the stock market had some effect on sentiment and prices eased gradually and closed well toward the bottom, with net losses of ⅛@⅝c, the September being 47⅜@47½c, December 48c, and May 52⅛@52½c.

Europe After Cash Wheat.

Sterling exchange showed relative firmness yesterday and there was also a marked revival in the European demand for Manitobas, with sales in all positions placed at 1,800,000 bu, the largest business in several weeks, in addition to which the farm board was said to have sold 250,000 bu hard winter to Greece. This had a little effect on the futures market and induced short covering, but upturns were hard to maintain. Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅝c lower, with the December closing at 53¾c, based on sterling at $3.92, while Winnipeg was ¼@⅝c lower, with December at 54⅝c. Canadian exchange was quoted at around 9 per cent discount.

There was some buying of Winnipeg December against sales at Chicago by spreaders, but in the past two days there has been relatively little business with Liverpool and the bulk of the backspreading with that market is believed to be over.

Cash Wheat Selling.

According to messages from the southwest the uneasiness over the situation abroad is expected to result in increased country selling of cash wheat, especially when seeding for the 1932 crop is near completion. However, western Kansas and Oklahoma still remain dry and field work is making slow progress in consequence. A decrease of 1,506,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply, making the total 231,626,000 bu, against 205,732,000 bu last year.

Corn showed an easy undertone and closed within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of ⅝@⅞c, September finishing at 33c, December at 36¼c, and May 40@40¼c. A slow shipping demand, better weather conditions over the belt, and somewhat larger country offerings to arrive were the main depressing influences, but there was little outside interest taken in the market. The trade is inclined to wait for the windup of the September future, fearing that there might be untoward developments. The latter gained fractionally on the December during the day, with deliveries of 134,000 bu.

Corn Cutting Progressing.

Cutting of corn is reported as having made fairly rapid progress in parts of the belt, but husking is not expected to get under way for several weeks. The forecast indicated generally fair and somewhat warmer weather. A decrease of 953,000 bu in the visible supply brought the total down to 5,301,000 bu, against 4,684,000 bu last year.

The oat market was dull, with prices holding within a range of ⅛@⅜c, the finish being easy in sympathy with corn. September closed at 21c, December at 22⅝c, and May at 25¼c. Rye showed resistance to selling pressure, although the trade was light, and finished ¼c higher to ⅛c lower, with September 37⅛c; December, 38⅝c, and May, 40⅞c.

NEBRASKA ASKS HELP

A movement has been started in Nebraska and other corn belt states to encourage farmers to hold their corn, in the hope for better prices, which will put $40,000,000 in the pockets of Nebraska farmers in the next twelve months, says a full page advertisement in the Lincoln, Neb., Sunday Star. The cry is for 60 cents for corn or no sale. In excess of 400,000,000 bushels.

Nebraska will have a crop under 200,000,000 bushels; with 30 cents a bushel on that corn means $40,000,000 additional for Nebraska farmers. Something must be done, it is asserted. The cooperation of bankers, merchants, and every other citizen is needed at this time. A $40,000,000 distribution in the state of Nebraska in the next 12 months means $40 per capita, it is estimated.

The move for organization, it is said, is entirely up to the farmers. It is up to him whether he takes 16 cents for corn or 60 cents. It is planned to have each precinct elect a representative to a county meeting, the county meeting to elect a representative to a state meeting, to be held in Lincoln, when a permanent organization will be formed.

LARD LOWER, PACKERS BUY

Lard was under pressure from liquidators and short sellers and prices declined, which induced packers to take hold, particularly of the near delivery. At the close September lard was 3¼c lower; October, 10c lower, with December off 5c, and January unchanged. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d higher. Rollins were in good demand, with light offerings, and closed 2¼@15c lower, the September leading. Exports of lard 6,350,000 lbs, against 5,567,000 lbs last year. Cash trade was fair for Monday. Hog prices were higher, with receipts larger than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

1932 WHEAT AREA CUT

A reduction of 15,000,000 acres in the world's wheat acreage, which ordinarily produces 160,000,000 to 180,000,000 bu of wheat, is estimated by Russell's News, Argentina and Australia, it is said, have decreased their acreage 6,000,000 acres. The United States will show a decrease of at least 5,000,000 acres and Canada 2,000,000 acres. If, in addition, the Balkans should make a decrease, there would be only one danger of low prices, namely, Russia.

WEST PENN POWER COMPANY
NOTICE OF REDEMPTION
To the Holders of First Mortgage Gold Bonds, Series F, 5½%, of West Penn Power Company:
Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the provisions of the First Mortgage, dated July 1, 1916, executed by West Penn Power Company to The Equitable Trust Company of New York (to which The Union National Bank of the City of New York is successor), as Trustee, that the undersigned intends to redeem on October 1, 1931, all of its First Mortgage Gold Bonds, Series F, 5½%, issued and outstanding under the above mentioned First Mortgage.
You are therefore hereby notified that said bonds will be redeemed and paid on October 1, 1931, at the principal thereof and accrued interest, and a premium of 5% per centum of the principal (the redemption price specified in said Bonds), upon presentation of the Bonds in negotiable form, with all interest coupons maturing subsequent to October 1, 1931 attached thereto, at the office of The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, as successor Trustee as aforesaid, No. 11 Broad Street, New York, N. Y., where and when such Bonds are required to be presented for redemption and payment.
From and after October 1, 1931, the above mentioned Bonds will cease to bear interest and to be entitled to the lien of said First Mortgage, and the coupons for interest maturing subsequent to that date will be void.
Coupons maturing October 1, 1931 may either be presented for payment with said Bonds or may be detached and collected in the usual manner.
West Penn Power Company

August Furniture Orders 26 Per Cent Ahead of July

August orders and shipments by the furniture industry were substantially greater than July, the monthly report of Seidman & Seidman, accountants to the furniture industry, shows. August orders were 26 per cent greater than July and August shipments exceeded those of July by seven per cent. For the eight months ended Aug. 31 total orders booked and shipments made were approximately 75 per cent as much as during the first eight months of 1930. Employment conditions in the industry last month were approximately the same as during the preceding month.

Household's rates are the lowest in Chicago

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate almost one-third lower than the usual Small Loan Rate.

Strictly confidential; husband and wife only need sign; no endorsers.

COOLIDGE'S 2D
CLEARS THE A

Drafters' Silenc
Hooverites Gla

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Calvin Coolidge's announcement that he does not intend to be a candidate for President next year has snapped a lot of political tension here today.

The sage of Northampton's announcement that he intended to support President Hoover for a second term and his counsel to his fellow Republicans to do likewise was generally regarded as having put an end to the "draft Coolidge" movement which has been simmering in Republican circles for months.

The Coolidge announcement, published in today's Saturday Evening Post, drew immediate comment from political leaders of all parties. All professed to see between the lines of the former President's article a loophole which might permit him to accept the nomination if called upon by an overwhelming vote of the delegates at next year's Republican national convention.

Road Clear for Hoover.

But the great majority of politically minded here and elsewhere unhesitatingly adopted the view that Mr. Coolidge's action removes the last possible barrier to the renomination of Hoover.

President Hoover's partisans hailed it as a not entirely unexpected manifestation of party loyalty on the part of a great Republican. The insurgent Republicans of the western states, where the "sons of the wild jackass" delight to cavort and kick their heels, declared that, while Mr. Coolidge was definitely out of the presidential running, they cared not, for neither Coolidge nor Hoover meets with favor in insurgent circles. They are grooming a number of favorite sons to bring forward at the convention, with no thought, however, of nominating them.

Hoover Seems Amused.

President Hoover seemed to display some quiet amusement out of the swirling excitement when he left for his regular Tuesday meeting with the press at noon. A sheaf of inquiries and questions based on Mr. Coolidge's statement was presented to him, but he completely ignored the inquiries and began to talk to other subjects.

Comment from leading politicians on the Coolidge announcement, given through the Associated Press and other sources, follows:

SIMEON D. FESS [Rep., Ohio], chairman of the Republican national committee—The announcement of Mr. Coolidge, what has been evident to all discerning people who are acquainted with his past history and who are familiar with the character and public services of Mr. Coolidge. His statement will silence the manufactured clamor of the anti-administration element. It practically insures the all but unanimous renomination of Mr. Hoover and makes him one of the determining factors in his reelection.

SENATOR JAMES E. W[atson] [Rep., Ind.], Republican leader in the senate—The statement by Mr. Coolidge is just what everybody would expect from him. One of the main traits of Calvin Coolidge always manifested was sincerity, and this statement is the latest manifestation of that trait. I have always believed Mr. Hoover would be renominated.

REPRESENTATIVE WILLIAM R. WOOD [Rep., Ind.]—Mr. Coolidge has showed himself true to tradition and has recognized the practice of the Republican party. He did not endorse the Republican nominee. Of course, he is loyally behind Mr. Hoover, who will be renominated without real opposition in the Republican convention.

Vermonters Accept It.

SENATOR WARREN [Rep., Vt.]—We Vermonters accept Mr. Coolidge's statement as sincere. We think he expresses large measure the sentiment of the country.

SENATOR COUZENS [Rep., Mich.]—Just what I expected. I always thought Mr. Coolidge was too wise to step into a mess like this.

SENATOR HIRAM BINGHAM [Rep., Conn.]—The sentiment expressed is sound political judgment, exactly what one has a right to expect from the wisest politician of our day and generation. It is hardly conceivable that Mr. Coolidge could or would have any other view of the situation. His action gives a splendid example in support of his successor.

SENATOR ROYAL S. CO[PELAND] [Dem., N. Y.]—I have not ta
